New Scourge Threatens Manteno

REVEAL 2D CASE OF DYSENTERY; FEAR EPIDEMIC

7 Other Inmates Put Under Observation.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

Fears of a new epidemic at Manteno State hospital for the Insane became rife last night. Dr. A. C. Baxter, state director of public health, revealed that the amebic dysentery which caused the death of a patient there Monday was of recent origin. A second patient was pronounced ill from the same disease yesterday. The two victims were occupants of the same ward.

Dr. A. C. Baxter.

Yesterday's developments at the institution, where 52 persons have died of typhoid since mid-July, were:

1. Completion of plans to bring drinking water for the 6,000 inmates and employés by rail from Kankakee until a filter can be installed in the hospital.

2. Announcement by A. L. Bowen, director of the state department of public welfare, that he would confer with Gov. Horner next week on the Manteno tragedy.

3. State's Attorney Samuel H. Shapiro of Kankakee county reaffirmed his pledge to push an investigation of charges that criminal negligence was to blame for the typhoid epidemic.

Others Under Observation.

The new victim of the dread amebic dysentery is James Hefferman, who was transferred to Manteno from the Chicago State hospital Aug. 9, 1938. He had been in the ward with Herbert Wise, who died Monday. Wise had been transferred from Chicago the same date. It previously was reported that Wise's death was caused by amebic dysentery, apparently contracted before his arrival at Manteno. Dr. Baxter, however, said a health department bacteriologist at Manteno had informed him the case was a recent one.

Dr. Ralph T. Hinton, managing officer of the Manteno hospital, said Hefferman had been under observation for several days, but that a microscopic examination had just revealed that his ailment is amebic dysentery. He said five women and two other men patients also are under observation.

Dr. Edward F. Dombrowski, managing officer of the Chicago State hospital, said there had been no deaths from amebic dysentery during his six years there and no typhoid cases. He said that two women inmates now are ill of chronic amebic dysentery, but that they had been infected before admission. Dr. Dombrowski said Wise had been at the Chicago institution from September, 1930, until his transfer to Manteno. Hefferman was admitted in October, 1926.

Railway to Haul Water.

When the second dysentery case was diagnosed yesterday at Manteno, Bowen decided that all drinking water would be brought from Kankakee in glass-lined milk cars of the Illinois Central railroad and then distributed by truck to the hospital buildings. Between 15,000 and 18,000 gallons are needed daily.

Dr. Baxter yesterday said that approximately 20 members of his staff have been stationed at Manteno since the middle of August, when the typhoid cases reached the proportion of an epidemic. The staff members include public health nurses, physicians, epidemiologists, sanitary engineers, and bacteriologists. Dr. Baxter also said that his department had warned the public welfare department on numerous occasions that the water at Manteno was unfit for use. He said the health department had no power to enforce its suggestions to state institutions.

Bowen said he had received these warnings. He said they mentioned evidence of pollution, but contained no warning of a danger of typhoid.

"If there was any negligence there, it is mine," said Bowen. "Whether

Just Mention His Auto and Gust Sees Red

Wenona, Ill., Oct. 20 [Special].—Two weeks ago Gust Falk's 1927 model sedan disappeared and nobody missed it except Gust.

But now everybody is talking about it. Ask Police Chief James Hogan, and he'll say with a laugh:

"I never heard of such nerve. That's one for the book!"

Ask Earl Goodneck, state highway policeman, and he'll say:

"I tell you, it's comical, just comical!"

But ask Gust, a retired farmer who takes care of the Lutheran church here, and he gets indignant.

Gust Finally Loses Hope.

Gust was quite put out when his car was stolen. The thief just sneaked into his garage in the dead of night. Gust reported the theft to local and state police, but no trace was found, so he speedily lost hope and bought another secondhand car.

Gust's indignation is not merely over the theft of his car but because of the nerve of some one who wants his help in cashing in on the car.

Then He Gets a Letter.

He received a letter postmarked Williams, Ariz., which read:

"Dear Sir: I have sold the 1927 Chevrolet two-door sedan to Mr. John A. Miller, East End Wrecking Yard, Williams, Ariz., so please mail the certificate of title to him at once.

"Yours very truly,

"Jack Jacobsen.

"P. S. Have this changed to this man's name. I can't collect without it."

HE PRESERVES THE PEACE—AND LOTS OF PEARS

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 20 (AP).—Fellow policemen will tell you Sergt. Nels Sorensen is a "tough copper."

At the Sorensen home Nels' five children will tell you he's a whiz in the kitchen. For nine years, since the death of Mrs. Sorensen, he has been both father and mother to them.

Today, for example, Nels put up 24 quarts of pears, did the housework, and made a huge kettle of soup before reporting for duty. Down in the basement are 200 quarts of canned goods, most of it from his own garden.

SAN FRANCISCO FAIR STARTS BANKRUPTCY ACTION IN U. S. COURT

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 20 (AP).—The San Francisco world's fair management filed proceedings under a special section of the emergency bankrupt laws in federal court late today, stating help of the court was sought for "an orderly and equitable liquidation of its affairs." The petition listed debts of $4,606,914.

The proceedings were filed under chapter 11, a section of the bankruptcy laws to enable a composition of debts for unsecured creditors. Suit may be filed in this way only by those threatened with involuntary bankruptcy proceedings, attorneys explained.

Assets were listed but not evaluated in the petition. The list contained chiefly a description of the various buildings of the Golden Gate International exposition and of the concessions, preparing today for an expected record week-end attendance, as the advanced Oct. 29 closing date nears.

MA LEAVES, PA'S TROUBLES BEGIN; TOLD TO MAKE UP

Hard luck story:

Joseph Kelly—Judge, I'm 80 years old. Elizabeth's 65. We were getting along fine on our farm out by Tinley Park when my stepson and his wife moved in on us. Then we had trouble. Ma moved out with them. She got $15 a week alimony. I had to sell my cow to pay it. That left me no milk. The only thing I had I could cook was eggs. While I was running around on this case, someone stole my corn out of the field. Now I can't feed my chickens. If they don't eat, I don't—so long as Ma isn't there to cook.

Sequel:

Judge Oscar F. Nelson in Superior court—I'll cut your alimony to $10 a week. You induce your wife to come back. I'll issue an injunction, then, to keep her son out.

When It's Mathematics, All Cavies Can Do Is Multiply

Patagonian cavies can't subtract, and they aren't so good at long division, either. But they can multiply to beat the band, Director Edward H. Bean of Brookfield zoo says. The zoo started out with three cavies 18 months ago. Four times three equals 12, the total as of yesterday, when two baby cavies arrived. Cavies are South American relatives of guinea pigs, which may explain a lot.

English Radio Lures Nazis by Prisoner Lists

New York, Oct. 20 (AP).—The British are trying out a new idea to get their propaganda over in Germany—tempting the Germans to tune in on a radio broadcast of news items favorable to the allies by sandwiching in the names of German prisoners of war.

Listeners on short wave sets, describing the new persuasive method today, said the German language is spoken thruout the daily broadcast from 10:15 to 10:45 p. m., Berlin time [3:15 p. m. to 3:45 p. m., Chicago time].

The broadcasts originate in the studios of the British Broadcasting corporation. Twenty names are read daily. Ten names are repeated from yesterday's list, and ten new ones are added.

A Sample Broadcast.

The program was beamed toward Germany from powerful short wave transmitters in Daventry, England, it was stated. The actual reading of the names takes only about half a minute; the rest of the time is given over to the reading of the news items.

This was given as a sample of the broadcast:

"The Anglo-French-Turkish pact means a diplomatic defeat for Germany. Germany tried very hard to hamper the negotiations among the three friendly powers. Herr Von Ribbentrop [German foreign minister] played an active rôle in Germany's attempts to wreck the agreement in advance."

Tells of Rites for Nazis.

The announcer went on:

"Two German U-boat officers will be buried with high military honors at Edinburgh. They are U-Boatman Seidel and Schleicher. Fifty officers and sailors will attend the services, priests will officiate, and wreaths will be laid by officers and troops who participated in yesterday's battle."

Fish Story Economics: Angler Saves Spent Doe

Colonial Beach, Va., Oct. 20 (AP).—J. T. Drumbon went fishing. While his boat was in the middle of the Potomac river, two miles from shore, Drumbon saw an object drifting with the tide. It was a full grown doe, exhausted in an attempt to swim the river. Drumbon lassoed the animal, hauled it in and turned it over to Game Warden P. H. Gouldman.

ITALIANS MUST BARE POLICY IN WAR, NAZIS SAY

Call Turkey's Move Threat to Rome.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—German and Russian circles today expressed the conviction that Turkey's signature of a 15 year mutual assistance pact with Great Britain and France will force Italy "to come out in the open and clearly define her position in the war." Italy repeatedly has stressed she intends to remain neutral.

The military pact which was signed at the Turkish capital of Ankara yesterday provides that England, France, and Turkey come to the aid of one another in case of aggression leading to war in the eastern Mediterranean and the Balkan areas.

Declare Turks Want Isles.

Altho the Nazi government has made no official statement regarding the agreement, Nazi and soviet sources said:

"Everybody knows the Turkish government agreed to sign a pact with France and England because it wants the Dodecanese Islands, which now belong to Italy. Turkey believes it can get these islands by playing the French and British cards at the present time."

[Italy occupied the Dodecanese Islands in the Aegean sea in 1912. By the treaty of Lausanne, which came into force Aug. 6, 1924, Turkey ceded them to Italy. Last July the Turkish press demanded the return of the islands, which are peopled by Greeks.]

The official Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz charged that the only reason Britain and France insisted upon the pact was because of "their eagerness to extend the conflict" to southeastern Europe.

Sees Britain's Dream Come True.

"England's old dream of control of Gibraltar, the Suez canal, and the Dardanelles has come true," the foreign office mouthpiece said.

Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz expressed consolation that one clause in the Turkish-French-British pact provides that "Turkey cannot be compelled to take action which would lead to participation in armed conflict against Russia."

Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, arrived in Berlin tonight and conferred with Adolf Hitler for several hours. Von Papen delivered a personal report on the new tripower pact.

Calls Envoy to Rome.

Hans von Mackensen, German ambassador to Rome, has been instructed to report to Hitler. He is scheduled to confer with Premier Mussolini before returning to Berlin.

Alexander Schvarzev, soviet ambassador to Berlin, who remained in Moscow after accompanying Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop on a flight to confer with Dictator Josef Stalin last month, returned to the German capital and resumed work at the embassy. Von Ribbentrop concluded the German-Russian nonaggression pact on that trip.

The German high command reported all was quiet on the western front.

"Quiet returned in the west after the conclusion of fights in the border region southeast of Saarbruecken," its communique said. "Except for local artillery and scouting troops' activity, no special occurrences along the entire front."

464 Repatriates Arrive.

A total of 464 Baltic Germans from Estonia reached Gothenhafen [Gdynia] this morning by ship. They were the first of an estimated 8,000 repatriates from Estonia and Latvia who will be settled in former western Poland.

When the repatriates landed they were served coffee by a Nazi women's organization. They were also promised food supplies of more than a million pounds of flour and 700,000 pounds of canned meat. The first group will be settled in the Polish bathing resort, Alderhorst.

Special ration cards will be given to the Baltic Germans. They also will receive preference over other Germans in the distribution of textiles.

The repatriates were permitted to bring their families to Germany.

4 BOMBERS BUILT FOR BRITISH FLY ACROSS AMERICA

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 20 [Special].—Flying under sealed orders, four bombardment planes built for Great Britain by the Lockheed Aircraft corporation of Burbank, Cal., took off shortly after dawn today and headed eastward toward the Atlantic seaboard.

Camouflaged for action and bearing the bull's eye red, white and blue insignia of the British royal air force, the big bi-motored monoplanes, classified as reconnaissance bombers, are believed destined for Newark, N. J., as part of 60 "interned" ships to be kept in hangars in the east pending outcome of the congressional embargo repeal fight.

No Violation of Law.

It was explained that there is no violation of neutrality in flying the bombers across the United States because they have not yet been delivered to the British government, altho the manufacturers are following British orders in sending the planes to an eastern port where they can be shipped quickly across the Atlantic when and if congress lifts the arms embargo.

Great Britain last year contracted for the purchase of 250 reconnaissance bombers at a cost of $27,000,000, but delivery of the ships was halted by invocation of the neutrality act while 90 aircraft remained undelivered. It is expected that the remaining 86 also will be ferried across the nation to eastern ports.

Planes Cost $80,000 Each.

Built at a cost of $80,000 each, the ships can travel more than 250 miles per hour and carry a full bomb load more than 1,000 miles.

While admitting that the bombers had taken off, Lockheed officials said the ships' orders were not to be opened until they were in the air, a virtual wartime procedure.

"We don't know whether they've gone east or north," one source said.

It was learned that two of the bombers went by way of Albuquerque, N. M., apparently flying the main transcontinental route, while the second pair headed for El Paso, Tex., on the alternate coast-to-coast flight plan.

REPORTS U-BOAT FOUGHT PLANE IN AIR OFF CANADA

New York, Oct. 20 [Special].—A story of a battle between a submarine and an airplane off the coast of Canada reached New York today with the Icelandic steamer Godafoss, which arrived from Reykjavik with 22 passengers, six of them Americans, and 10,000 barrels of herring.

Ragnar Arnason, an Icelander, said a German U-boat arrived in Reykjavik harbor Sept. 19 and put three sailors ashore for treatment of injuries. "One of them," Arnason said, "had two bullet wounds in his left arm and splinters in his thigh. He was detained at a hospital, while the two others rejoined the submarine, which slipped out of the harbor next day."

It was reported in Reykjavik, Arnason said, that the sailor was wounded when a plane shot at the submarine while it was on the surface off the coast of Canada. Other Icelanders aboard the Godafoss told of another German submarines which stopped at Reykjavik on Sept. 20 in quest of oil, which was refused.

BRITISH PUT EVEN A FELLOW'S SHIRT UNDER DICTATOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 20.—A shirt dictatorship has been set up in Britain, it was revealed tonight. The first indication that men's shirts now were under government control was given to citizens by publication in the Board of Trade Journal details of the "control of shirts order 1939."

The order provided a government certificate must be obtained by any one intending to sell a shirt made of all wool or wool and cotton. Britons fear a shirt pool may come into existence, with fixed price and quality for shirts of a standard brand.

The cotton board is expected eventually to be saddled with the responsibility of running the shirt dictatorship.

Fells a Deer at 50 Yards with His Bow and Arrow

Bozeman, Mont., Oct. 20 (AP).—Seth F. Bohart, Bozeman attorney and archery enthusiast, came down from the mountains today with a six point buck deer shot with an arrow. Bohart dropped the deer with one arrow at a distance of about 50 yards, using a 75 pound bow. The animal weighed 234 pounds dressed.

300 SURVIVORS LAND IN FRANCE; 67 ARE KILLED

Steamers Stray from British Convoy.

BORDEAUX, France, Oct. 20 (AP).—Tales of terror and suffering were told tonight by many of the 300 survivors from two British steamers sunk by a submarine Tuesday in the Atlantic about 500 miles off the Spanish coast.

Those who could manage it sang "God Save the King" and "My Country 'Tis of Thee" as Capt. D. J. McKenzie brought the rescue ship, the American freighter Independence Hall, into port.

Some of the survivors were barefoot. Many of them had suffered heavily from exposure. Long rows of ambulances were drawn up and many nurses were waiting when the small freighter steamed into the harbor.

Believe 67 Lives Lost.

A revised estimate was that 61 persons lost their lives in the sinking of the Yorkshire and six or seven in the sinking of the City of Mandalay.

Scores of the survivors were carried off the ship on stretchers and taken to hospitals. An American steward on the Independence Hall collapsed from overwork when the ship reached port. He was hospitalized.

All those rescued were English and East Indians en route to England. A number were in a serious condition from hours in the cold seas in lifeboats. Many children were among them and a few English soldiers.

Bad Case of Jitters.

About 60 passengers aboard the Independence Hall themselves got a bad case of jitters when a submarine appeared near the freighter as it was engaged in the rescue of survivors from the City of Mandalay at dusk Tuesday, they related tonight.

Some of those rescued said the City of Mandalay and the Yorkshire were grouped with 19 other ships being convoyed by warships, but became separated after one day out from Gibraltar.

A submarine described by British passengers as German first struck at the 10,183 ton Yorkshire after following it all day. That was between 3 and 4 p. m. A half hour later the submarine struck at the 7,000 ton City of Mandalay. The number of passengers aboard the two was in excess of 300.

Two SOS Messages.

The Independence Hall got an SOS about 4 p. m. Tuesday from the Yorkshire and then shortly afterwards, another from the City of Mandalay. Putting on as much speed as possible for the freighter, Capt. McKenzie's crew reached the City of Mandalay first, about 40 minutes later.

Two of the Mandalay's lifeboats were awash, with scores of people floating in the heavy seas girded in lifebelts. By the time the freighter reached it the City of Mandalay was breaking in two. Rescue work took two hours because of the tremendous seas. Tons of oil were thrown on the water.

A child 4 years old in a lifebelt was rescued, but its mother died. As the 60 Independence Hall passengers did what they could to help, a submarine believed to be the same as that which sank the English boats, suddenly emerged from the sea near the rescue freighter.

Dives Into Sea Again.

Both survivors and passengers aboard the rescue ship screamed their fright, the passengers said, but the submarine merely signalled, "How many have you saved?" It remained alongside a short time and then dived once more into the sea.

The weary crew of the Independence Hall then set out for the Yorkshire but was unable to reach that spot until 10 o'clock Tuesday night.

The Yorkshire sank nine minutes after it was torpedoed, the survivors said. Those rescued were in lifeboats. The victims long since had disappeared beneath the waves.

Turns Toward Bordeaux.

Brilliant moonlight aided the crew of the Independence Hall. The freighter, its accommodations already crowded with its own passengers and survivors from the Mandalay, took aboard the Yorkshire's survivors and then turned toward Bordeaux.

Women took turns sleeping in available cabins which the regular passengers deserted for the emergency. Many of the women slept on floors. Many were without shoes when they jumped into the icy sea. Bundled in blankets, the men slept on the open deck and in the carpenter shop. Others less hardy were given the heat of the engine room.

New Theory on Sinking.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 20.—It was reported in diplomatic circles here that the British liner Clement was sunk by the German steamer Schwabenland, which had been used as a floating refueling base for German airmail planes flying between Germany and South America. It was originally reported that the Clement was sunk by the German pocket battleship Admiral Von Scheer.

The version that it was the Schwabenland that sank the liner was brought here by sailors, who also report that the Schwabenland was sunk two days later by a British cruiser. The cruiser was reported to have taken off the crew of the Schwabenland and also the captain and first officer of the Clement, who were taken prisoners when the Germans sank their vessel.

The Schwabenland was a German cargo vessel which had been refitted with an airplane deck and a catapult. It was anchored in the South Atlantic midway between Brazil and the African coast. German planes carrying mails landed alongside the base ship, were derricked onto the deck, refueled, then catapulted off. Because of this catapult takeoff German mail planes did not carry passengers on the trans-Atlantic lap of the flight.

German airmail service between Europe and South America was suspended immediately upon the outbreak of the European war. This would have freed the Schwabenland for whatever war service the Germans cared to use her.

NAZI GENERAL AIDS AMERICAN WIFE OF A POLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—Ernst Udet, German world war ace and now aviation general and chief of the ordnance department of the air force, assisted a destitute American wife of a Pole near Warsaw, it was disclosed today. During September he received a telegram from Los Angeles. It was signed by Harold Buckley and Merian Cooper. The message asked him to try to find Marjorie Slomczynska in Milanovek, near Warsaw, and give her $200.

Udet instructed his men to find the woman. After a long search, his aids discovered her and her son, Juan, living in a tiny room.

She told soldiers she had fled from her house in Warsaw before the end of the siege. The house was almost destroyed. She said she had only 60 cents and added that a Warsaw bank refused to cash a check she had received from America at the outbreak of the war.

The first soldier reported to Udet who sent another soldier to her with $200. The woman gave the soldier a receipt for the money.

CHICAGOAN FREED BY NAZI CAPTORS, WIFE IS INFORMED

Mrs. John Miller, who returned to Chicago Thursday with her son, 7 years old, from Prague, Czecho-Slovakia, received a cablegram yesterday that her husband had been released by Nazi authorities and was in Genoa, Italy. The cablegram said Miller was on his way home.

The Millers had gone to Prague to claim an estate left by Miller's father. When the Nazis seized the country the estate was confiscated and Miller detained. His wife and son were permitted to leave. The Millers now live at 3724 Cermak road.

French Machine Gunner Shoots Down Nazi Plane

PARIS, Oct. 20 (AP).—Adjt. Charles Legris was cited today in an army dispatch as the first Frenchman in the war to bring down an enemy plane by light machine gun fire from land. The dispatch said Legris saw two Messerschmidt pursuit planes flying low over Bettwiller, southeast of Sarreguemines Sept. 24 and started firing on the first ship. The plane plunged to earth and the pilot, who landed safely in a parachute, was taken prisoner, the report said.

MUTINOUS CREW AND STORM PERIL SHIP PASSENGERS

2 Rival Seamen's Unions Fight, Ignore Officers.

New York, Oct. 20 [Special].—Experiences of passengers on two American ships which weathered a savage hurricane as they brought war refugees from Europe occupied the attention of marine circles today.

Stories of insolence and insubordination among the crew were told by passengers aboard the liner Acadia which docked last night. The liner President Harding will arrive tomorrow morning with 73 persons injured, the largest storm casualty list to reach this port in many years.

Acadia passengers asserted that members of the crew engaged in fist fights, used abusive language to officers and refused to obey them. The service was so poor, they said, that two mothers were unable to get proper food from stewards for their babies.

Some of Crew Desert.

Many of the passengers and even some of the ship's officers complained that crew members refused to clean tables in the dining room, were insolent and troublesome. Other members of the crew were reported to have deserted the ship at Cobh, Ireland.

Ships officers said the trouble arose from union disputes. They said members of two rival maritime labor organizations—the National Maritime union, an affiliate of the C. I. O., and the International Seamen's union, a unit of the American Federation of Labor—engaged in a dozen fights during the crossing.

Sixteen crew members and six passengers on the Acadia received bruises and other injuries during the storm which Capt. Robert H. Allen described as the worst he has seen in 30 years. The master said he prevented further injuries by ordering passengers to remain in their cabins during the four hour blow.

Man Swept Overboard.

The same hurricane swept one man overboard from the liner President Harding and injured many of the 73 other victims so seriously that at least 20 will have to be taken off on stretchers. The United States Lines said 15 passengers and 11 members of the crew would require immediate hospitalization.

Ambulances were assembled today to meet the Harding when it arrives at 7 a. m. [Chicago time] tomorrow at her Hudson river pier. The city of New York will have six ambulances at the pier; the line will provide eight, and the Staten Island Marine hospital an additional number. A large squad of physicians and nurses also will be on hand.

A coast guard cutter, responding to distress messages from the Harding, met the ship far out at sea. Thru raging seas, the cutter shot a line aboard the vessel to transfer medical supplies.

Australia Orders Military Training for All Boys, 20

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 20 (AP).—Prime Minister R. G. Menzies today announced a government plan for compulsory military training of boys who will be 21 years old by July 1, 1940. The training, beginning in January, will apply to home service only unless the men volunteer for overseas service.

President Fixes U-Boat Zones

The map indicates the four limits mentioned by President Roosevelt yesterday in defining restrictions on submarine operations by belligerents in American waters. While forbidding foreign submarines within three miles of American coasts, the President recalled that territorial waters were extended 150 miles in prohibition days to catch rum runners and that the Panama declaration had outlined a neutrality zone averaging 300 miles from lands of 21 western republics. The President added that under certain conditions the territorial waters might be held to extend 1,000 miles from the coastline.

ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY SCHEME MAY BE REVIVED

Warning Given in N. Y. Against Project.

New York, Oct. 20 [Special].—Proponents of the St. Lawrence seaway may attempt to capitalize war hysteria in a new effort to arouse public support for the project, Richard W. Lawrence, president of the New York State Chamber of Commerce, said today in an address before the New York State Waterways association in the Maritime exchange. The chamber has been a leader in opposing the canalization and power development of the river.

Urging those who oppose the plan not to relax their vigilance, the speaker said that arguments for the construction of the St. Lawrence waterway on the ground it would be an important contribution to our national defense are most vulnerable to attack.

"But despite this fact I am afraid that it will not be difficult at a time when hysteria is in the air to arouse fresh support and to create a fictitious atmosphere of wide public demand for the project as a whole, unless those who are opposed to it are doubly vigilant," he said.

Envisions Evil Effects.

Calling the St. Lawrence project "one of the most economically destructive undertakings ever proposed," Lawrence said it would menace the railroads, the coal industry, other inland waterways, and the American shipping industry.

In discussing the international aspect of the waterway, Lawrence said he felt that despite our traditional friendship with Canada, it would be a mistake for the United States to make a tremendous expenditure of public funds to deepen the St. Lawrence when its only outlet to the sea is entirely within a foreign jurisdiction.

Foresee Negotiations.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 19 [Special].—Because Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario has at last assented to the construction of the St. Lawrence waterway, it is believed highly possible here that the Canadian government will shortly reopen negotiations with Washington for joint development of the Ontario section of the river as a source of electric power.

Hepburn and Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec have been the chief Canadian opponents of the St. Lawrence scheme. Hepburn's opposition was the more formidable because without Ontario's consent and financial support the power development feature of the waterway scheme could not go forward.

Makes Reservations.

But Hepburn told Prime Minister Mackenzie King when he visited him here two weeks ago, that he was now prepared to coöperate in the project. He made certain conditions, however. One was that the United States approve Ontario's plans for diversion of water from the Albany river basin into the Great Lakes and the utilization of this additional water for power at Niagara.

Another was American consent to the exportation of Ontario power at Cornwall, thereby permitting the Ontario hydroelectric commission to recall power now exported at Niagara.

The new draft treaty submitted by Secretary of State Cordell Hull to the Canadian government in May, 1938, will presumably be the basis of new negotiations between the two governments. It envisaged the Albany river diversion which Hepburn wants.

POLISH U-BOAT WHICH ESCAPED REPORTED IN BRITISH NAVY NOW

OSLO, Norway, Oct. 20 (AP).—The Polish submarine Orzel, which escaped from the Estonian harbor of Tallinn on Sept. 18, was said by reliable sources here tonight to have joined the British navy on Oct. 14.

The escape of the Orzel from Estonian waters was seized upon by soviet Russia as an incident calling for Moscow's intervention in the Baltic. Estonia's coast was placed under heavy guard by the soviet navy following the submarine's escape.

The Orzel, completed in 1938, was built for a compliment of 56 men and is equipped with three guns and eight torpedo tubes. Displacing 1,110 tons, the submarine is fitted for mine laying.

ROOSEVELT SETS A 3 MILE LIMIT FOR SUBMARINES

Defines Territorial Lines for Belligerents.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Oct. 20.—President Roosevelt, here for the week-end, today drew a three mile limit about the United States as a zone forbidden to belligerent submarines.

For the first time since he issued his proclamation barring undersea craft of combatant nations from American ports and territorial waters, Mr. Roosevelt defined the no man's land for submarines.

However, he set up a double standard of territorial waters. He gave the proscribed area for foreign submarines as three miles, but added the reservation that the definition of territorial waters depends entirely on the circumstances.

As Much as 1,000 Miles.

He pointed out that under the Panama declaration the 21 republics of the western hemisphere outlined a neutrality zone averaging 300 miles off their coasts. Under certain conditions, the chief exective said, the line might be extended as far as 1,000 miles off America's coastline.

Before he issued his proclamation Mr. Roosevelt placed the extent of the nation's territorial waters as far out as the country's interests dictate. Today he acknowledged that this broad definition did not apply to the ban on belligerant submarines.

He recalled that in prohibition days the territorial waters were extended as far out as 150 miles to trap rum runners. Under varying circumstances in the present European conflict the limit might be moved out to sea or closer to the United States shores.

Types Considered Separately.

In this connection the President emphasized that submarines and surface craft must be considered separately. Asked whether the proclamation would be extended to include armed merchantmen, Mr. Roosevelt said he did not consider the two analagous and that he would have to look up the law on merchant vessels.

Told that his proclamation was issued under the authority of a section of the neutrality act which empowered him to ban submarines and armed merchantmen from American shores in the interests of maintaining American security and peace, Mr. Roosevelt said that it was like trying to add apples and pears to group the two types of vessels.

The two are different and must be handled differently, he insisted. His proclamation quoted the section of the neutrality act which groups submarines and armed merchantmen, but Mr. Roosevelt appeared to be unaware of this fact.

17 'War Prisoners' Held by Belgium; 12 Are Nazis

BRUSSELS, Oct. 20 (AP).—The Belgian government today announced it was holding 17 "war prisoners" and named a commission to deal with them. The prisoners include 12 Germans who crossed the frontier by mistake, four British aviators, and one French flyer.

SUNDAY TRIBUNE BRINGS EUROPE'S CHANGES TO LIFE

Maps to Dramatize 800 Years' History.

Eight maps in color, showing the 800 year drama of European history in the change of boundaries and the rise and fall of empires, will appear in the Graphic Section of tomorrow's CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE. These are of distinct educational value, and are accompanied by brief sketches of the events, men, and forces that brought about the changes. They begin with the 12th century and end with the events of the week.

Superintendent of Schools William H. Johnson, who was shown a copy of the map page last night, said the maps were the finest of the kind he had ever seen. He recommended them for use by students of history.

Tells Need of Visual Material.

"Growing events and history in the making," he said, "are frequently clarified by an understanding and appreciation of past history. Visual materials such as the maps published by THE TRIBUNE are in keeping with the well known educational practice of interpreting the present and anticipating the future in the light of the past.

"The use of this material by the student of history should be especially valuable during these times of swiftly changing scenes in Europe."

Puffer Urges Wide Use.

Every pupil and teacher should have one of the sets, said Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools. He estimated that it would cost between $25 and $50 a set to supply similar maps for schoolrooms if they were made to order and bought commercially.

The maps strikingly illustrate the change in tempo of world events. Between the first and second maps, showing the Europe of the 12th and the 16th centuries, there is a period of hundreds of years of relative stability. The maps representing modern Europe show the last 25 years producing as great changes as were made in all the eight preceding centuries. A study of the maps leads to a deeper appreciation of the work of the historians who have written of these changes.

BRITISH RAILWAY MEN ARE OFFERED $10 A WEEK PAY

LONDON, Oct. 20 (AP).—A national tribunal today awarded railway workers the 50 shillings [about $10] a week minimum they asked in a strike which was ordered just before the war began, but which was called off.

The award is subject to acceptance by the workers and employers. It would involve wage increases totaling nearly £1,000,000 [about $4,000,000].

About 350,000 Lancashire cotton workers were granted a 12½ per cent wage increase under agreements reached at Manchester.

BRITISH FLYERS REPEL NAZI RAIDS UPON EDINBURGH

Country Is Upset Again by Air Warnings.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Air raid alarms upset the British Isles again today. No bombs were dropped but repeated alarms were sounded in Edinburgh, capital of Scotland, and around the Firth of Forth this morning and afternoon. An eight minute alarm also was sounded at Portsmouth, in the south of England. This warning apparently was an error and local authorities are investigating.

"Precautionary measures were taken when unidentified aircraft appeared over the Firth of Forth and air raid warnings were sounded over the district," it was announced. "No bombs were reported to have been dropped and the all clear signal was given within an hour. A second air raid warning was sounded shortly."

Second Statement Issued.

Later a second communique said: "A number of aircraft believed to have been German attempted to make reconnaissances in the Firth of Forth area during the morning and early afternoon.

"Royal air force fighters took off to intercept them, but they disappeared before contact.

"An air raid warning was sounded over Edinburgh shortly after 11 a. m. and extended to Dundee. All clear signals were given about midday but a second air raid warning was given in Edinburgh some minutes later on the appearance of other unidentified aircraft in the Firth of Forth area.

"No raid developed and the all clear signal was given shortly after 1:30 p. m."

People Take to Shelters.

Reports from Scotland said anti-aircraft guns in Edinburgh began booming and white specks of smoke were seen in the sky before the sirens started whining. Traffic and people in streets and offices took shelter. German warplanes were observed over the city. British fighting planes took to the air, pursuing the Germans to the west.

During the excitement royal air force men kept guard over the coffins of two German aviators killed in the raid on the Firth of Forth Monday, when the Germans damaged three British warships and 16 English officers and sailors were killed. The German flyers were buried in Portobello cemetery at Edinburgh this afternoon.

BRITAIN DEFENDS RIGHT TO SEARCH AMERICAN MAIL

LONDON, Oct. 20 (AP).]—The ministry of economic warfare said today that mails of neutral nations, including the United States, passing through British contraband control bases were searched for contraband and then "forwarded to their destinations."

The ministry made its statement when asked about reports in Washington, D. C., that American mail intended for Germany had been seized, censored and then returned to the United States by the British.

"In no case have these [the mails] been returned to their country of origin unless there has been a special request from the dispatching office," the ministry declared.

The ministry said examination of mails was "fully authorized under international law." It added that "letters may for instance contain money, which is absolutely contraband, or essential commodities may be packed in a large number of parcels."

Hollywood Items

HELEN KEEBLER.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 20 [Special].—In a surprise elopement B. P. Schulberg, motion picture producer, was married today at Las Vegas, Nev., to Helen McHale Keebler, screen actress, formerly of Chicago. He gave his age as 46 and she said she is 26.

The ceremony was performed by a justice of the peace shortly after the couple arrived in Las Vegas by plane.

Schulberg was formerly head of Paramount Pictures. His first wife is Mrs. Ad Schulberg, and they were divorced here in 1938 after 22 years of married life. The new Mrs. Schulberg first came to Hollywood in 1936. She used the screen name of Lynn Keebler.

GALE PAGE.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 20 (AP).—Gale Page, screen actress and singer, obtained a divorce yesterday from Frederick M. Tritschler, Chicago investment banker, on grounds of cruelty.

"He made fun of and ridiculed my artistic friends in their presence," she testified, adding that Tritschler was cold and indifferent.

The actress, whose real name is Sally Rutter, was awarded custody of their son, Frederick Tritschler Jr., 8 years old and $525 a month support.

Colombia Warns Mutinous Ship Crew to Obey Orders

BOGOTA, Colombia, Oct. 20 (AP).—Colombian authorities warned crewmen of the German freighter Hellgoland today that they must follow orders or face mutiny charges. The warning came after the captain complained that the crew, mostly Chinese, refused to sail for Europe. The ship was still anchored at Puerto Colombia.

FRENCH PATROLS BATTLE NAZIS IN NO-MAN'S-LAND

Foes Struggle for Control of Strategic Points.

PARIS, Oct. 20 (AP).—Small patrols of French and German advance guards were reported tonight to have skirmished in no-man's-land on the western front as the two armies jockeyed for possession of isolated heights and small wooded areas to strengthen their new lines.

Military dispatches from the front indicated that the no-man's-land about a mile wide separating the new positions of the two forces lay wholly in German territory.

The high command night communique reported reconnaissance and local artillery action between the Moselle and the Saar rivers. The report said a few prisoners were taken, but that all was quiet on the front east of the Saar.

The French line, apparently followed almost exactly along the frontier to which the French withdrew before a German attack the first of the week.

Center of Northern Flank.

The outpost activity was said to have been confined mostly to the two areas where the Germans attacked in force just east of the Moselle river and between Saarbruecken and Zweibruecken in the center of the northern flank.

French artillery shelled the German road from Perl to Sehndorf, just across the frontier near Luxemburg, in an effort to break up reported troop concentrations at the point where the Germans gained a toe-hold on French soil earlier in the week.

The night communique said:

"Patrol and reconnaissance activity between the Moselle and the Saar. We made a few prisoners. Local artillery activity in the same region. All quiet generally on the front east of the Saar."

Quiet During Night.

The morning communique reported:

"All quiet during the night. Rainy weather. Patrol activity on both sides at many points."

[The German high command's communique yesterday said "Quiet returned to the west after conclusion of fights in the border region southeast of Saarbruecken. Except for local artillery and scouting troops' activity no special occurrences along the entire front."]

A French disclosure that a unit of one officer and 50 men had been lost during a dawn patrol last Monday indicated to military observers the seriousness of the effort being made by both sides to cover their new positions.

Cold, Heavy Rain.

The patrols were operating in a cold, heavy rain which has fallen generally on northern and eastern France for four days.

Behind the lines, the poilus in rest billets played soccer and worked at building theaters where entertainments will be given for men out of the front lines.

British Lift Restriction on Gas and Electricity

LONDON, Oct. 20 (AP).—The government today removed the rationing restriction under which gas and electricity consumption was cut to 75 per cent of pre-war figures. It was found the restriction designed to curtail use of coal was unnecessary since people used much less gas and electricity because of the nightly blackout.

Flies to Manville

[Acme Photo.]
ELINOR TROY.

New York, Oct. 20 [Special].—In one of the American Airline's most luxurious ships Miss Elinor Troy, pretty Hollywood hopeful, was flying eastward alone tonight to meet Tommy Manville, millionaire playboy.

Manville chartered the ship at a cost of $3,000. He demanded the "most luxurious model." Miss Troy boarded it near Hollywood as the sole passenger. Her only companion was the stewardess. The ship has accommodations for 28 passengers. It is due here at 8 a. m. [Chicago time].

Before starting the trip last night Miss Troy, who went to Hollywood to enter pictures three months ago, said Manville had telephoned her during the day and had urged her to come to New York at once. She was quoted as saying she would marry the asbestos heir in New York. But Manville tonight scoffed at the report, saying four marriages were enough for him. He said he merely wanted Miss Troy "to do the town" with him. "She's gorgeous, I love her, and she's terrific," he added.

SCOLDS BRITAIN FOR NOT RAIDING WAR OBJECTIVES

LONDON, Oct. 20 (AP).—The Weekly Spectator today sounded a note of criticism at the lack or air attacks on German military objectives by British planes.

"Policy has muzzled them," the Spectator said. "What is impossible to understand is the policy that turns our airmen into an express postal service"—a reference to leaflet raids over Germany.

"Why are they not allowed to attack military objectives?"

Polish Groups Plan National Campaign to Aid Motherland

BY MARCIA WINN.

The republic of Poland will arise again. This belief was repeated over and over again at an extraordinary session of the Polish All-American council, which concluded a two day meeting yesterday.

More than 400 delegates attended the meeting, held in the Polish Roman Catholic Youth hall, 984 Milwaukee avenue. The council, which represents two of the six million Americans of Polish descent, originally was formed for cultural purposes. But now, because of the tragedy which has overtaken the mother country, the council has become a militant body working for the relief and resurrection of Poland.

Opposite groups and ancient rivals joined forces at the session. Sixty-five Roman Catholic priests were present. So were 12 Polish National Catholic priests and eight Protestant ministers. Fraternal, educational, cultural and labor groups attended.

Four Objectives Stated.

Henceforth, according to resolutions adopted yesterday, their objectives will be fourfold:

1. To obtain contributions for those stricken or made needy in Poland by the Nazi and Russian invasions and for those now refugees in bordering European countries.

2. To campaign against defamation of Poland and conditions in Poland.

3. To oppose actively all agitation and propaganda by agents and friends of the Nazis and communists in the United States to stop them as a menace to American institutions.

4. To enroll not only the people of Polish ancestry, but all Americans who are in favor of democracy in the cause of restoring a free and independent Polish nation in a democratic sovereign Polish republic.

The council began work by dividing the United States into districts, and setting up a board to guarantee that the money it raises will go to Polish relief. It plans to work with the American Red Cross and all other agencies which are helpful in giving relief.

"Poland at this time is exactly in the same position as Belgium was in the world war," a spokesman said. "We should profit by the work of relief and aid as it was carried on in Belgium.

"We are convinced Poland will rise again. We take the position that out of her 35 million people, no matter how many they kill off, there will be enough left to resurrect the Polish nation.

"For 130 years she was wiped off the map of Europe, but the Poles lived, continued and repeatedly rebelled until they were born anew.

Same Language, Same Ideals.

"They didn't digest Poland after swallowing her 130 years ago. Poland had blood flowing thru every town and city and village, yet she arose, with the same language, the same ideals. She will again."

Attorney Francis X. Swietlik of Milwaukee, dean of Marquette university law school and grand censor of the Polish National alliance, was elected president of the council. Other officers are: Vice presidents, Dr. Teofil Starzynski of Pittsburgh, president of the Polish Falcons, and Mrs. Honorata Wolowski of Chicago, president of the Polish Women's alliance; treasurer, Joseph Kania, president of the Polish Roman Catholic union; secretary, the Rev. Mitchell Starzynski of the Rescurrectionist Congregation of Priests.

A VIVID PICTURE OF SUFFERING BY POLISH REFUGEES

Miserable Horde Huddles Outdoors in Icy Rain.

[This is another of a series of dispatches by Alex Small describing the collapse of Poland. In previous dispatches he told of his travels thru the country invaded by the armies of two neighbors. Here he gives a vivid description of the sufferings of refugees in the German occupied portion of Poland.]

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Oct. 20.—The railway station at Lublin had been wrecked. Most of the tracks still were torn up but the Germans had put enough together to enable some trains to run. For the army transport they apparently did not use the railways at all inside Poland. They had made only enough repairs to enable them to move some food for civilians by rail.

On that evening, Sept. 25, crowds of refugees filled the whole station platform and shivered in the darkness, waiting for a train to take them to the Vistula river. From time to time the crack of a rifleshot was heard from the other side of the tracks. A sentry was shooting at some one he saw—or thought he saw—prowling about.

The train was made up with two passengers coaches and a long line of freight cars. Some of the latter had roofs, but most of them were open flat cars.

Germans Sorted Out.

Then energetic soldiers drove back the pushing and tearing mob and sorted out the "volksgenossen"—German blood brothers—from the ordinary mortals.

"Blood brothers" came first and among them the women and children got preference and were herded into the passenger cars. The men among the volksgenossen got the roofed freight cars. We two Americans rated the tail end of the line and climbed into the open flat cars. The bitter wind cut to the bone and we squatted in the dark with Polish railway men about us. They were being taken back to the westernmost part of Poland to resume their work.

The train finally crawled painfully out of the yards as if feeling its way. It passed one great fire which we had been noticing on the horizon. It was a huge coal dump which had been burning for 10 days—since it had been set afire at the same time the station was bombed. The Germans had made no effort to extinguish the fire.

Train Halts for Night.

Then our train dashed ahead madly and in only about two hours covered about 30 miles to Pulawy, where the soldiers on guard told us that we were going no farther and would have to spend the rest of the night there.

That night at Pulawy probably was the most miserable we had passed in all of our refugeeing. An icy rain drizzled down on top of the men in the open cars. The men finally revolted and defied the orders of the German sentries shouting in the dark to stay where we were. We all invaded another freight train lying alongside. It had cars which at least were roofed. In dripping clothes we huddled in the corner of a freight car while the temperature outside fell to the freezing point.

We two Americans seemed to be in worse shape than the other refugees who were now snoring on the floor around us. It was because we had been at the game longer than they had. We were feeling the cumulative effect of the scanty and troubled sleep of night after night and the short and sometimes almost nonexistent rations of day after day, without mentioning the anxiety and strain on our nerves. Then I understood how prolonged refugeeing brings people to the point where they drop or in extreme cases go out of their minds.

Forced to March Three Miles.

At dawn the train started moving and we all had to jump out in a panic because this train was on its way north to Deblin, where we were not supposed to go.

Soldiers butted the whole trainload into line. We formed an Ellis Island type of procession, marching three abreast for 3 miles over jagged cobblestones which turned our ankles and made sore feet sorer, while the children whimpered and the women moaned with fatigue. That brought us to the Pulawy bridge where we were to cross the Vistula.

Pulawy, a town of 9,000 inhabitants had been almost completely destroyed by air bombing. Looking thru windows of facades still standing we saw only heaps of rubbish behind. Evidently the Poles had put up a fight at this crossing of the Vistula for the walls also bore the marks of artillery fire. But it looked as if not one single house or building had been missed by the air bombers.

Chapel Destroyed by Bombs.

What seemed like a gratuitous bit of destruction was a charming little chapel of the psuedo classic type once much appreciated in Poland and which was standing isolated on a little hill. Its bombing clearly was no accident. The plane must have swooped low, aimed especially at this building and scored a direct hit which blew off the roof and crumbled its classic columns.

Retreating Poles had blown up the east end of the bridge at Pulawy, but German engineers had rebuilt the destroyed part so solidly that they boasted it would carry a fleet of the heaviest tanks. A big sign told us it was now called the "Magdeburg bridge."

Perhaps the first carefree breath we had drawn in two weeks was when we crossed that bridge and put foot down on the west bank of the Vistula. Now, finally, we felt that we were safe from the Russians. I still could not believe that the Germans really had ceded the whole Lublin plateau to the Russians, but their withdrawal across the Vistula still was continuing and I was glad to be following the procession.

Makes Meal with Baby Food.

We were now at a village called Gora Pulawska, which also had been heavily bombed altho a few houses still were standing intact among others that had been ruined.

There still remained, however, the problem of food and transportation. We solved the first by getting hot "ersatz" [substitute] coffee from the army kitchen, mixing with it spoonsful of a patent baby food, a can of which we had bought in an apothecary's shop at Moroczno four days previously. We also had some liver paste which the Germans had given us the night before and smeared it on stale bread.

Army trucks, which were crossing the Vistula half empty, agreed to take along "volksgenossen" refugees and Polish railway men whose services the Germans appeared to need in a hurry. A sympathetic officer agreed to let us rate as "volksgenossen" so the truck carried us for 37 miles to Radom.

Zwolen a Total Wreck.

About midway we passed thru the large town of Zwolen, which I think was more thoroly destroyed than any other place we saw in all of Poland. The bombers apparently kept after Zwolen until they hit every house.

Radom we found in a quite different situation to Lublin. Evidently it had suffered far less by bombing and the Germans had occupied it long enough so that all life was organized. A good part of the civilian population there was accepting the new order of things. Some stores even were open and so were restaurants where we got a hot and not even bad meal.

LAW AUTHORITY SAYS REPEAL OF EMBARGO WOULD BE UNNEUTRAL

Repeal of the arms embargo would be an unneutral act, Thomas J. Norton, authority on international law and lecturer at the John Marshall Law school, asserted last night. Norton said the present prohibition of arms shipments to belligerents is a step in the direction of true neutrality.

"When countries are so uncivilized that they have to go to war to settle their differences, the United States should have nothing to do with them," Norton asserted. "I am in favor of extending the embargo to include prohibition of shipment of all goods to belligerents. If all neutral nations took this step, the war would soon be ended because of a lack of supplies in the warring countries."

Norton said the present embargo was proposed and passed in the calm days of 1935, when legislators had a fair perspective on the situation, and that the is no rational argument for lifting it now that war is on. The 300 mile coastal neutrality zone drafted at the recent Panama conference would be impractical and has no precedent in international law, Norton said.

FREEDOM'S BASE IS FREE PRESS, INSISTS BOLLES

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 20 (AP).—Representative Stephen Bolles of Janesville, Wis., told the Illinois Press association tonight that "there can be no national freedom without a free press and by the corollary there can be no free press without a free nation."

The Wisconsin editor and congressman addressed the banquet of the association at its 74th annual meeting at the University of Illinois. He said: "Newspapers have a responsibility at this particular time in our history when we are involved in a great discussion of what is best for the United States. You have a coequal responsibility with your congressman and senators to the people of the nation, to the whole world in general for the preservation of civilization.

BANDIT'S FATHER TELLS ATTEMPT TO KEEP SON FREE

Paid $2,300 to 2 Attorneys, He Testifies.

Philip F. Heintz, a Winnetka broker, was the chief prosecution witness yesterday in Judge James F. Fardy's Criminal court at the second trial of two former assistant United States district attorneys charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Heintz is the father of Hubert Heintz, who testified Thursday that the two attorneys, Edward A. Fisher and Francis J. Kennedy, had his hair bleached in an effort to prevent his identification in the $55 robbery of a Household Finance branch office at 3150 Lincoln avenue on Nov. 4, 1938. Heintz confessed the robbery.

The elder Heintz disclosed on the stand that he had paid the defendants $2,300 in connection with their handling of his son's defense. Most of this money, he testified, the attorneys said they needed "to pay out to our contacts in the state's attorney's office and among the police."

First Check for $200, He Says.

"When I was called to Attorney Fisher's office and my son admitted the robbery," Heintz said, "Kennedy asked at once, 'Where's the gun? We'll have to get that out of the way.' They said the matter would have to be handled carefully."

He gave the attorneys a check for $200, Heintz said.

"About 10 days after I last saw my son," the witness said, "Fisher and Kennedy came to the house and announced, 'We have a gentleman here with us. Do you know him?' Hubert walked in. His hair was about 10 shades lighter and his mustache dyed.

Tells of Raising $1,800 More.

"I told the lawyers I didn't approve of what had been done, but Fisher said, 'Well, Kennedy felt we'd need a disguise. That will make it harder for him to be recognized.'"

"A day later Heintz was told by the lawyers, he said, to hand over an additional $300 "to take care of our contacts." On Dec. 7, when young Heintz was released after arraignment in Felony court because witnesses described the robber as dark haired and smooth shaven, Fisher called the elder Heintz to his office.

"He said he and Kennedy had done a good job in getting Hubert freed and now he wanted $3,500," said Heintz. "I told him I thought that was high and couldn't raise that much. They again said they had to pay their contacts. I raised $1,000 and gave them $800 more the next day."

LUCAS ATTACKS ARMS EMBARGO AS WAR INCITER

Says Fight Over Repeal Stirs Trouble.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—Senator Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] defended the Roosevelt administration's neutrality repealer in the senate today as a measure that "will do more to keep us out of war than any type or piece of legislation ever written."

Hiram Johnson [top] Scott W. Lucas

Lucas denounced the contention of the senate nonintervention ists that repeal of the arms embargo provision of the neutrality act is a step toward war. This, he said, is an unjustifiable conclusion, supported by no facts.

It is made in the "thin air of conjecture and speculation" and it has done more "to create a war psychology in this country than any other statement that has been made in all the debates," Lucas declared.

Answer to Johnson.

The contention which Senator Lucas challenged had been reiterated earlier in the day's session by Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.], who said the arms embargo repealer was intended to put the United States halfway into the European war, on the side of Great Britain and France, and inevitably would take the country all the way in.

The administration's cash and carry scheme of selling munitions and other materials to belligerents, Senator Lucas argued, "negates everything that brought us into the war of 1917 and 1918." He praised the address delivered yesterday by Senator Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], the majority leader, and said it demonstrated that the sinking of American vessels by German submarines was the one thing that dragged us into the world war.

Once Supported Embargo.

The senator's statement that the pending bill would "do more to keep us out of war than any type or piece of legislation ever written" was reminiscent of a statement he made in the house of representatives on March 15, 1937, in support of the existing neutrality law, with its arms embargo. On that occasion, Senator Lucas said:

"All the arguments against the bill fade into insignificance when the true benefits of the measure are considered. I can visualize this measure becoming a real bulwark of national defense. Of course, this measure is not perfect and no neutrality bill ever will be. Yet, to me, it is the most potent weapon yet designed to stop a war before it starts. This forward-looking piece of legislation will do more to keep us out of the endless, futile, and tragic wars of Europe than all of the previous negotiations, agreements, and laws written by American statesmen and diplomats. My hope is that the vote on the bill be almost unanimous."

Today Senator Lucas said he always had contended that "what is neutrality today may not be neutrality tomorrow."

"Of course," he said, "the law at the present time on the statute books is for the benefit of Germany. When it is repealed, such repeal will operate for the benefit of France and England. There cannot be any question about that."

Senator Lucas denied, however, that the arms embargo repealists "are being controled by France and England."

"I hold no brief for the countries across the way, whether it be England, France, Germany, Italy, Russia or any other country," he said. "Of course, I am not impartial, and no other individual in America is, when he knows what is going on over there.

Looks Only to America.

"However, on the question of neutrality, I look only to my America. I am casting a vote on the joint resolution only from the standpoint of what I conceive to be the best interests of my country, to the end that America keep the peace, and that we do not go to war. My conscience will be clear when I cast that vote, because I shall have voted for what I believe to be the best."

Senator Lucas denounced the statement by Senator Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.] that the war department is proceeding with plans for the conscription of boys 18 years old. Such statements, Lucas said, create "a certain war psychology such as that which exists in the United States at this particular moment."

Lucas said he had received many letters from Illinois mothers expressing fears aroused by the Clark speech. He felt called upon to challenge Clark's "misleading" statement, he said, "because I happen to be at this particular moment a member of the staff of the Illinois national guard and I believe I know what is going on with respect to this phase of the military operations in my section of the country."

Senator Clark, who is a member of the military affairs committee, and an intimate friend of Harry H. Woodring, secretary of war, was not on the senate floor.

"What is this law, or part of the law, the repeal of which is asked—yea, demanded—by Great Britain, by France, and by practically every internationalist in this country?" Senator Johnson exclaimed. "It cannot be too often emphasized that the embargo provision of our law was for some years upon the books, and that it was notice to all the world of the policy we intended to pursue.

Applied to All Equally.

"It was an embargo applicable to all nations. It fulfilled every requirement of a law of this sort. To repeal it now at the instance of one belligerent is simply to do as that belligerent desires, and to commit an unneutral act. It is asserted by the proponents of repeal that this should be done because the act as it stands is favorable to Germany and disadvantageous to the allies.

"It has for the time of its existence been a law equally applicable to all nations. To be claimed by those whose sympathies would lead them to violate our neutrality, and I confess the urge is strong and I can forgive those who permit their mentality to be overwhelmed by it, that the Germans have been preparing and have great stores of arms, and munitions, while the allies have little.

"There is nothing to justify this but the bald statement of perfervid advocates. Certainly the records of this country show no such disparity in the arms, ammunition and implements of warfare that have been obtained by Germany. Indeed, the records of the munitions board show but little in this category purchased here. As to aircraft and appurtenances, over 120 million dollars have been expended by Great Britain and France, while the expenditures of Germany have been negligible.

"The existing law prohibits the sale to all nations alike of arms, munitions, and implements of warfare. It is the only fair plan that could be adopted.

"It was back in 1936 that the President spoke of this law, and highly praised it. He then said:

Has But One Purpose.

"'As a consistent part of a clear policy, the United States is following a twofold neutrality toward any and all nations which engage in wars that are not of immediate concern to the Americas. First, we decline to encourage the prosecution of war permitting belligerents to obtain arms, ammunition, or implements of war from the United States.

"'Second, we seek to discourage the use by belligerent nations of any and all American products calculated to facilitate the prosecution of a war in quantities over and above our normal exports of them in time of peace.'

"Whence comes the mighty movement to repeal the arms embargo? Surely it cannot be to safeguard American neutrality, and this was the rational policy declared by the President. It isn't to do naught to encourage the contest, for the repeal would be just the reverse. Why, then, the uproar? It can have but one purpose—to have us take sides in the war. In methods short of war at first, but inevitably in methods that will measure our full strength as a partisan.

"There are many senators, doubtless, who approve it on the ground that it will help the allies, and that the allied victory is in American interest. But this is a mere gamble. Such stakes are involved in the gamble that I decline to be a part of it. If these senators wish to give military or other help to the allies to win the war, and if that is their motive, then the lifting of the embargo is an act of intervention."

Brown Assails Lindbergh.

Senator Prentiss M. Brown [D., Mich.], a supporter of the arms embargo repealer, denounced references to Canada made by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in a radio speech on Oct. 13. The Lindbergh statements which Senators Brown quoted included: "Can we rightfully permit any country in America to give bases to foreign warships, or to send its army abroad to fight while it remains secure in our protection at home? . . . We desire the utmost friendship with the people of Canada. . . . But have they the right to draw this hemisphere into European war simply because they prefer the crown of England to American independence?"

"I rise in the senate," said Senator Brown, "for the purpose of denying that Col. Lindbergh speaks for America; denying that he speaks for any considerable section of the American people.

"Unquestionably he bases his remarks upon the principles of the Monroe Doctrine. His reasoning shows that he had this doctrine in mind.

Not Essentials of Doctrine.

"His suggestions do not carry out the essentials of the Monroe Doctrine. The Monroe Doctrine is not a measure which in any way whatsoever fetters the free right of Canada to govern itself with respect to movements of its armies and the establishment of naval bases. It circumscribes it in no manner.

"I challenge the statements of Col. Lindbergh. He speaks with no authority whatsoever but his own. He does not represent the views of any considerable part of the American people.

"His argument as to the right of the United States to deny Canada control of its affairs, specifically to prevent it from sending an army abroad, to prevent it from building an English naval base on its shores, and his unasked advice that the connection with Great Britain be cut, is not only a gratuitous insult to a sister nation, but it is based on a wholly erroneous concept of our continental American policy."

BORAH DEMANDS ENTIRE STORY OF 'NO WAR' REPORT

Challenges White House to Give Details.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho], challenged the Roosevelt administration today to make public the record of the White House conference on the night of July 8, when the President was told that congress would not repeal the arms embargo provisions of the neutrality act.

Senator Borah made his challenge in the senate as a result of a speech made yesterday by Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], who said:

"It has not been long since I heard the senator from Idaho vehemently prophesy that there would be no war in Europe this year."

"In the interest of truth," said Senator Borah, "I ask those who state that I made such a statement to state all the facts, what the President said, what took place in the discussion and what I said and it will be found that one prophet is about as well off today as the other.

"The subject of whether or not there would be war grew out of a statement of the President and a conversation in regard to it, and an expression of view upon my part. I should be exceedingly pleased to have the entire conversation stated, and to have the interview, or whatever it may be called, revealed in full.

"While I myself do not propose to take the responsibility of doing that, I think those who have referred to it in part ought to refer to it in full."

Barkley said he had no desire to reveal the details of the conference but felt justified in referring to the statement attributed to Senator Borah because it had been published by the press.

According to others present at the secret White House conference, Senator Borah's observation was not so much a prophecy as an expression of his opinion of Great Britain. The opinion he expressed was that there would be no war in Europe if Great Britain could avert it by surrendering to Hitler the territory of some other country, as was done at Munich.

JAPAN RESENTS GREW CRITICISM OF ACTS IN CHINA

But Hopes to Appease United States.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 21 [Saturday].—Resentment was expressed in most quarters today at the refusal of America to recognize the new order in East Asia. The refusal was expounded by American Ambassador Joseph C. Grew in a speech before the American-Japan society on Thursday.

Foreign Minister Kichisaburo Nomura is expected to call in Ambassador Grew shortly and endeavor to remove obstacles standing in the way of friendship between the two countries.

Nomura declared last night that Japan's resolve to construct a new order is unshatterable. "It seems that the United States is concerned about keeping the European war out of the American continents," he said. "Japan is of precisely the same mind in preventing the conflagration from spreading to the far east. I think the United States should well understand Japan's position.

Peace in the Pacific.

"We should work together to establish peace in the Pacific while maintaining peace in the respective parts of the world to which each belongs."

The foreign minister declared he was determined to clear up the strained atmosphere with Russia and to establish normal relations. He said border disputes and other pending questions must be settled amicably. He added that he expects the border demarcation commission soon will be established at its base for work in connection with the Outer Mongolia-Manchukuo frontier squabble.

The newspaper Asahi this morning said that America, on one hand, holds its Monroe Doctrine blameless while castigating Japan's actions in China. The newspaper charged that America is fond of mentioning justice and humanity, but that the history of its advance into Asia is entirely the same as that of Britain, France, and other European powers which turned East Asia into colonies.

Calls Actions Quite Natural.

Commenting on Ambassador Grew's declaration that America suspects Japan is endeavoring to dominate a larger section of the Asiatic continent under an isolationist and economic system, Asahi argued that it is quite natural that Japan's efforts should be directed toward establishing the economic intimacy of China and Manchukuo.

However, the newspaper saw no grounds for American anxiety over loss of trade. It cited the increase of American exports to Manchukuo.

'SHUN WAR, BUILD BETTER AMERICA! BRICKER APPEALS

Keep out of foreign wars and build a better common life here in America. This advice was given yesterday by Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio to the Executives' club of Chicago and the Ohio Society of Chicago at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman.

Gov. John W. Bricker.

Gov. Bricker, a potential Republican candidate for the presidency, took no position on the issue of revising the neutrality act.

"We are not confronted with dangers from abroad, but there are dangerous trends here," said Gov. Bricker. "People are not assuming the responsibilities in local affairs that are theirs under representative government. The local governments are passing on their problems to state and national capitals.

"If we destroy the citizen interest in government we are undermining the foundations of representative government. Business men must give their time to these problems and keep them at home if they can."

Two National Guard Units to Be Formed in Alaska

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20 [Special].—Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring announced today that the war department has authorized the formation of two National Guard units in Alaska. Woodring explained that this action had been taken in response to a joint memorial in the legislature of the territory. Initially two rifle companies, to be designated as company A and company B, 297th infantry, will be formed.

Gets Alimony

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. BEVERLY TATKUS.

Big men had little luck in the divorce courts yesterday.

John Tatkus, height six feet two, weight 200, sued for divorce but Beverely Tatkus asked alimony. She's five feet one and weighs 93 pounds. But he told Judge Oscar F. Nelson, "She beat me." The judge said, "She must stand on a stepladder. On physical appearances, I see no merit in your charge of cruelty." At the suggestion of her attorney, Carl Sussman, the judge ordered the big man to pay $5 a week while the divorce suit is pending. Little Mrs. Tatkus, who is 19 years old, went home to 11136 Champlain avenue.

Mrs. Jean Gordon of 3142 15th place asked $322 that Albert Gordon is behind in separate maintenance. She's five feet three and weighs 108 pounds. He's six feet two and weighs 250 pounds. "This boy is too sick to work," his attorney, Harry Marcus, told Judge Cornelius J. Harrington. "Boy?" repeated the judge looking at the big man, who's 31 years old. "All he has is athlete's foot," scoffed Mrs. Gordon's attorney, Norman Becker. The judge told Gordon to get a job and pay $100 on account.

2 SEIZED IN RAID ON STILL.

Federal agents seized a 150 gallon still, 3,500 gallons of mash, and 50 gallons of alcohol in a garage at the rear of 5720 South Parkway yesterday. Arthur Wilkes, 27 years old, 4513 Michigan avenue and Robert Burns, 25, of 5716 South Park Way both colored, were arrested.

GERMANS INSIST DUCE MUST BARE POSITION IN WAR

Declare Move by Turkey Threatens Italy.

leave the Baltic states and come to Germany," the Nazi press said.

Newspapers also announced that many repatriates have volunteered to join the German army.

German legations in Latvia and Estonia have informed Baltic Germans that they will be given the same type of work in Germany as they had in those countries.

"Doctors will be given the same practice they had in their Baltic homes and a Baltic country estate owner will receive a former Polish estate of the same size," the legation said. "There will be full compensation for property left behind."

Germany estimated the value of property of the Estonian repatriates at $77,000,000.

It was declared that 20 per cent of the repatriates are farmers.

Open Blast Furnaces.

The first two blast furnaces of the Herman Goering iron works at Salzgitter in Brunswick province were opened today for war production. Goering, as economic dictator, founded the works in July, 1937, to exploit low grade iron ore with what was described as a new German process.

"Every ton of ore mined here and every ton of iron produced here are contributions to the final victory of greater Germany," said State Secretary Koerner, Goering's representative.

Employés of the Goering works were told: "You work exclusively for the armed power of the German nation."

Germany Stiffens Stand.

BERLIN, Oct. 20 (AP).—Indications that Germany is prepared to continue fighting if its enemies are so inclined came tonight from authoritative quarters here. DNB, official German news agency, said:

"England and France have rejected the Fuehrer's outstretched hand. They threw down the gauntlet and Germany has picked it up."

It was said that the reich contemplated no further concession to France.

A short while earlier, Nazis had said that Turkey became "Britain's stooge" when it signed a mutual aid pact with the empires and could no longer be regarded as a neutral.

High spokesmen and DNB cautioned the world against assuming that Germany was making conciliatory gestures toward France on the meager basis that the war communique yesterday said the German west army failed to step across the French frontier at the moment conditions seemed auspicious because of the withdrawal of French troops.

It was said the neutral and enemy press interpreted the German hesitation to launch an impressive offensive as an indication that the reich still hoped for a deal with France, but the commentators and DNB warned that the high command was not weakening.

Calls Russia Turks' Friend.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 20 (AP).—Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu returned today to Turkey from his fruitless negotiations in Moscow. The negotiations, he said, "left the door open for further conversations in the undetermined future."

Enroute to Ankara to report to the cabinet, he conferred with Ambassador Stoica of Rumania, who left immediately for Bucharest to report to his government. Saracoglu was understood to have given the Rumanian an ample report on the Moscow negotiations, in which Rumania was intensely interested.

The foreign minister returned aboard a Russian cruiser. He was acclaimed by a crowd of spectators. They cheered Great Britain and France, who signed a mutual assistance pact with Turkey yesterday, but did not mention Russia.

Says Pact Aids Turkey.

Saracoglu said the new pact was of enormous importance to Europe, a benefit to Turkey, and did not impair Russian-Turkish friendship.

"I am convinced," he said, "it will not have the slightest detrimental effect on the old and sincere Turkish-soviet friendship. The Turkish-soviet negotiations left the door open for further conversations in the undetermined future."

A slight earthquake which did no damage but caused panic in some sections of the city coincided with his arrival.

RUMANIANS HAIL TURKISH PACT AS AN AID TO PEACE

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 20 (AP).—Rumanian officials tonight said that the British-French-Turkish mutual assistance treaty offers Rumania a guarantee against perils which have caused grave concern here in recent weeks. They forecast a lessening of tension in the Balkans as a result of the treaty. Soviet Russia, they said, apparently has no present intention of attacking the former Russian territory of Bessarabia, now Rumanian, and they added that Bulgaria's efforts to regain the province of Dobrupa, possessed by Bulgaria before the world war, would be limited to diplomatic action.

Former Foreign Minister Nicholas Titulescu, who has returned to Rumania after three years' banishment, is understood to have presented to King Carol of Rumania a report asserting that recent developments prove the wisdom of the foreign policy he [Titulescu] followed before falling from power and concluding also that good relations with soviet Russia still are possible.

Edwin Stohl couldn't see them. But he had a horseshoe in either hand and four leaf clovers bulging from every pocket when he went into Judge Oscar F. Nelson's court yesterday to hear Mrs. Ingeborg Stohl tell the judge why she wanted a divorce. He could have pulled rabbit's feet out of his hat, that fellow.

Mrs. Stohl said she had just two complaints to make: Her husband plays the horses. And they are the wrong ones. The judge persuaded Stohl to sign a pledge never to bet on a horse again, not even a horse that gave him its word of honor it would win. Mrs. Stohl was so happy she kissed her husband right in front of the judge. And they were off to their home at 4642 North Avers avenue, where Mrs. Stohl will give you 50 to 1, they'll live happily ever after.

SELFRIDGE GIVES UP MANAGEMENT OF STORE CHAIN

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Harry Gordon Selfridge is retiring from active management of the big department store interests which he owns in England, it was announced today. Selfridge, who was born in Wisconsin and became a British citizen only a few years ago, will retire as chairman of the board of Selfridge & Co. and relieve himself of all detailed management.

H. G. Selfridge.

Selfridge, who refused to admit he is more than 73 years old, will remain, however, as president of the company, which runs a big store in London and stores thruout the provinces.

Selfridge said last year that 36 year old Harry Selfridge Jr., who had been concerned mainly with the provincial stores, would take a greater interest in the business, which has a total capitalization of about $28,000,000.

FINNS TAKE OWN PROPOSALS BACK TO RUSSIA TODAY

Strengthened by Support of Northern States.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Oct. 20 (AP).—Feeling morally strengthened after the Stockholm conference of the four Nordic states, Finland will send her former premier, Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi, back to Moscow tomorrow night for renewed negotiations expected to last not more than two or three days.

Paasikivi will leave with Finland's counterproposals to the soviet government, which were expected to reflect the will of the northern countries to steer clear of any entangling alliances and to protect their neutrality and independence at any cost.

Foreign Minister Won't Go.

The fact that an additional delegate may accompany Paasikivi was viewed in some circles as significant, but authoritative sources indicated the discussion would not be concluded at the forthcoming meeting.

The same government spokesman who said Paasikivi would stay no more than two or three days — because of the "character of the discussions" — declared that another delegate might be added to the party "to give it more authority."

He would not elaborate, but said the new member would not be Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko. Erkko returned from the Stockholm conference after a last minute meeting with foreign ministers of the other northern states — Sweden, Norway, and Denmark—and spent the afternoon drafting instructions for Paasikivi.

Soviets Reported Dissatisfied.

He summoned the cabinet into session within an hour after his return.

A foreign office spokesman said he knew nothing about reports the Russians were dissatisfied with the delay in the negotiations. The Finnish delegation left Moscow early last Sunday. Departing from Helsingfors tomorrow night, the Finnish representatives will not reach Moscow again before Monday morning.

FARMER LIGHTS UPON A SURE-FIRE WAY TO GET RID OF THE BULL

Laclede, Mo., Oct. 20 (AP).—A Negro farmer learned how to get rid of a neighbor's bull, but the discovery cost him $15. The animal tore down a fence, approached the farmer and "pestered" him despite repeated efforts to shoo it away. Finally he lighted a match, set fire to the bull's tail. It raced to its home pasture, but a court today fined the farmer $15 for cruelty to animals.

ITALY REFUSES TO GET ANGRY AT TURK'S PACT

Restraint Called Sign of Continued Peace.

ROME, Oct. 20 (AP).—Italy's calm reception today of the signing of the British-French-Turkish mutual assistance pact was interpreted by diplomats as a new harbinger of continued peace in the Mediterranean.

This calm contrasted sharply with violent attacks on the proposed pact as published last summer. Fascists then condemned the prospective agreement as part of a French-British encirclement policy and anti-Italian in effect.

One newspaper in an editorial reflecting Fascist bitterness at that time described the Turks as "traitors by nature."

Determined to Avoid War.

The serenity with which Rome today received the treaty—which made Turkey a potential enemy in case of Italian military aid to Germany—therefore was taken by diplomats as further assurance that Italy was determined to stay aloof from the war.

Some diplomatic quarters considered it possible that Britain might utilize the situation to promote better relations between Italy and Turkey. It was suggested that the two countries might be persuaded to exchange assurances of neighborly intentions and eliminate suspicions which bred tension in the past.

In the absence of official or other comment on the treaty, foreign circles considered significant wide publicity given a French interpretation of the Italian attitude.

Status Quo in Balkans.

According to this French view, Italy was favorably impressed with the failure this week of the Turkish-Russian conversations because of her desire to see the status quo preserved in the Balkins.

Rome was represented as envisaging the possibility of Italian-Turkish cooperation in maintaining the neutrality of southeastern Europe, for which Fascist diplomacy has striven vigorously since the war began.

Marshall Field & Company
presents here each day observations intended to be of value to those it seeks to serve.

WHEN THE TELEPHONE RINGS (1)

By CALEB

"EACH time a telephone call is made or received, someone has an opportunity to create a favorable impression. . . . Your voice, what you say, and how you say it, are what reveals you to the person at the other end of the call. And your telephone personality plays just as important a role as your face-to-face personality."

With these thought-provoking words, a message directed to readers over the President's own signature prefaces a booklet supplied to every member of our organization, entitled Telephone Manners.

The subject is an always timely one. For not only is the modern-day version of Alexander Graham Bell's device vitally necessary to millions of daily social and commercial contacts—but in a single business establishment the volume of its use often reaches proportions unbelievable to the uninformed. Through the main switchboard of our retail store, for example, approximately 35,000 incoming and outgoing calls surge daily. This means that each operator must serve some 200 calls an hour—or a call at twenty-second intervals throughout the day.

The equipment required to accommodate such continuous traffic is correspondingly impressive. Servicing the main store alone are 181 trunk lines, and more than 1,200 telephones, in addition to 170 public pay stations. To other strategic points, such as suburban stores, the Merchandise Mart, main garage, warehouses, etc., 36 tie lines radiate from the main switchboard; and the entire installation of this elaborate telephone system necessitates nearly fifty-five miles of wire and cable . . .

Securing effective results from all this highly complex, fast-working mechanism, however, is only partly assured by its own faithful performance. The human factor is more vital still, and wholly a matter of impressions. As the booklet above-mentioned stresses — favorable impressions. For a phone call is nothing more nor less than "absentee dialog" — contact by sound instead of sound plus sight. Hence the vital importance to every such contact of certain requisites we may call "Manners."

What those requisites are, will be discussed in an early sequel. We believe they will prove helpful and suggestive to all telephone users.

OFFICERS PRAISE SWIFT ACTION OF CAVALRY FORCE

Unexpected Speed Wins Division a Rest.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Balmorhea, Tex., Oct. 20.—Cavalrymen of the United States regular army spent today quietly resting in camp following yesterday's spectacular maneuvers in which two brigades completed in six hours a combat problem scheduled to take two days.

Brig. Gen. Kenyon A. Joyce.

Enthusiasm was still high over the military strategy displayed in the operation. Credit was granted about equally to the participants, the 1st and 2d brigades of the 7th cavalry division.

60 Miles Apart.

Sixty miles of rocky terrain lay between the opposing forces when they received orders to move at once and engage each other. The 1st brigade, constituting the White army, was encamped on the Kingston ranch south of Toyahvale. The 2d brigade, designated the Blue force, was 10 miles south of Pecos.

Both raced for a commanding ridge, Hill 3,375, halfway between them. They reached the objective at about the same time and participated in a "sharp engagement" before umpires called it a day. Before noon the soldiers completed action expected to take them all day yesterday and part of today.

All officers today attended a critique at which impressions of the annual maneuvers were given by Brig. Gen. Kenyon A. Joyce, commander of the division, and brigade commanders and umpires.

Unfamiliar Fields Urged.

Gen. Joyce suggested that combat problems be staged on terrain unfamiliar to participating commanders. He commented that a thoro knowledge of territory usually diminishes the expenditure of effort necessary in developing flexibility.

Altho a number of tactical errors were committed by both sides in the operations, commanders praised the smoothness with which the troops operated and the high morale maintained. The results clearly demonstrated, they said, the necessity for training a field army before sending it to war.

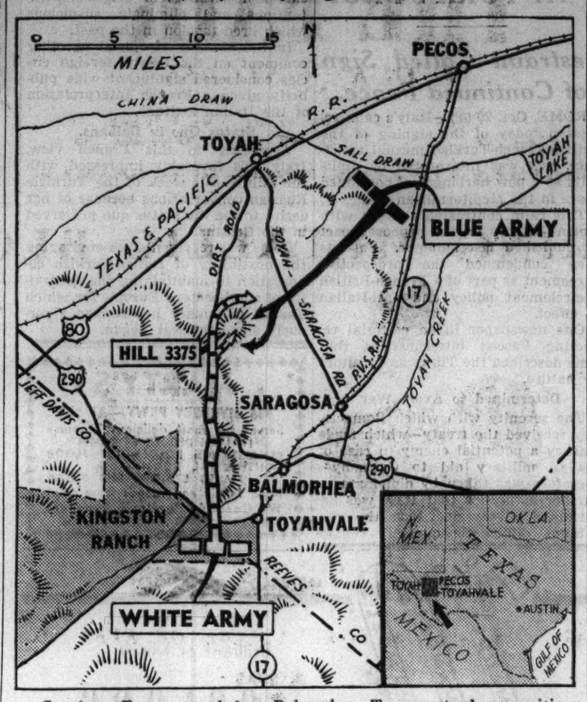
Morale Credited to Rations.

Competent handling of rations is one of the reasons for the high morale of the cavalrymen on these maneuvers. Three hot meals are served daily except when the tactical situation prevents lunch. In such cases sandwiches carried by the troopers in saddle bags or packed in accompanying cars are issued at noon.

Where detachments are away for the night, miniature field ranges are packed on horses to accompany them. Large field ranges are used at base. There are no rolling kitchens.

Study Swift Army Maneuvers

(Story in adjoining column.)



Cavalry officers attended at Balmorhea, Tex., yesterday a critique of the spectacular war game their forces had completed the preceding day. Lines and arrows indicate how two forces raced for a commanding ridge, where they participated in a "sharp engagement." Inset map locates area of maneuvers.

DID YOU NOTICE?

Items Which Weren't Headlined in Recent War News

Any persons spreading "nonsensical rumors" about conditions in Germany will be punished, according to a warning issued by Robert Ley, Nazi labor leader. He told a convention of German tradesmen in Berlin last week, "Every German firm and every German store today is a political cell. Wherever the individual appears to be displaying ignorance of the situation with nonsensical rumors, German shopkeepers will know how to take action against rumor spreaders."

After successfully dodging submarines and mines in the Atlantic ocean while returning from South America, the Blue Star cargo boat Ionic ran aground off the western coast of England. All 55 persons aboard were rescued.

Since nightly wartime blackouts were inaugurated in Stockholm, traffic deaths have more than doubled, the British ministry of transport announced. In September 1,130 persons were killed as compared with 554 in September, 1938. Of these, 633 were pedestrians.

More than 50,000 refugees from Spain are helping France's war work by laboring in French factories. Most of these crossed the frontier last February when the Spanish civil war neared its end.

At least 52 Polish river boats have been sunk or damaged by a soviet river fleet in sovietized eastern Poland. The crafts, soviet authorities said, will be salvaged and put to military use.

SAYRE ARRIVES IN PHILIPPINES; GIVEN OVATION

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 21 [Saturday] (AP).—Francis B. Sayre, new high commissioner to the Philippines, received a warm welcome from President Manuel L. Quezon, Manila's American community and the Filipino people on his arrival today. Naval destroyers and gaily decorated launches escorted Sayre's ship to the dock. Bombing planes circled overhead. Guns boomed a salute. Quezon, introducing Sayre, said the Filipino people welcomed him with "thankful heart" for he understood the islands' needs.

RESTAURANT BANDITS SEIZE $78.

INDIANA FLYERS NEARING 500TH HOUR UP IN AIR

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 20 [Special].—Muncie's young endurance flyers droned along in their nineteenth day in the air today, tired and land-hungry, but still determined to stay up until their plane gives out. At 6 p. m. they had been aloft 463 hours.

As they neared the mark of 500 hours they set for themselves, the aviators, Robert McDaniels of Muncie and Kelvin Baxter of Richmond, definitely raised their goal to the record of 635 hours for heavy airplanes. They are now far past the 343 hour record for light airplanes, the class of their ship.

"We're getting six hours sleep a day and feeling pretty good, but are quite tired," the flyers notified their ground crew. "The motor is running fine, and that's the main thing."

Californians Still Up.

Lancaster, Cal., Oct. 20 [Special].—Wes Carroll and Clyde Schleipper of Long Beach completed 516 hours in the air at 6 p. m. [Chicago time] tonight in their effort to break the unlimited airplane endurance record of 635 hours.

They are approximately two days ahead of the Muncie, Ind., endurance flyers. Because the Californians are using a plane equipped with pontoons, the Hoosiers claim their ship is too heavy to be in the light plane class.

HOOVER FAVORS ARMS POLICY TO SAVE CIVILIANS

New York, Oct. 20 (AP).—Former President Herbert Hoover declared tonight that the time had come for America to take a clear and explicit stand on wars against civilians, and that, "whatever else may be done about the embargo, America should not sell bombing planes, their bombs, poison gas or submarines."

In a radio address Mr. Hoover gave his reasons for his proposals 10 days ago of a substitute for either repeal of the embargo or no repeal—a proposal "that in what we do we seek for a firm basis in broad humanity." He said his speech was designed partly to "clear up a misimpression" as to his stand on the question of this country's selling arms.

British Vessel Sinking Off Hongkong; Appeals for Aid

MANILA, Oct. 21, Saturday (AP).—An S O S from the British ship New Mathilde saying she was sinking and required immediate assistance was picked up today by the Manila station of Radio Corporation of America. The New Mathilde said she was in the China sea in the Hongkong area. The message gave no further details. The ship was built at Kiel in 1906. She is 220 feet long and of 1,410 tons net. The ship plies between Hongkong and Shanghai. It carries a crew of 20.

Argentina Recognizes Polish Regime in Paris

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 20 (AP).—Foreign Minister Jose Maria Cantilo said today that Argentina continues to recognize the Polish government in Paris as the national authority of the Polish state.

Soviet Government Warns of Mines Near Leningrad

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20 (AP).—The navy hydrographic office warned shipping today that the sea approach to Leningrad, Russia, has been mined. Advising the office of the mined barriers, the soviet government said a pilot station had been established for arriving ships.

F. D. R. LETS REDS BLOCK DEFENSE, HOFFMAN SAYS

Calls on President to End C. I. O. Strikes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—Representative Clare E. Hoffman [R. Mich.] in a speech in the house today assailed President Roosevelt for "ham stringing national defense" by failing to take action against "communistic labor organizations."

Hoffman also charged that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Attorney General Frank Murphy have given aid to "communistic organizations under the guise of labor unions" by failing to frown upon their activities.

Hoffman said that strikes and slowdowns are affecting factories on which the army and navy are dependent for supplies. Last week he accused the Congress of Industrial Organizations of "a criminal conspiracy" in calling a 40 day strike at the Detroit plant of the Bohn Aluminum and Brass corporation, which was engaged on army and navy contracts under the expanded national defense program. Hoffman pointed out that pickets had surrounded the plant and prevented the shipment of bearings for navy planes.

Asks Report on Strike.

He then introduced resolutions asking full reports of the strike and its effects from the secretaries of war and navy. He also submitted a bill making it a criminal offense to prohibit or interfere with the manufacture of necessary government implements or munitions of war. Today he elaborated upon his earlier charges and placed responsibility directly upon Mr. Roosevelt and his aids.

"Nero fiddled while Rome burned," Hoffman said. "Franklin D. Roosevelt fishes and vacations and dreams of sitting in a world-wide game of power politics while his friend, John L. Lewis [head of the C. I. O.], with his organization and the President's supporters—Browder and his communistic agents—hamstring our national defense."

Earl Browder is general secretary of the communist party in the United States. Hoffman said that Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins "rightly or wrongly had become known the country over as a friend of the radicals, as a partisan of the Reds."

Refers to Samson's Haircut.

Then he referred to the biblical incident in which Delilah cut off Samson's hair, taking away his strength, by saying that Miss Perkins "had given Elmer Andrews, administrator of the wage and hour law, a haircut."

"It is idle," he said, "to build ships for the navy, or when war comes, production in the factories at home is to be hindered or delayed. It is worse than idle; it is criminal, with even the possibility of our involvement in war staring us in the face, to permit ourselves to get into the situation which we are now in, where communistic organizations, under the guise of labor unions—those who teach the overthrow of this government by force—are left in a position to hamstring our industrial production."

Movie Maker's Daughter Sent to Jail for Six Months

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 20 (AP).—Rather than submit to a psychiatric examination, Arlynne Sherman, 23 years old, daughter of Harry Sherman, film producer, began a six months' jail term today. Municipal Judge Byron L. Walters described her as "a spoiled child who has more money than is good for her and has made up her mind she can do no wrong." After Miss Sherman was convicted of three traffic violations, Judge Walters offered her probation if she would let a psychiatrist determine whether there was a psychological reason for her "nonconformist" attitude.

CONVICT TELLS DIES HOW FALSE PASSPORT LET HIM INTO RUSSIA

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20 (AP).—A former American communist who fled to Russia after being sentenced to prison for conspiracy to murder told the Dies committee today that soviet officials admitted him, altho knowing he was using a false passport.

Dr. Fritz Heberling. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

The witness was Fred Erwin Beal, who is now serving 17 to 20 years in the North Carolina state prison for conspiracy to kill O. F. Aderholt, a Gastonia, N. C., police chief who was slain during the 1929 textile strike there.

After his conviction Beal went to Russia while his appeal was pending before the state Supreme sourt. A year later he returned to this country because, he said, he found life in Russia intolerable. He said the communist party financed his eastward voyage.

The committee questioned Dr. Fritz Heberling of Chicago, an employé of the German consulate, about the German Citizens' league, which he heads. The witness said its purposes were purely social.

9 MOBILE CORPS IS DEFENSE GOAL OF ARMY CHIEFS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20 (AP).—Reorganization of the army to form nine highly mobile corps of more than 40,000 troops each is contemplated by the war department, according to reports today. The program was described to members of congressional military committees as a part of efforts to weld the present scattered units of troops into a force which would be ready for any emergency.

Putting it into full effect depends on congressional approval of army increases recommended to President Roosevelt by the war department. These call for expansion of the regular army by 53,000 men to the full peace-time limit of 280,000, and expansion of the National Guard by 85,000 men to 320,000.

First steps of the contemplated reorganization already have been taken, however, with the orders for five "streamlined" regular army divisions to undergo special training this winter in the south and northwest. Each of the projected new corps would be composed of one regular army division and two guard divisions of larger size, plus special auxiliary troops. The corps in turn would be grouped into four field armies, such as exist now in skeleton form.

C. I. O. RATIFIES NASH CONTRACT TO END STRIKE

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 20 [Special].—C. I. O. employés of the Nash automobile plant unanimously ratified this afternoon a contract their leaders agreed upon Wednesday night to bring to an end a three weeks old strike at the factory.

The agreement represents compromises with the company on several points at issue. It makes no mention of the employés' demand for a week's vacation with pay, but provides for a wage increase of 5 cents an hour and it makes the strikers' union, the United Automobile Workers of America, the workers' exclusive bargaining agent.

The union called a strike Oct. 1 to force adoption of a formal contract to supplant a working agreement with the company. The dispute threw out of work about 3,300 employés here and 2,800 at the Seaman Body plant at Milwaukee, another unit of the Nash-Kenvinator corporation. The Nash actory will resume operations Monday morning.

RUSSIA DEMANDS POWERS GIVE HER HAND IN PARLEYS

MOSCOW, Oct. 20 (AP).—The new British-French-Turkish treaty was all but ignored today by the Moscow press, which limited comment to a warning against any attempt to make a bloc against soviet Russia or to exclude her from settlement of important European problems.

In an article on the 20th anniversary of fighting against the white [antibolshevist] Russians, the communist party newspaper Pravda said recent treaties between Russia and Germany on one hand and Russia and the Baltic states on the other had greatly strengthened Russia's position in world affairs, and added that "it is now impossible to decide important international questions without the participation of the soviet union."

SPEED OF WORK MAJOR ISSUE IN CHRYSLER TIEUP

Who Shall Fix Schedule in Dispute.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 20.—The question of whether the Chrysler Automobile corporation or its employés shall determine the production schedules in its plants today remained the major issue in the dispute between the company and the C. I. O.-United Automobile Workers union. After five hours of conferences spokesmen for both sides said no progress toward settlement had been made.

A secondary issue: What place has the Michigan state labor board in these conferences, also remained unsettled. Two members of the labor board were present thruout the day as observers at the discussions held in the Chrysler Institute of Engineering building in Highland Park.

Asks Longer Conferences.

Then with the union and corporation representatives filing out of the conference room the two labor board members, A. C. Lappin and Arthur E. Raab, chairman, announced that inasmuch as progress has been slow the hours for the discussions should be lengthened.

"The board believes that instead of halting your conferences at 4 o'clock they should be continued until 5," said Raab. "We therefore fix the hours for these discussions as 10 to 12 a. m. and 1:30 to 5 p. m."

R. J. Thomas, president of the U. A. W. and his assistants said this was agreeable to them. Robert W. Conder, director of labor relations for the Chrysler corporation, however, said the company could not consider itself bound by the board's directions. He said he would be willing to discuss this matter at the next conference set for Monday.

Dispute in 15th Day.

The dispute for which settlement is sought went into its 15th day today, with 57,000 automobile workers idle during most of this time. Alleged "slow-down" tactics of the U. A. W. members precipitated the controversy. One hundred and four men were discharged early this month by the company for allegedly disrupting production lines in the plants and the strike followed.

After the meeting Conder said the company offered today to incorporate in a contract a provision that granted employés the right to demand a readjustment of their jobs if the work was found to be too difficult or the pace too fast. The company, however, proposed to make such readjustment itself.

"This offer," said Herman L. Weckler, vice president of the Chrysler corporation, who took part in the day's meeting, "should clear away once and for all the fog that has been raised about production in our plants.

Union Claims Point.

"Our proposal was flatly rejected by the union conferees. They said everything else is subordinated to their getting a closed shop. It shows that the talk about a speed-up is a smoke screen. We do not wish to become either an avowed or silent partner to the union or to countenance intimidation of our employes as has been threatened."

"Spokesmen for Chrysler today retreated from their untenable and arbitrary stand that speed of production is exclusively the affair of the management," Thomas said.

"They said it is corporation policy to consider grievances arising from speeding up of production lines. And they offered to agree to a formula exactly like that contained in the General Motors U. A. W. contract signed in the summer of 1937. We consider such an offer unsatisfactory because it has been found necessary to revise and extend the G. M. clause in practice.

Proposals Based on Experience.

"The union proposal would allow neither union nor corporation to dictate the final decision. We would use a formula of joint discussion and scientific time studies with negotiation."

Conder later said that the Chrysler proposals made during the day had been exactly similar to practices that had been established in the plants months ago. He said that no previous U. A. W. contract had held such a provision in writing, but that in order to keep production moving smoothly it had frequently been necessary to take exactly the action described in the proposal.

DIVORCE ASKED BY SCULPTRESS ALICE L. SIEMS

Mrs. Alice Littig Siems, a sculptress, filed suit in Circuit court yesterday for a divorce from Herman B. Siems, a chemical engineer. The bill, drawn by Benjamin B. Davis, attorney, charges cruelty. Among the acts recited is what the bill terms a fake suicide attempt. Siems lives at 7356 South Shore drive. Mrs. Siems is in Bartow, Fla., with her daughter, Joanne, 10 years old. The bill asks custody of Joanne and a son, Lawrence, 13.

Actress Shouts 'Lie' to Upset Alimony Hearing

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 20 (AP).—Screen Actress Maryon Curtis threw her alimony hearing into an uproar today. "That's a lie," she replied angrily after Irvin Stahlmaster asked her about a $275 check he charged she had signed with the name of her husband, George Givot, movie and radio comedian.

"Didn't you refuse to give me a sample of your handwriting, saying, 'I can't do that; I'm on the spot'?" the attorney inquired.

She indignantly denied this, adding, "You are a vicious, brutal man to ask a question like that."

She is asking temporary alimony of $1,195 a month.

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 20 (AP).—Two East Hartford boys who toddled away on Monday while at play were given up for dead today by their grief-stricken parents and hundreds of searchers. The families of 4 year old Robert Berlanger and 5 year old Robert Druce had only one faint hope—that somebody had taken their children. The Connecticut river is near their homes.

MANTENO FIGHTS DYSENTERY PERIL; REVEAL 2D CASE

7 Other Inmates Put Under Observation.

I was badly advised or not I can't say, but I can't put the blame on Hinton. The health department said we should be on the lookout, because the ground at Manteno was over a seamy limestone foundation and anything from surrounding land might get into the wells.

"Why didn't we do something? I can't tell you why no action was taken except that it didn't seem to be a matter of grave importance.

"I'll talk to Gov. Horner next week. I have no fear of any investigation, altho I don't think there was any negligence. Of course I feel terrible about the whole thing. That institution was my pet. I saw the first brick laid and the last one laid. The epidemic has broken my heart. My main fear in the past always has been of fire. I devoted my whole efforts to safeguarding the hospital against that. I never dreamed of typhoid."

Report Received After Outbreak.

Bowen added that he had not seen a report of conditions at Manteno, made by a committee of Chicago physicians, until after the epidemic started. The report concerned sanitary recommendations and mentioned typhoid immunization. Bowen said he received the report about Sept. 1.

Dr. Milton Portis, chairman of the committee, last night said that while the report was completed in June it was not turned over to the Institute of Medicine of Chicago until July. After editing and final approval it was printed and sent in late August to Gov. Horner and Bowen, who had asked that it be made.

Dr. Portis said it never occurred to the committee to acquaint Bowen or Manteno officials with the recommendations prior to printing the report.

Immunization Ordered.

Bowen said that since the Manteno epidemic all state institutions have been ordered to immunize against typhoid. Food handlers previously have been examined to discover possible carriers. Bowen said that all previously had been told to immunize against smallpox.

Shapiro, the Kankakee county state's attorney, said he would resume his investigation of possible negligence in the epidemic as soon as his other duties permitted.

3 BOOKIES FOUND GUILTY; JUDGE SETS PRECEDENT

Upholds Arrests Without Search Warrant.

The latest Municipal court campaign against gambling was marked yesterday by three developments before Judge Stephen Adamowski.

1. Three handbook operators were found guilty of violating the gaming law and got heavy fines. This was the first such conviction in the memory of court attachés.

2. Five defendants arrested in police raids in two other alleged handbooks were freed because the search warrants for the raids were defective.

3. Fifty-six other defendants were granted jury trials and 23 cases were continued.

Policeman Describes Bet.

The three convicted are Ray LeBlanc, 21 years old; Charles Austin, 23, and John Barboun, 44, all colored, employés of a handbook at 4706 South Parkway. Policeman Edward J. Kelly testified he entered the place Thursday and placed a $2 bet with LeBlanc.

The three pleaded not guilty and said they had no attorney, but were ready for trial. They then admitted the truth of the policeman's evidence. After finding them guilty, Judge Adamowski imposed a $225 fine on LeBlanc and fines of $125 each on the other two men.

By this action he set the precedent of upholding an arrest in a gambling case, even without a search warrant, and, in effect, held that the placing of a bet by a policeman did not constitute entrapment. [Entrapment is the act of police in inducing a person to commit a crime for the purpose of instituting prosecution against him.]

Refuses to Reopen Case.

After the sentences had been pronounced Attorney Abel B. Kretske announced he was representing the three but had been in the corridor and had not heard the case called. He asked for a new trial and the staying of the fines, but Judge Adamowski refused to reopen the case.

Kretske then made a motion to vacate the fines and release the men on bonds and the judge set a hearing on the motion for Nov. 1 and allowed the three to remain at liberty. Judge Adamowski said the procedure was only to give the men time to raise the money for the fines.

The five men who were freed because of faulty search warrants are Tony Ballo and George Drew, employés of an alleged handbook at 33 West Jackson street, and Jack Stein, Thomas Williams and John Lewis, employés of a similar place at 17 West Quincy street. All were represented by Attorney Lawrence Dowd.

Error Found in Warrant.

The raid at 33 West Jackson street was made on Sept. 22, but the search warrant contained the statement that the premises were kept for "lawful gambling" when it should have read "unlawful gambling."

The warrant for the raid at 17 West Quincy street, made Sept. 26, contained the statement that a police officer had made a bet there May 25 when it should have read Sept. 25.

"I don't know how these errors occurred," said Clement Dernbach, assistant state's attorney.

The police warrant clerks, Edward Berglind and William Clark, said they apparently had made typographical errors in the warrants.

In another case involving the arrest of three men in a raid on an alleged handbook at 38 North Dearborn street on Sept. 28, Attorney Dowd endeavored to quash the warrant. He asserted that the law against gambling on horse races was, in effect, repealed by the pari-mutuel statute which permits wagering within track enclosures. Judge Adamowski overruled this contention. Dowd then asked for a jury trial, which was granted.

Fifty-three other defendants also were granted jury trials.

SLIP OF A MASK BRINGS ROUNDUP OF ROBBER GANG

Four bandits, wearing handkerchief masks, raided the Ogden Inn tavern near Downers Grove early Thursday, and fled with $30 from the cash register after threatening 15 patrons. During the holdup, one robber's mask slipped, and he was recognized by A. C. Hengles, owner of the place, as a former employé. As a result detective bureau squads yesterday rounded up the alleged robber gang. They are James Ries, 23 years old, 212 South Hoyne avenue, whose mask slipped; Richard Roberts, 22, of 1533 Madison street; Harry Carli, 22, of 2021 Monroe street, and Otto Fowich, 22, of 123 South Hamilton avenue.

Policemen also arrested William Dolan, 19, of 2057 Adams street, whose car was used in the robbery. In it they found a revolver belonging to Roberts.

BANDITS SEIZED IN FLIGHT SENT TO BRIDEWELL

Two holdup men whose flight from police was halted by a blowout early Monday were sentenced yesterday to terms in the Bridewell by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Felony court. John Bentley, 21 years old, 3910 West 61st street, got a one year term and Arthur Irving, 21, of 3134 West 54th street, got six months. They took $13 from John Masia, owner of a filling station at 3156 West 51st street. Charges against a companion of the bandits, Harold Lindblade, 26, of 5026 South Spaulding avenue, were dismissed when he pleaded he was too drunk to know what was happening.

They are Mrs. Shirley Mozer, 31 years old, Republican poll judge, 3915 Grenshaw street; Mrs. Lenora Roberson, 30, Democratic poll judge, 3818 Grenshaw street, and George Martens, 32, of 3927 Grenshaw street, Republican poll judge. The three were released in $6,000 bonds each pending a hearing Nov. 2 before County Judge Jarecki. Their arrest was ordered by the state's attorney's office, investigating alleged vote frauds in the 24th ward.

TWO REARRESTED AFTER ACQUITTAL IN BALLOT TRIAL

Dennis Kelly, who won a directed verdict of acquittal Thursday in the Will county election fraud case at Joliet, was rearrested yesterday. Albert Astbury, whose refusal to testify against Kelly brought about the directed verdict, also was rearrested. Astbury is an employé of Leahm Kelly, Dennis Kelly's brother and a Democratic leader. Leahm Kelly was personal bailiff to Judge Edwin L. Wilson, who was unseated in the June judicial election, in which the election frauds are alleged to have occurred. State's Attorney James E. Burke said Dennis Kelly will be retried on another indictment. Astbury is still awaiting trial on a first indictment. His arrest yesterday was in connection with a second indictment. The men were released in bonds of $5,000 each.

COURT REFUSES TO KILL CHARGES AGAINST M'GARRY

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday denied permission to Judge Eugene L. McGarry to seek an order that indictments against him be expunged. Judge McGarry, who is not to be confused with Judge Joseph H. McGarry, was indicted Sept. 27 on charges of malfeasance as a Municipal court jurist and of conspiracy to take false acknowledgments on bail bonds. The charges were the outgrowth of the investigation following the so-called fix case in his court. Judge McGarry carried the case to the Supreme court on the ground that only the legislature has the right to accuse and try a judge.

Order Ice Water Containers on Outer Belt Line Road

The Illinois Commerce commission yesterday ordered the installation within 90 days of ice water containers having separate compartments for ice in 100 cabooses of the Elgin, Joliet, and Eastern railroad. Members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen employed by the railroad petitioned the commission to order the installation on June 20, 1938, on the ground that the existing system of water buckets, floating ice, and dippers was unsanitary.

ORDER LOUISIANA PROSECUTOR TO SUBMIT TO TRIAL

Impeachment Action Is Blow to Machine.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Oct. 20.—District Attorney Charles A. Byrne of Orleans parish [county] must stand impeachment trial, it was ruled today by the Louisiana Supreme court.

Byrne has been superseded by First Assistant Attorney General James O'Connor while a three judge criminal District court here investigates allegations that he blocked the attempts of the parish grand jury to go into charges of dual office holding and deadheading [drawing state pay without performing any services].

The impeachment action was filed at the same time that the Criminal court investigation was begun. Specifically, Byrne's fight against impeachment took the form of an appeal from the appointment by District Judge Harold A. Moisse of Attorney John E. Jackson as special prosecutor in the district attorney's case.

Appointment Upheld.

Byrne applied to the high court for writs of certiorari and mandamus to compel Judge Moisse to grant a suspensive appeal. Today's ruling, written by Chief Justice Charles A. O'Neill, denied the petition.

Chief Justice O'Neill held that the law provides for appointment of a special prosecutor whenever a district attorney or an attorney general is accused of malfeasance or misfeasance in office. The ruling means that Byrne's impeachment trial will go forward in the civil District court here.

The high court's ruling was regarded as important in the widespread action to rout the Louisiana political machine which was established in 1928 by the late Senator Huey P. Long. If Chief Justice O'Neill had granted Byrne's appeal it would have made the Criminal court investigation largely meaningless.

Investigation Spurred.

As it was, however, the inquiry proceeded with renewed vigor. One state legislator admitted today that he had been carried on two pay rolls.

The admission of dual office holding was made from the stand by State Senator A. Sidney Nunez of St. Bernard parish. He said that in addition to drawing pay as senator he had been carried as an assistant secretary of the dock board at a salary of $400 a month. Nunez said he had asked his attorney whether he thought it would be all right to take the $400 job. The attorney told him to go ahead, the witness said. Before testifying, Nunez waived his constitutional rights.

Nunez was preceded on the stand by New Orleans Safety Commissioner Frank R. Gomila, who said he is not the Frank R. Gomila who recently was found to be on three pay rolls. He was asked whether he had been carried as bacteriologist for the city and state boards of health and as a case worker for the Louisiana welfare department. He said that the Gomila referred to must have been his son.

Several Use Immunity.

The presiding judge, Frank T. Echezebal, today began advising all witnesses that they could stand on their constitutional rights and not testify if they feared their testimony might incriminate them. Several office holders took advantage of the judge's offer.

Little part in the hearing is being taken by Judge George Platt, whose removal of two grand jurors when they attempted to read a petition denouncing Byrne touched off the present investigation. He is permitted to sit as a judge in a matter which involves the conduct of his court.

Judge Platt was elected to the criminal district bench in November, 1936, with the indorsement of the machine, which is headed by Mayor Robert S. Maestri of New Orleans, former Gov. Richard W. Leche, and Gov. Earl K. Long, brother of Huey. Judge Platt is known as one of the staunchest supporters of Maestri, Leche, and Long. He began his judicial career as judge of the second city court of Algiers, a New Orleans suburb. That court handles civil suits of $300 or less.

Meanwhile the Richland parish grand jury returned 38 indictments. Tho most of the true bills were suppressed, pending arrests of the defendants, two were made public. The names were those of State Representative T. J. Coenen, charged with dual office holding, and his son, T. J. Jr., charged with deadheading.

Arrest Pair on Charge of Raping Mother of Seven

Two young Negroes were seized by Warren avenue police last night as the alleged rapists of a white woman who is the mother of seven children. The prisoners, arrested by Sergt. Patrick Groark, are Sylvester Watson, 17 years old, 331 North Western avenue, and Jesse Daily, 20, of 322 North Claremont avenue. The rape was committed on the night of Oct. 14 in the rear of 337 North Western avenue. Police said that seven hours before the rape young Watson had been freed in the Boys' court on $500 bond in a burglary case.

A HITCH-HIKER WITH A SYSTEM GETS NOWHERE

Jack Stewart, 17 years old, set out hitch-hiking last June from San Francisco eastward. Instead of thumbing his way, however, he went the so-called "easy way." In each city he visited he stole an automobile, abandoned it in the next town, and picked up another car to proceed onward. He went thru more than eight cities, stealing as many cars. Several days ago he was seized in Sycamore, Ill., while getting into another car. Taken before Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday on a charge of juvenile delinquency, Stewart was ordered held for one hour by the marshal's office. Then he was sent back to his home in Watsonville, Cal., to stand trial on charges of stealing a government automobile.

3 ARE CONVICTED OF STRIKE RIOTS AT MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 20 (AP).—A federal district court jury today convicted three of four men tried in the second case growing out of the WPA protest strike last July. In the first case, five of eight defendants were convicted in verdicts returned Tuesday. More than 150 others were indicted on charges of conspiracy to intimidate and interfere with WPA workers during the strike and resultant disorders.

Convicted were Milton McLean, Charles Connors, a Negro, and William Riley. Charles R. Moore was acquitted. The government charged the four attempted to halt work on two projects and that at least one WPA worker was slugged in the course of the attempts. Those convicted face a maximum penalty of two years imprisonment or $5,000 fine or both.

The court set for Oct. 30 trial of 25 more defendants, charged as an outgrowth of the most serious disorders of the strike at a downtown sewing project. One man was killed and a score injured during these disturbances and a policeman died from heart disease after doing riot duty.

FINANCES NIGHT LIFE BY CASHING STOLEN CHECKS

Joseph Burgo, 19 years old, 720 Blackhawk street, was the life of the party. He seemed to have plenty of money to take his girl to night clubs. Last night Marquette police learned how Joseph was able to spend so much money.

Police arrested him as he was trying to cash a forged check at a west side department store. Then Burgo explained that he had a typewriter, a check protector machine, and a book of blank checks stolen from the Industrial Steel and Wire company, 1500 Wabansia avenue.

He said he had cashed between 60 and 70 bogus checks for approximately $750 in the last few weeks.

BOTH SIDES FILE BRIEFS IN WALLER ELECTION FIGHT

Committee to Study Final Arguments.

Final arguments in the election contest of former Ald. James B. Waller against Ald. Mathias [Paddy] Bauler [43d], were filed yesterday with William F. Harrah, secretary of the city council judiciary committee. The case has been heard by this committee, of which Ald. Hyman L. Brody [39th] is chairman.

Brody said the briefs will be distributed to the 20 members of the committee for study and that a final meeting on the question will be called, possibly next week.

Contest Results from Run-Off.

The contest resulted from the spring aldermanic run-off election in which, according to the returns, Bauler defeated Waller by 243 votes. Bauler received 11,841 votes.

In July a petition for a recount was filed by State Representative Robert M. Woodward [R., Chicago], representing Waller, alleging election fraud. Since then a series of public hearings has been held by the judiciary committee and it was decided to conclude the discussion with the filing of written legal arguments. Arthur Sullivan, attorney for County Treasurer John Toman, represented Bauler.

Woodward in his written argument held that the ballots should be recounted because Waller had requested such action.

Cites Testimony of 25.

He also said the testimony of 25 witnesses who appeared at the hearings showed that attempts had been made to bribe Waller's workers, that they were threatened and slugged, that WPA workers were used by Bauler, that chain voting was used, that taverns were open on election day, and that other violations of the election law existed.

Sullivan in his brief held that the original petition for a recount was insufficient because it presented only hearsay evidence and that none of the testimony showed the result of the election would be changed if the recount were granted.

GAMBLING HEAD IN KANSAS CITY GETS SIX YEARS

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 20 (AP).—Charles V. Carollo, Kansas City's 240 pound gambling overlord, was sentenced today to six years and a day in prison.

Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis sentenced him to four years for perjury concerning his income, a year and a day for mail fraud, and three years for income tax evasion, but specified the three year sentence could be cut to one year by payment of delinquent taxes.

The 37 year old gambling czar will be sent to Leavenworth penitentiary where Tom Pendergast, once boss of the powerful Democratic city machine, is serving 15 months for dodging income taxes.

Carollo testified he collected as high as $1,000 a month from each of Kansas City's gambling places and turned the money over to Pendergast.

Before sentence was passed United States District Attorney Maurice Milligan, who prosecuted the notorious 1936 vote fraud scandals here and also aided in sending Pendergast to prison, said concerning Carollo:

"He was the notorious link between politics and the underworld."

TWO CHAMPAIGN GAMBLERS FOUND GUILTY BY JURIES

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 20 [Special].—Two separate juries tonight brought in verdicts of guilty against the last two of six defendants in gambling trials growing out of the fatal shooting of a University of Illinois sophomore last February. Only one of the six was not convicted.

The first verdict returned tonight was against Glen [Skinny] Pitcher. His jury deliberated 14 hours and 15 minutes. The second was against Fred [Hambone] Klemick, after four hours of deliberation by a jury of nine women and six men.

The original six defendants were indicted last February by a grand jury investigating vice and corruption in Champaign.

Police Seize Fox

Thomas Berg of the Anti-Cruelty society holding red fox captured yesterday by Englewood policeman.

Policeman Peter Powers of the Englewood station, who worked at the city dog pound for four years, yesterday used the knowledge he acquired there to capture a fugitive fox.

The animal, full grown and with a glistening red coat, was first discovered sunning himself in front of 5738 Throop street. Powers and Policeman Tom Wall were sent over. Powers fitted out a long pole with a noose at the end and pursued the fox to an areaway at 5656 Throop street, where he neatly looped the noose over the fox's head.

The fox wore a dog collar, indicating it had been kept as a pet. It was turned over to the Anti-Cruelty society.

BEN'S GIRL LOVES VALENTINO FILMS; HE STEALS THEM

Ben Platt stood before Judge Gibson E. Gorman in the Felony court yesterday. Platt was charged with stealing a roll of film from a movie theater at 1225 18th street. The film was one showing old time movie stars. One of the shots showed Rudolph Valentino dancing with a dark-eyed señorita. And, as Attorney George Crane explained it, this is why Platt, who is 29 years old, took the film:

Benjamin Platt.

Platt's girl is a Valentino fan. When they saw him on the screen on last Sept. 27, she sighed rapturously. Later that night, Platt broke into the theater and stole the roll of film. He and his girl then cut out the strip showing Valentino. The rest they began to throw into the furnace, but the film caught fire and the girl's hands were burned. The police came and arrested Platt. He hadn't really meant to be a burglar. All he wanted was the Valentino film.

Judge Gorman placed him on a year's probation and Thomas Murray, owner of the theater, promised to give him the Valentino strip as a present when he and his girl are married.

401 ASK PAROLE; PUBLIC HEARINGS TO BEGIN MONDAY

214 Are Sentenced from Cook County.

Parole board subcommittees will begin public hearings Monday on applications from 401 convicts in Illinois penal institutions. More than half—214—were sentenced from Cook county. Eleven of the 401 applicants are women.

Among the cases to be considered is that of Herbert Y. Curry, sentenced to 1 to 20 years for robbery in connection with the sensational "whim" murder that held Chicago interest 10 years ago.

Pal Later Executed.

The victim was Lyle Perrenoud, a salesman. On Oct. 12, 1929, his car scraped fenders with another car. The driver pursued him and in the presence of Perrenoud's wife, shot and killed him. Police at the time described the slaying as a "senseless whim." August Vogel was later tried as the slayer and pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to death by Judge Otto Kerner, now a member of the United States Circuit court of Appeals, and executed in May, 1930. Curry was with Vogel but he was tried for robbing instead of as an accomplice in the killing.

Others seeking freedom are Fred Tiedge and John L. Muir. Tiedge was arrested early in 1938 as the operator of a crime school. In his radio shop at 2040 Holly avenue, he taught two youths to rob. In three years they got $15,000 in cash and as much in jewelry. Muir, who was on parole, became Tiedge's adviser and shared in the loot. On Oct. 7, 1938, Tiedge was sentenced to one year to life for robbery, and Muir to 1 year to 10 for receiving stolen property.

Embezzler Seeks Freedom.

Another applicant is Elliott J. Trees, former assistant treasurer of the Chicago Title and Trust company. Last Nov. 18 he was sentenced to 1 to 10 years for embezzling $14,740.

Dr. Justin L. Mitchell, 60, a former south side physician, is another parole seeker. On Feb. 12, 1936, he was found guilty of the manslaughter by abortion of Mary Nowalowski in March, 1935. He carried appeals in vain to the United States Supreme court. His prison term is for 1 to 14 years.

BYRD INSPECTS BIG ANTARCTIC SNOW CRUISER

Expects it to Outdo All Previous Expeditions.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd last night made his first inspection of the giant Diesel powered snow cruiser he will use on his forthcoming expedition to Antarctica. His inspection was made at a public preview of the cruiser on the grounds of the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company in Pullman.

Admiral Byrd climbed in and out of the cruiser, studied the complex controls, and then said:

"I hope we can explore as much ice covered territory in one month in this cruiser as we did in all our previous expeditions."

Designed at Armour Institute.

The 37 ton cruiser was designed at the research foundation of the Armour Institute of Technology, of which Dr. Thomas C. Poulter is scientific director. Dr. Poulter, a former aid to Byrd, is second in command of the expedition, which will start next month.

Dr. Poulter said last minute delays in construction may make it impossible to test the cruiser at the Indiana sand dunes as had been planned. "Our deadline is the freezing of the Antarctic waters, which are open only two months a year," he said. "We must leave Boston the first week in November, regardless of tests."

Admiral Byrd will command the cruiser thru a two way radio telephone at base headquarters but will not participate in its exploration trips. The cruiser will leave the main antarctic base with enough fuel to travel 5,000 miles. Every 200 miles its crew of scientists will take geological soundings, while the airplane carried on its roof will be used for aerial photographs.

Poulter Tells of Plans.

Dr. Poulter said that after one year of geographical exploration, the cruiser will be used to transport scientific parties into the explored regions to establish bases for weather surveys, mineral analysis, and other studies.

He said the expedition has no authorization to claim any territory but that the research work may be used as the basis for an American claim if it demonstrates the value of the land.

The cruiser is 55 feet long and 15 feet wide. It is designed to lunge over ice crevasses as much as 15 feet wide, move at a maximum rate of 30 miles an hour, and climb a 37 degree grade.

SCIENCE MAKES NEW PEMMICAN FOR EXPLORERS

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 20 (AP).—A Massachusetts institute of technology scientist said today he had packed a new energy wallop into the pemmican of Admiral Byrd's antarctic explorers—and made the old Indian trail food as tasty as something mother used to make.

Back from recent explorations thru the cook book, Dr. Robert S. Harris reported he had developed a new formula, giving more calories per ounce of the concentrated ration than anything in that line that has yet hit the trail in polar regions.

The new pemmican—three tons of which will be shipped for the admiral and his men on their coming antarctic trek — has the further advantage, Harris said, of being pre-cooked, and it tastes like roast beef.

In the old days, Indians made pemmican by adding fats to dried meats of the buffalo and the caribou. Later, scientists developed pemmican foods containing beef, fats, sugar, cereals, and vegetables.

ASK STATE QUIZ INTO RELIEF AT EAST ST. LOUIS

East St. Louis, Ill., Oct. 20 [Special].—Evidence termed sufficient to warrant an official state investigation of relief in Centerville township, in which East St. Louis is located, was presented today to State's Attorney Louis Zerweck of St. Clair county.

The information was presented by Raymond M. Hilliard, an attorney from Chicago and head of the fraud department of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission at nearby Belleville. Hilliard and Robert Eardley, staff attorney for the IERC, conferred with Zerweck an hour today.

Albert Ulrich, chief supervisor and relief administrator of the township, has admitted that irregularities have occurred in the district. The IERC has been investigating relief records of the township for the last two weeks.

Girl of 19 'Grandmother' to a Real Grandmother

New York, Oct. 20 (AP).—Nineteen year old Sylvia Schnipper, Hunter college senior, has become the campus "grandmother" of Mrs. Nina Rosenberg, 50, a freshman. Each first year student is assigned as "grandmother" an upper class girl who helps adjust the neophyte to college life. Mrs. Rosenberg, mother of two children and grandmother of a 4 year old boy, said she had entered college because "a woman grows rusty when she has too much time and nothing to do."

N. Y. Teachers' Union Quits League Pictured as Red

New York, Oct. 20 [Special].—The Teachers' Union of New York City, local 5, tonight voted to withdraw from the American League for Peace and Democracy, which frequently has been mentioned before the Dies committee hearings as an organization sympathetic to the communist movement. About 1,000 persons attended the meeting. No direct reference to the league's alleged relation with the communist party was mentioned in the resolution.

OBSERVE 40TH BIRTHDAY TODAY AT RED STAR INN

The Red Star inn, north side restaurant famous for its German cooking, will celebrate its 40th anniversary today.

Nothing special is planned, but more care, if anything, will be lavished upon the weiner schnitzel, the German apple pancakes and kidney stew, the favorite dishes of the gourmets who dine there.

Carl Gallauer, who came to America from Cologne in 1878, founded the restaurant in 1899. Built at 1528 North Clark street in the style of a typical Bavarian inn, it has never been changed. Its window panes are leaded, its tables and floors scrubbed white. It is quiet, peaceful and friendly, without modern decorations or music.

Gallauer died in 1936 at the age of 75, but his widow, Maria, operates the inn in the same tradition. His son, William, vice president of a real estate firm, looks after details for her after he has finished his day's work in the loop. "I keep it unchanged," he said, "as a monument to my father."

SCHOOL FACES BARE FACTS ON ITS FIRE DRILL

The burning question at the new million dollar Niles Township High school in Niles Center these days is fire drill. Before next month's drill, Supt. Ralph E. Cotanche hopes to have the answer to a slippery problem, as represented by 20 boy pupils clad in their birthday suits.

The first fire drill this week demonstrated the efficiency of the fire drill system, in which a fire chief, appointed in each room, supervises evacuation of the building. Six hundred pupils were out of the building in 1 minute 45 seconds.

Congratulations were in order until some one remembered Instructor Harold Isaacson's swimming class. Some swimmers had ventured as far as the corridors in the nude; others were scampering about the locker room in various stages of attire. A third group was at the bottom of the pool, holding their breaths and figuring they were safe as anything from fire.

MOTHER OFFERS TO SELL CORNEA TO AID CHILDREN

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 20 (AP).—A middle aged woman, mother of five children, offered to sell the cornea of one of her eyes for $5,000 "to give my children the chance in life to which they are entitled."

"That is a great sacrifice, but I would gladly make it for my children who have not had a chance," said Mrs. Grace Davis as she stood barefoot in her cottage door in the city's mill district.

Corneas, the clear windows in front of the pupil of the eye, are used occasionally to restore sight to persons with corneas scarred in accidents. Mrs. Davis' offer was disclosed at a meeting of the American College of Surgeons in Philadelphia.

AN 'I GOTTA DRAG' CLUB SNEAKS IN ON POLICE GROUP

But We Ran It Out, Say Association Heads.

A mysterious attempt to make an "I Gotta Drag" club out of the Illinois Police association died an early death last night and was officially buried by members of the executive committee meeting in the Winnetka village hall.

It was all a mistake, committeemen said, that a couple of "I Gotta Drag" provisions crept into the draft of a proposed new constitution that was to be submitted to members at the association's convention next Tuesday. The session will be held at the Sportsman's Golf club on Dundee road.

Published, Then Protested.

Secretary Charles B. Rudderham, Berwyn police sergeant, sent the draft of the constitution to publishers of the association magazine, the Illinois Policeman. When the magazine appeared, roars of protest came from the uniformed chests of association members.

The joker clauses set up a class of associate civilian members who, after payment of an investigation fee, would be presented with membership cards and windshield stickers in the best "I Gotta Drag" manner.

"The fee, windshield sticker and membership card provisions have been stricken out," said Richard H. Bailey, Maywood chief of police, who is seeking his fourth term as president of the state association. "The executive committee decided that some time ago."

"Someone submitted the sections at a meeting of the executive committee and I thought they had been approved," said Rudderham.

Permits Civilian Members.

The proposed constitution which will be submitted to the convention contains a provision for associate members, who are to be citizens prominent in their communities and interested in police work. But they won't be charged any investigation fees, and will have no real or fancied immunity from arrest. The association wants their help in promoting one of its objectives, which is to have all police under civil service.

The association has been in existence since 1901 and has 3,500 active members. Any policeman, sheriff, deputy, constable or other peace officer is eligible to membership.

Objects to Rackets.

Opposition to the late "I Gotta Drag" movement was expressed succinctly by Fred W. Licht, Forest Park chief, who preceded Bailey as state president.

"Members are not going to permit any one to turn this association into a racket," he said. "If the executive committee has not eliminated the racket provisions, the members will."

Son Injured by Car on Way to Visit Mother in Hospital

George Guzawski's mother, 75 years old, was taken to St. Therese hospital in Waukegan Thursday night critically ill of pneumonia. When Guzawski's work was over yesterday he started from their home at 633 8th street in the suburb to visit her. He was struck by an automobile driven by Daryl Ames, 21, of 1306 Clarkson avenue, Waukegan, and taken to Victory Memorial hospital in the same town. His wife, an expectant mother, was called from his mother's bedside to his.

COLLISION KILLS TWO, INJURES 4 NEAR FREEPORT

Keith Oaksford, 31 years old, 1410 South 3d avenue, Maywood, and Mrs. Melvin Kramer, 26, of Forreston, Ill. were killed last night in an auto collision on Route 26 south of Freeport. Oaksford left Maywood yesterday with Earl Spinner, John H. Case, and R. E. Christie, all of Maywood. The four men are all employés at Hines hospital. Their car scraped that of Melvin Kramer, a Forreston automobile dealer, in which Mrs. Kramer was riding. Besides the two who were killed, Case, Spinner, Christie, and Kramer were hurt.

John Zajec, 57, of 3316 Adams street, Bellwood, was killed by an automobile at Madison and 32d streets in Bellwood. The driver was Louis Shealewick, 19, of 2429 Haymond street, River Grove.

Edwin Setzki, 64 years old, died yesterday in Southtown hospital of a skull fracture suffered several hours earlier in a collision at 59th street and Western avenue. William Gegenworth, 5043 South Western avenue, driver of the other car, was not injured. Setzki, a glass worker, lived at 3327 West 60th place.

Gus Hake, 52, an inmate of the Will county infirmary near Joliet, died in St. Joseph's hospital shortly after he ran against the side of an automobile driven by Mrs. Edward Ralford of Beardstown. The accident occurred in route 69 four miles west of Joliet.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 688 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 532 were killed in Chicago, where 17,642 were injured in the same period.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike for another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other."—From the Farewell Address.

NEITHER WAR NOR PEACE.

The two best and most completely equipped armies in the world have been engaged in war since Sept. 3. Until a few weeks ago the active force of the German army was occupied in Poland. That phase of the war is over and the Germans and French face each other on the western frontier. There is also on the western frontier a considerable British expeditionary force which, as far as is known at present, has not fired a shot.

When France went to war its mobilization was already in effect. In a few days the French patrols and reconnaissance parties were advancing into German territory, penetrating, it has been reported, to a maximum depth of seven miles. None but minor activities were reported. The purposes of this frontier thrust were never clearly apparent. Possibly it was to give a semblance of aid to the hard pressed Poles and to divert some German divisions from the east to the west.

Apparently there was no intention to remain in the occupied German territory, because when the Germans were ordered to retake the occupied strip the French fell back without making a fight of it, and in two days the frontier was clear. The French did not attempt to bombard the German industries in the Saar or to destroy any German military resources. The Germans did not bombard any French towns. The air forces were engaged in scouting and there was some fighting and some losses, but no bombing.

The British air force made an early dash at Wilhelmshaven and the Kiel canal without, so far as is known, inflicting any material damage. The greatest British air activity was in dropping propaganda pamphlets over parts of Germany, hitting Holland with some of them. The Germans are pecking away at the British naval base at Scapa Flow, in the Orkneys, and at northern Scotland, but the waves of bombers which were in the early prospectus of the war before it started have not been released. German submarines have scored at least two notable bull's-eyes in sinking the airplane carrier Courageous and the battleship Royal Oak. The air bombers have caused some casualties on other warships and there are assertions and denials of still other damage to the British fleet.

Only the war against commerce has been pressed with energy, the British maintaining the blockade and the Germans raiding belligerent and neutral ships with submarines. Only the sea war can be regarded as war in earnest. The rest of it has not been started in the west. It remains in suspension. War objectives have not been attacked from the air and cities have been spared the horrors they had been taught to expect as inevitable. The civilian populations are becoming weary of the conditions forced upon them. It seems that the greatest loss of life in England, aside from casualties at sea, has been caused by automobile accidents happening because of the darkness of unlighted cars and unlighted roads and streets. Air raid precautions have been more deadly than the expected air raids.

Hitler now says that with the French off German territory he is thru with the war against them. He will not attack and if they want to fight they will have to come to him. Each army probably has great respect for the other fellow's fortified line and does not intend to crack its head against it. No flanking movement is possible unless somebody violates neutral territory, and altho the Germans have been reported as massing troops against the Holland and Belgium frontiers nothing has happened.

As the war sums itself up at the end of seven weeks there is a military stalemate on the western front and some accomplished facts on the eastern. The restraints which the belligerents have put upon themselves may be significant of a number of things. The expected bombing of cities has not occurred and each belligerent has warned the other that the first instance of it will be followed by terrible retaliation. The world is none the worse off for this restraint, altho it isn't war as war is fought, not as it was fought in Poland. The great air forces haven't even raided arsenals, railway communications, concentrations of troops, or any other military objectives.

The belligerents seem to have declared an armistice instead of a war and people are wondering what it is all about. It may be reasoned that the British and French do not have to do anything if they can make the blockade effective. An armistice is a slower way of going broke than a war of battles, but even before these nations had all their available man power under arms they were suffering from the dislocations of economy caused by their preparations and their fears. Now their belts are pulled up tighter, their trade is busted, and all of them feel the pinch of war necessities. None of them is getting any stronger economically as they watch each other and occasionally feint to draw or give a small blow.

People everywhere are asking what is it all about? Do these enemies really respect each other's powers so much that they do not intend to unleash everything they have, knowing that the sacrifices would bring about only a red stalemate where now there is a white one? Are they convinced that a real war would produce only vanquished and no victors? Can there be a peace now? If so, who can make it and what kind of a peace would it be? None that Hitler, undefeated, would accept could imaginably put Poland back with the territory it had before Sept. 1. Great Britain and France have said they can't trust Hitler's word. They certainly have the evidence of his past performance.

Versailles gives Hitler the retort that he can't trust the empires any more than they can trust him. The whole record contains few evidences of good faith conscientiously observed. If Munich was a bad peace, so also was Versailles. If both sides are really afraid of the war from which they are now withholding, it would seem to be within human ability to arrive at an understanding which will be neither Munich nor Versailles, a peace which, if not based upon confidence and trust, would be grounded upon respect for the other fellow's strength and power to inflict damage. That might be as good a peace as Europe could expect.

GROUND FOR INDICTMENT.

The coroner's inquest into the death of one of the fifty and more typhoid fever victims at the Manteno state hospital may have been intended as a whitewash, since only members of the hospital's own staff testified. If so, the whitewash bucket ran dry. The self-serving statements of the hospital authorities are sufficient to convict them of gross negligence.

Consider the following time table of the authorities' actions during the epidemic:

On July 13 the first case of typhoid was diagnosed.

On July 15 that patient died.

On July 18, after the state health department had confirmed the finding of typhoid, "limited" immunization of patients was started.

About Aug. 13, after other patients had been stricken, immunization of all patients and employés was ordered. Immunization, it should be noted, has no protective value to a person already infected.

On Aug. 19 chlorination of the hospital water supply started.

On Aug. 31 the typhoid germs were traced to one of the wells.

Much pertinent evidence which has been in the hands of the public for days was withheld from the coroner's jury.

Dr. Hinton and his staff at the hospital waited a month after typhoid was discovered—two months after the step was recommended—before immunizing all the patients. They waited five weeks before chlorinating the water. Every high school science student is taught that typhoid is most commonly a water-borne or milk-borne disease, yet it took the staff seven weeks to trace the infection to a well. That well was only thirty feet from a sewer built by some political contractor. The milk supply was not analyzed until several weeks ago. A week ago it was found to have a bacterial content three times the maximum permitted by Chicago health regulations.

Gov. Horner has taken no steps to investigate the Manteno scandal nor to correct conditions there. A. L. Bowen, head of the state department of public welfare, has done nothing publicly, if he has done anything at all. Gov. Horner and Mr. Bowen are apparently satisfied with the state hospital system so long as the employés continue to kick in to the shakedown artists who are collecting the governor's 1940 campaign fund.

The people of Illinois obviously are not satisfied. Their representative in Kankakee county, State's Attorney Shapiro, is not satisfied. He will continue the investigation, he says. He will, it is to be hoped, present the matter to the grand jury at the earliest opportunity. There is already sufficient evidence to justify indictments, and the field has been barely scratched.

KEEP YOUR GUARD UP, BUDDY.

The warriors and sufferers from war, at the recent convention of the American Legion in Chicago, made plain their patriotic opposition to involvement of the United States in another war. They adjourned and went home, but the plotters who would involve us in another war remain active. The Legion cannot afford to lower its guard. Legion posts should continue the fight. They can make their voices heard by passing resolutions and by communicating with their congressmen, demanding that our nation refrain from the steps that lead to war.

SAD NEWS.

[Baltimore Sun.]

The fact that caviar has gone up sixty-four per cent and paté de foie gras twenty-five per cent as a result of war conditions is not a matter of prime importance to many Americans. Sturgeon eggs and Strasbourg goose do not figure on our bills of fare often enough to make their absence conspicuous.

At the same time the conditions that have cut them off unquestionably are removing a form of European propaganda that is more effective than ninety-nine per cent of the political speeches. Not all the delights that Europe customarily sent us have been frightfully expensive. There are many Rhine wines other than Johannisberger, many from France other than Romanée, Château Lafite, and the champagnes. This means that vast numbers of Americans who are not millionaires have been subjected to the seductive spell of European ambassadors who said no word, but were persuasive, nevertheless.

A man who has sampled a really good Stilton cheese can never thereafter be persuaded that England is altogether bad. Can any such power be attributed to a speech by Neville Chamberlain? He who has communed with a first rate Munich beer knows there is good in Germany, regardless of what Hitler may say. A claret, even of the fourth or fifth growth, argues more eloquently than Daladier that France is a highly civilized country. Cut off these ambassadors of good will and we shall be the poorer, yes, but Europe, too, will suffer, as forgetfulness gradually dulls the appreciation that the judicious have of some of its chief triumphs.

ELEMENTARY, MY DEAR WATSON.

After debauching our mind for too many years on current mystery and detective fiction, we have been celebrating an Old Home week with the granddaddy of them all, Sherlock Holmes. And how these tales stand the test of time! How they communicate the mood of London in the late 90s, and charm the imagination with the cumulative depiction of a great character!

But what we started to say is that in the volume called "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," we rediscovered a story in the mood of these October Saturday afternoons—a football yarn. Of course it was "rugger," but since that game is the parent of American intercollegiate football, the tale is apropos. See "The Adventure of the Missing Three-quarter."

A large young man from Cambridge barged into the rooms in Baker street to inform the master mind that his star player had disappeared on the eve of the great game with Oxford.

"He's simply the hinge that the whole team turns on. I'd rather spare two from the pack and have Godfrey for my three-quarter line. Whether it's passing, or tackling, or dribbling, there's no one to touch him, and then, he's got the head and can hold us together. . . . There's Moorhouse, first reserve, but he's trained as a half, and he always edges right in on to the scrum instead of keeping out on the touchlines." . . .

Sherlock admits that he has never heard of this demigod, and adds:

"My ramifications stretch out into many sections of society, but never, I am happy to say, into amateur sport, which is the best and soundest thing in England."

But he takes the case and finds the missing three-quarter in tragic circumstances, too late, however, for the big game. Oxford won, 11 to 0.

INDIAN SUMMER MOOD.

Turquoise skies curve in silent reverie
Above a world as rapt and still as they,
While pensive winds explore hushed woods with me
For subtle beauties soon to flee away.
And threading through the trackless forest maze,
Beneath twined branches of sun haloed trees,
We sense the spell of hovering purple haze,
Old ghost of Indian smoke which haunts the breeze.

Time's rigid line is blurred. Far days and near Blend indistinguishably. We feel the glow
Of other hours, long dead, but living here
In vivid colors, fragrance, winds that blow
With tireless zest. And years which are to be
Peer through the purple shadows wistfully.

The Noble Order of Inquirers After the Health [Oct. 12] has an auxiliary known as the Noble Order of Commenters on Appearance.

"How well you look," they remark to a person suffering from an incurable malady, implying that, in their opinion, the illness is feigned.

"How well you look," they exclaim to the bereaved and heavy hearted, insinuating that sorrow should have prostrated its victim.

"How well you look," they babble to one under a great strain of heavy duties, hinting that his responsibilities are trifling.

Silence and a withering look have been my answers thus far. But when I run amuck, you'll know why.

HOME IS THE TRAVELER.

He drove into town at the edge of dusk
With jingle of harness and soft clop-clop;
The sunset glowed like a clean, new husk
Beyond the tracks and the Quality Shop.
The trees that arched the village street
Made a warming twilight of mellow gold
And the leaves that rustled beneath the feet
Were riches more than his heart could hold.
He saw the burning sumac red
In a yard with golden pumpkins heaped.
"Now that will be the forge," he said,
And his heart with eager yearning leaped,
While the maple branch that swung aloft,
Lettered plain to his dreaming sight,
Was the sign of the Inn whose humble craft
Offered him rest and ease at night.
But no one saw him pass that way
And no one saw the sign's rude scrawl,
No one but a lad who stopped his play
To watch the bright leaves drift and fall.

You Can't Keep a Good Character Down.

There's a chimney sweep in Bloomington, Ill. He wears a tall black oilcloth cap, like a dunce cap with a narrow brim, on which the words "chimney sweep" are painted in a dull orange. On his back, with the same materials, a sign says, "Beware of Dirty Flues That Cause Fires. Have Them Cleaned. See the Chimney Sweep."

He stands at Main and Washington streets across from the courthouse square. They tell me he's been here for years. Evelyn Bloomfield.

A DEFENSE AGAINST WHOOPING COUGH.

THERE seems to be no doubt but that vaccination against whooping cough will aid a large percentage of our children. One of the most dangerous of the ailments that seize upon our little ones, this disease is looked upon with dread. The reason is that all too often pneumonia or other complication may attack an already weakened patient with disastrous results. We have welcomed, therefore, the development of a defense bulwark against this menace.

The material [vaccine] is made by growing the microbes that cause the trouble and then destroying them by heat or chemicals. These cooked forms cannot bring on the disorder because they can no longer grow. On the other hand, when injected beneath the skin, they will start the body manufacturing neutralizing substances which will remain in the circulation for a long time.

Fortunately, the reactions which ensue are minor. Particularly is this true if the preparation is made with great care and the patient is otherwise well. There will probably be some slight pain, swelling, and a temperature of perhaps 100 to 101 degrees Fahrenheit, which will persist for only a few hours. The amount of discomfort is negligible when we consider that the possibility of contracting the distemper is greatly reduced.

A report of Lapin and others of New York City sets forth the results of a study of a large series of cases. Included in the total were some whose parents did not favor the plan. These boys and girls were then classified and their experience was followed as accurately as those who were treated. In this group of clinic children numbering 400 there were four times as many victims. The incidence appears higher among private patients. Of 122 who did not receive the vaccine, 62 were afflicted later. In 144 who were inoculated, only eight developed the disease.

Among the vaccinated it has been found that about 5 to 8 per cent will fail to obtain complete protection. It is pointed out, however, that with these children the seizures are decidedly less severe. The duration of the illness is shorter and the complications fewer. For example, among 20 injected subjects who subsequently fell ill, only two exhibited the characteristic whoop with violent coughing paroxysms. Furthermore, these episodes were far between and they did not cause the usual loss of weight with the necessity for repeated feedings. Of the remaining 18 none could be said to have been even mildly uncomfortable.

The question naturally arises, "How long after inoculation will the child be reasonably safe?" Most authorities will agree that three months at least must elapse. It is believed, however, that some security is afforded almost immediately. This does not mean, however, that in the presence of an epidemic its spread can be checked. The chances are that before the product can be administered the germs are well planted and are multiplying. We should not expect much influence upon the course of the malady in such circumstances.

Easily communicated, whooping cough is widespread in its ravages and we may anticipate a sizable crop of coughers in the coming months. Should the contagion strike in any household where there are other youngsters, the sufferer should be isolated and only adults permitted to nurse him. Eating utensils should be boiled and plenty of fresh air and nourishing food should be provided. The problem of nutrition must be met by frequent meals, especially if vomiting is persistent.

The danger period, of course, is between birth and the fifth or sixth year of life. It is during this interval that safeguards will be more useful. Thereafter the tot's risistance is higher.

HAVE CAREFUL EXAMINATION.

A. M. writes: Is it unusual for a 4 month old baby to be so inactive as not to kick or move her legs? She seems normal in other ways except that she has an enlarged thymus gland. Would this have anything to do with her lack of leg movement?

REPLY.

If there is a true paralysis or weakness the cause may be found in some injury to the brain or the spinal cord. A careful examination is advised. An enlarged thymus may be treated with a light dose of X-rays. The gland is supposed to have something to do with growth.

WHY TRY TO STOP IT?

M. M. writes: My mother, in her 70s, has developed some peculiarities, the worst being her mania to look young. She dyes her hair and uses lots of cosmetics. Is there anything we can do for her?

REPLY.

A world-wide problem. Why ask an elderly lady to stop a practice which has become almost second nature? From childhood on women are concerned about beauty. The present tendency is probably an indication of some senile changes. If her special friends comment adversely on the result the whim may pass.

CATARRH OR SINUSITIS?

A. B. writes: What is the difference between catarrh and sinus trouble?

REPLY.

Popularly, these terms are used interchangeably. Technically, a simple catarrhal cold may be limited to the mucous lining of the air passages. Only when the interior of the sinuses is invaded by bacteria will we have sinusitis. If the discharges persist day after day for months we may assume a chronic involvement of the bony rooms within the skull [sinuses].

AS EARLY AS 370 B. C.

L. M. G. writes: Was tuberculosis known to the ancients?

REPLY.

Yes. Phthisis, or consumption, was described by Hippocrates, who lived 460 to 370 B. C. That is certainly ancient history.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY NORMAN INGREY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile.—Health Minister Salvador Allende has ordered a "peremptory 20 day investigation" into Chile's premier socialist organization, the state insurance bank, which recently reported a $20,000,000 actuarial deficit.

The investigation primarily is aimed at irregularities discovered in formation of a monopoly of the milk supply in Santiago and alleged false reports of the bacteriological institute to close private dairy plants which resisted state intervention.

The monopoly, known as the Central de Leche [Milk Center], was started by the state insurance bank as an investment for workers' funds. The bank has 1,200,000 depositors, all obligatory. These, with their families, represent three-quarters of the country's population.

The Milk Center, established three years ago with $1,000,000 capital, already has suffered a $400,000 deficit, according to Deputy Sergio Fernandez, who first raised the question in congress. This loss, he said, induced the socialist administration to seize control of the trade.

The Center fell back on the bank to finance the monopoly. It bought eight private dairy plants in the city but still was handling only 70 per cent of the milk supply because two principal plants refused to sell. One, the Torreblanca company, was closed soon after the bacteriological institute condemned its pasteurized product as adulterated and lacking in fat.

Health Minister Allende, in ordering the investigation, said the popular front government and the Socialist party were interested in maintenance of administrative probity and that officials found guilty of irregular conduct would be punished. Allende is a socialist and the state insurance bank has become a socialist stronghold since the popular front came into power.

The investigation also will concern the excessive price paid for some of the plants. One received $50,000 more than its valuation set four years previously.

Luciano Kulzcowsky, socialist director of the insurance bank, claims the Milk Center has been making money since it was given a monopoly. At the same time it is supplying free milk to undernourished school children.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

ESTATE DIVISION.

Chicago, Oct. 16 [Legal Friend of the People].—A widow died more than 25 years ago, leaving a family of nine children. She left a home valued at $5,000. This was left share and share alike to the children. The entire family remained in the home until some of them married. Three married a few years after the death of the mother.

1. Seven have since died, [2] two of them leaving issue. There are now two of the family surviving and these two, together with another sister who died just last week, have maintained the home for years, paying all taxes, upkeep, and expenditures for maintenance, also for the care of those who were single and remained at home until the time of their deaths.

3. How, according to law, can this estate now be divided?

4. Do the two surviving members of the family who are the natural heirs take full interest with the exception of the two shares of the two who left issue surviving them? We have consulted an attorney but I have found your advice very helpful in the past and always like to receive it.

5. Would the members of this family who used their money for upkeep and maintenance be in position to get reimbursement for their expenditures?

K. G.

1. If they left wills, the rights in their shares would depend on the wording of the wills.

2. If they left no wills, their shares would go to their children.

3. See attached tabulation.

4. We do not clearly understand your question. The present shares would depend in part on the facts above suggested, and on the order in which the parties died.

5. Depends on the proof as to the understanding at the time the expenditures were incurred. It is ordinarily presumed that such contributions as between near relatives are gratuitous.

BIRTH RECORDS.

Chicago, Oct. 17 [Legal Friend of the People].—Would you please advise me [1] what year the state started with birth registrations and if there is a charge to obtain one's date of birth, [2] if the state of Indiana is the same.

MRS. C. G.

1. It has been many years. Some records have been destroyed. The best source of information as to how far the records in which you are interested go back would be the county clerk at the county seat of that county.

2. No, the laws of the two states would not necessarily be the same.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

Oct. 21, 1914.

LONDON—The allies drove 5,000 Germans out of Bruges and took possession of the town. At Middlekirke, just west of Ostend in Belgium, the German forces were repulsed by a combination of strong infantry attack and heavy fire from British warships.

BERLIN—Austrian dispatches say they have repulsed Russian attacks in Galicia, and are making progress in their campaign to drive back the invaders. The fighting near Mizyniec was especially severe.

PETROGRAD—Russian forces captured large numbers of Austrian prisoners, including an entire Austrian battalion with officers and machine guns.

TOKIO—The Japanese fleet took military control of the Marianne, Marshall, East Caroline, and West Caroline archipelagoes in the Pacific. These islands had been owned by Germany. The Japanese navy declared the action necessary to prevent the Germans from fueling warships and mine layers there. They added that they were acting in coöperation with Great Britain and that the question of permanent control of the islands would be settled at the conclusion of the war.

HOW JURORS ARE CHOSEN.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Answering the comment by "L. M." on selection of jurors, we write to say that the jury commissioners supply jurors for all local courts. We have nothing to do with the system of juror selection for federal courts.

This office selects the name of every 20th person [male or female] from the polling lists as of March, 1939, registration, following which each person so selected is directed to fill out a questionnaire and appear personally before the commissioners for examination as to qualifications for service as a juror. Upon becoming qualified as a juror a jury card is made out bearing the name, address, age, occupation, etc., of said individual and then is deposited in the general jury box, where it will remain until drawn [by lot] by a clerk of one of the respective courts requiring a jury venire.

FOR MORE SPELLING REFORM.

Russellville, Ark., Oct. 16.—I have read with interest your editorial on shortening a number of long English words. I say with interest, due to having spent more than twenty years at a newspaper desk trying to put news into simple language for the reading masses, and, at the same time trying to maintain correct usage of words and spelling.

I feel that the list printed in your editorial is hardly a scratching of the surface of what should be done. More power to you. I hope all newspapers, as well as those who speak over the radio, will foster a language for Americans and get away from the jargon which we attempt to use now and which few ever master. ED SCHULTZ.

THE ONLY LOOSE NUTS.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—As to the letter of R. J. Nugent praising C. I. O.'s slowdown, I have worked on autos and operated them for the last 31 years and would say there are fewer loose nuts and screws on them than on any other class of machinery made. This includes autos made during 1927 and 1928 when plant workers put in longer hours and worked faster than they do now. The auto plant worker has always been one of the highest paid craftsmen and when he follows instructions on the line he has plenty of time to do his particular job.

The only loose nuts in the auto plants are the communists, who should be back in Europe where they drive men at the point of a gun. B. H.

SENATOR LUCAS' CONSCIENCE.

Lyndon, Ill., Oct. 17.—According to late news dispatches the conscience of Senator Scott W. Lucas has been lost in the senate building, or more likely in some corner of the White House.

It is respectfully suggested that our senator confer with Senator Borah of Idaho, who from long years of experience knows how and where consciences are lost in Washington.

Millions of people in Illinois feel that the conscience of Senator Lucas is going to suffer irreparable injury if not found before the vote on the arms embargo act.

GEORGE A. ROUND.

LIVING UP TO OUR FAME.

Gary, Ind., Oct. 20.—Back in New England where I lived before coming to the middle west everywhere you went you could hear people say: "You can get away with murder in Chicago."

After reading the account of the jury composed of four sympathetic ladies and eight weak kneed gentlemen who acquitted a drunken policeman who shot down a man in cold blood it can readily be seen that the Windy City is living up to its sordid reputation. JAMES F. FINAN.

FAILED IN HIS JOB HERE.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Mr. Roosevelt has a nerve to be making rules and regulations for taking care of Europe's prospective 20 million refugees when for the last seven years he hasn't demonstrated the ability to take care of the 10 million unemployed in our own country. Foreigners are already beginning to "push us around" over here. Pretty soon we won't be able to say our country is our own. E. W.

"CASH AND CARRY" A SCREEN.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Lolita E. Bogert, president, of the Illinois League of Women Voters, writes today that her organization, by majority vote decided the best way to minimize our chances of participation in another foreign war was to establish cash and carry. However, she says that in order to get cash and carry the repeal of the arms embargo was required. This is absolutely not so, but the women were easily led into thinking this by the administration, as are many other people. Cash and carry provisions could easily have been added to our present neutrality bill, but cash and carry evidently is not the ultimate aim of the repealists, as their insertion of the 90 day credit feature demonstrated.

Inasmuch as the President of this great organization says they see little or no difference between guncotton and cotton, I wonder if that same organization could discern any difference between corn and whisky?

The Wilsonians didn't make the world safe for democracy and the suffragettes didn't clean up politics. NILE H. SHUPE.

FINDS JUNIOR COLLEGE O. K.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Referring to a letter in yesterday's paper criticizing junior colleges, I don't know anything about Wright, but I have a son who last month entered Woodrow Wilson college. He was a total stranger to the place and the faculty and applied there with nothing but his credits from Hyde Park High. In spite of the fact that he was a week late in entering, because of an extended trip, he was given every consideration and assistance. He was able to work out a very satisfactory schedule; he is happy in his work there and frequently comments on the kindness and courtesy of the teachers under whom he has been placed. NOEL A. DUNDERDALE.

GIVES THE EDGE TO LINDBERGH.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Between the views of Senator Key Pittmann, a professional New Deal politician from the state of Nevada, which has 99,000 population, and the views of Charles A. Lindbergh, I am inclined to believe the majority of the people of this country who are not interested in perpetuating the New Deal régime will accept the viewpoint of the latter. A MERE AMERICAN CITIZEN.

SCALES OF JUSTICE.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Be a policeman, get drunk, murder a tavern owner, get acquitted.

Be a law abiding citizen, take one beer, drive a car, get 30 days, and have your operator's license taken away.

Justice? DISGUSTED.

THE RESTRAINED HARVARD VOICE.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—What do they teach at Harvard? Voice culture?

It was Capt. Clark of the Oregon at the naval battle of Santiago who said: "Don't cheer, boys; the poor devils are dying." SENN HIGH '41.

THIS MAY CLEAR IT UP.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—I wonder how many members of the League of Women Voters also belong to the English Speaking union. That may tell the tale. BARRABAS.

LEAN DAYS COME TO UNIVERSITIES; ASK ALUMNI AID

U. of C. Campaign Planned for 50 Anniversary.

Plans to assure the financial future for the University of Chicago were discussed last night by alumni of the institution.

At the South Shore Country club 180 members of a new U. of C. alumni foundation, representing 45,000 scattered Midway alumni, mapped plans to raise a large gift to be presented to the university during its 50th anniversary celebration in 1941.

Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the university, and other speakers scanned the economic conditions which have curtailed income from endowment and other sources.

Endowment Income Cut.

Hutchins said the school's income from endowment has dropped 40 per cent in the last decade. Many donors no longer can afford to make the large gifts which supported the university in the past, he said.

"The endowed universities are more important than ever as a model for the state universities," said Hutchins. "If the endowed university did not exist, the state universities would begin to deteriorate. They might even cease to be universities."

Clarence B. Randall, a university trustee, urged alumni to assist the present day student as they themselves were assisted in richer years.

John Nuveen Jr., chairman of the new foundation, also spoke. Harold H. Swift, president of the board of trustees, was host at the meeting.

NORTHWESTERN MEETS

One hundred and fifty alumni attended the Northwestern meeting, which was held in the Knickerbocker hotel. Trustees and officers were also present. The principal speaker was Dr. Franklyn B. Snyder, who became president of the university on Sept. 1 last.

Dr. Snyder outlined the objectives for the first years of his administration.

It is his aim, he said, to build the strongest possible faculty. To this end he would urge better salaries, and would try to add young teachers and scholars of great promise to the staff. He would work for better provisions for research, but would still emphasize the priority of teaching.

Would Bolster Morale.

Dr. Snyder said he would pay more attention to the morale of students and faculty, and would arrange conferences with them and administrators. Another point, he said, would be the use of unrestricted funds in doing better those things which the university is now doing well.

The meeting was sponsored by the Alumni association, headed by Dr. Edgar Swanson. The association has given $153,625 to the university during the last year.

WANTS HEALTH BOARD REASON ON MILK RULING

Walter Schaefer, an assistant corporation counsel, explained yesterday why four members of the Chicago board of health were subpenaed to appear Monday as witnesses in the long pending suit brought by Fieldcrest Dairies to compel the city to permit the sale of milk in paper containers. The hearing is before Federal Master in Chancery Jacob I. Grossman.

"We want them to testify," he said, "because of their action last Monday in reversing their attitude toward paper containers." At that time the health board, acting upon a previous sanction of paper containers by the federal health department, took similar action.

Schaefer said the subpenas were issued to insure the board members' appearance at the hearing. The Fieldcrest suit, Schaefer said, attacks the validity of the present milk ordinance and thus the suit is not affected by the board's action last Monday. He said he did not know when an amended ordinance would be presented to the city council for adoption.

MOANS OF SINGLE FOG HORN TO GIVE WAY TO WAIL OF 3

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 20 [Special].—Word was received today that action finally is to be taken to soften the voice of the fog horn that has annoyed Milwaukeeans for 13 years. The horn is in the lighthouse at the south mouth of the harbor breakwater here.

Ever since its installation in 1926, the stentorian moans of the fog warning have irked mothers trying to get their babies to sleep, patients in east side hospitals, and insomniacs the city over. Letters to congressmen, the department of commerce, the navy and even the President himself brought no relief.

A report from Washington today said that remedying suggestions made by Congressman John Schafer, in whose district the horn is located, and sound engineers he consulted have been forwarded to the superintendent of lighthouses in Chicago. They advised that three horns be used, one sending its warning out over the lake and two smaller horns protected by baffles "thinning" the noise.

JOHNSON TELLS SCHOOLS' WORK FOR DEMOCRACY

Tangible Program Is Need, He Says.

If democracy is to survive in America, its spirit must be instilled into American youth in a tangible, intensive program, Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of the Chicago public schools, said yesterday.

William H. Johnson.

Dr. Johnson was one of 300 educators and civic leaders gathered at the Hotel Sherman for a conference on "Education for Democracy," participated in by the Chicago board of education and the all-Chicago committee to promote democratic ideals. It was sponsored by the Illinois committee on citizenship and naturalization.

More than Saluting Flag.

The spirit of democracy is much more than saluting the flag, learning the names of the Presidents of the United States or knowing the words to the "Star Spangled Banner," Charles P. Schwartz, chairman of the state committee, said in introducing Dr. Johnson. "It is a way of life," he continued, "and depends for support not only upon the educator, but upon all agencies in the community."

In the Chicago public schools, democracy is being demonstrated in the principle of equal opportunity for all, Dr. Johnson said. The students, through self-government, have the right of self-direction, rather than superimposed dictation, and an intensive program of Americanism has been added this year.

"To help each student find his place in society has long been the democratic aim," he said. "We try to do this through our adjustment service. In it, meaning is attached to all work, together with a realization of the dignity of the human personality.

All Workers Serve Society.

"We teach them that the laborer is serving society as well as the doctor or lawyer, and that the worker who serves those around him is adding to the good life. We try to educate for service.

"The word democracy is being tossed about rather perilously on many tongues today," he said. "The only true meaning must be in terms of abiding faith in a lasting brotherliness. It demands more than lip service. It calls for the human touch in all things."

Dr. Albert W. Palmer of the Chicago Theological seminary defined democracy as the right of the majority to rule and the right of the minority to criticize. The Protestant church, he said, is vitally interested in the survival of democracy, for its own survival hinges on that of democracy.

Other Speakers on Program.

Other speakers were Mrs. Kenneth F. Rich of the Immigrants' Protective league; Attorney Eleador Libonati, representing the American Legion; Dr. Edward J. Sparling of the Central Y. M. C. A. college; Dean William F. Clarke of the De Paul university law school; William Bachrach of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Rotary club, and Ernest O. Melby, dean of the Northwestern university school of education.

Dean Melby, defining Americanism as the belief in the greatest good for each member of society, said he frankly is worried about America's program for democracy. It is not merely the concern of the superintendent of public schools, he said; it is the concern of every agency.

"To be meaningful," he said, "democracy must be successful. It must feed people, house people, find jobs for people, and make people happy. Do you believe there is any possibility democracy can survive in America unless it does this? I do not."

DROWNS IN FISH POND.

Thomas Dominick, 2 years old, drowned yesterday in a fish pond at the rear of his home at 12832 Honore street, Blue Island.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

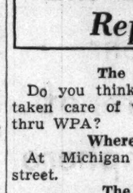
Do you think the idle should be taken care of with direct relief or thru WPA?

Where Answered.

At Michigan avenue and Ohio street.

The Answers.

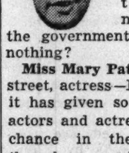
John Cottle, 236 Maple street, Oak Park, civil engineer—Neither one.



Business men should get over this idea of being afraid of things, and step out and hire men. Then we wouldn't need WPA or relief. Furthermore, those who are out of work should really go after jobs.

Miss Thea Thompson, 3515 Linder avenue, milliner—I certainly do not believe in WPA as it is now managed. It needs reorganizing on a more efficient basis. Direct relief for the unemployed is better than work relief, because it uses less money.

Herman Schwartz, 5710 North St. Louis avenue, fur matcher—I think the idle should be placed on WPA, because then they are doing work of some sort. They feel that they are earning money. Why should the government give something for nothing?



Miss Mary Patton, 1220 North State street, actress—I'm for WPA, because it has given so many actors and actresses a chance in the line they know. It has done the same thing in other fields. Some people are so unfitted for jobs that they must go on relief.

Jack Lawson, 308 North Michigan avenue, photographer—We should have direct relief and WPA, too. Work relief is necessary because so many people are willing to work but can't find jobs. For those who are unfit to work or who can't get on WPA, we need direct aid.

HEIRESS WANTS COURT TO VOID DIVORCE PACT

Suit to force an accounting and set aside a divorce settlement was filed in Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Ruth Colvin Nilsson of Deland, Fla., against John Arthur Friedlund, attorney. Mrs. Nilsson and Friedlund were divorced last Dec. 23.

Mrs. Nilsson is to receive one-fourth of the principal of the $2,000,000 estate left by her father when she is 40 years old. He was Edwin M. Colvin, vice president of the W. F. Hall Printing company. Her bill asserts that Friedlund disposed of most of the $131,470 income she received from the estate during their marriage.

It asserts further that Friedlund has kept 1,482 shares of Hall stock that her father had given her as a present, $20,000 in dividends from the stock, and $23,000 in life insurance that her father left her when he died in 1926. She asks an accounting of these assets. The agreement she seeks to set aside, the bill asserts, provides that she shall set up a $100,000 trust for her two children by Friedlund when she receives her inheritance.

SUBWAY SECTION LIES AT ANCHOR AT STATE STREET

The 4,000 ton double tube that will carry the State street subway underneath the Chicago river was towed early yesterday thru the lake from South Chicago to its mooring place in the river. Two tugs propelled the huge tube which was sealed at both ends by steel bulkheads to float it. The tube will be anchored in the river until dredging of the 30 foot channel across the river bottom is completed. Then it will be sunk into position.

Added to several weddings of interest today are two receptions tomorrow that will have brides of a few weeks as the especial guests. The brides are Mrs. Sumner Walter Dill Scott and Mrs. George N. Beecher Jr.

Among today's brides are Miss Anne Malinda Burnham, who is to be married to Jonathan Webster Strong at 4:30 o'clock in Christ church, Winnetka, and Miss Georgia Donnersberger, who will become Mrs. Charles J. Cretors this morning in St. Mary's church, Lake Forest.

Miss Burnham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Burnham of Winnetka, and Mrs. Walter A. Strong's son will have seven attendants, including the bride's sisters, Miss Barbara and Miss Marnie and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Anne Strong.

Some lovely old lace that belonged to the bride's great-grandmother, Anne Malinda Parshall Stokes, will trim Miss Burnham's gown and cap. Mr. Strong and his bride are going west on their wedding trip. They will be at home in Evanston after Nov. 15.

Miss Donnersberger is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Donnersberger of Highland Park, who will give a breakfast at the Exmoor Country club following the ceremony. The bride is to wear a hoop skirted gown of ivory satin trimmed with Honiton lace, and a short veil held in place with a coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet is a Victorian nosegay of gardenias and lilies of the valley, and for something borrowed she is wearing a string of pearls loaned by her mother.

The bridesmaids will wear hoop skirted gowns of gold faille with little poke bonnets of ostrich plumes in shades of gold and brown. They are carrying muffs of autumn colored chrysanthemums. The bride's attendants include her sisters, Miss Genevieve, Miss Antoinette, and Miss Florence, and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Louise Cretors.

Mr. Cretors, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. De Witt Cretors of Chicago, and his bride will be at home in Highland Park after a honeymoon in Jamaica.

The reception for Mr. Scott and the former Alice Hill will be given from 3:30 until 7 o'clock at the Evanston home of the bridegroom's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Dill Scott. The party for Mr. Beecher and the former Phyllis Channer will be given by her parents, the George S. Channers, from 4 until 7 o'clock in their Glencoe home.

The marriage of Miss Jane Molyneaux, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Molyneaux of Kenilworth, to John A. Breen Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Wayne Hunt Holds Trials Tomorrow

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Harold L. Behlke of Barrington is a frequent visitor at the Dunham Woods Riding club in Wayne where the third annual hunter trials of the Wayne Hunt will be held tomorrow. Mrs. Behlke watched a recent horsy event at Wayne from this old fashioned horse drawn vehicle, once the only mode of transportation on country roads. The trials will start at 10 o'clock. While the Wayne and neighboring hunts are busy with the trials, the Mill Creek Hounds, several miles to the north, will meet at 11:15 at the Clock Tower farm.

Duck Hunters to Open Season at River Clubs

BY JUDITH CASS.

AT 7 O'CLOCK tomorrow morning happy duck hunters seated in Illinois blinds will raise their guns and start firing. The 1939 fall shooting season in this state begins at that hour.

Many of Chicago's most enthusiastic sportsmen will watch the sun rise from the Grand Island, the Wild Wing, the Crane Lake, the Cuba Island, the Sanganois, the Duck Island, and other clubs down the Illinois river. Huntington B. Henry, Philip B. Hosmer, Edward J. Bermingham, and Charles F. Glore will welcome the season at the Sanganois.

The Austin Niblacks, the Vaughan C. Spaldings, and some out-of-town guests will be in blinds at another club, and Philip D. Armour will be in his favorite haunt. Henry G. Miller, Harry Taylor, and Landon Hoyt, three long time members of the Wild Wing, will be on hand, as usual, to bag their limits.

A number of enthusiastic hunters won't be at their clubs this weekend, for one reason or another. Dexter Cummings, who is active in "Ducks Unlimited"; Laurance H. Armour, Roger C. Hyatt, Howard Linn, Stuart Logan, and others are postponing their shooting trips. Mr. and Mrs. Cummings, the Marvin B. Pools, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Cox, and the Henry Rowleys will go to the Grand Island for the week-end of Nov. 2, when women will be permitted to shoot there.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox just have returned from a hunting trip in northern Michigan where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis Jr. The junior L. Edward Harts still are with the Otises at Harbor Springs, but will be returning on Monday with their hosts.

Chauncey McCormicks Drop Plans for Debut Ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick have decided not give the debutante ball that they had planned for Dec. 29. Mr. McCormick is so busy with Polish relief work that he and his wife, who is recovering from an operation, have no time for such entertaining. They were to have given the party for their niece, Miss Marion Danielson of Boston.

The engagement of another Boston niece of the McCormicks, Miss Frances Fabyan, was announced at a tea at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Marshall Fabyan. The young man is Howland Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howland S. Davis of New York. No date for the wedding is set.

Miss Fabyan visited here in 1936, the year she made her debut, and was entertained by the McCormicks and her uncle, the late Col. George Fabyan of Geneva. Mrs. Marshall Fabyan is the former Miss Eleanor McCormick, Chauncey McCormick's sister. Miss Danielson's mother, Mrs. Richard Ely Danielson, is the former Miss Barbara Deering, sister of Mrs. Chauncey McCormick.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Glore will give a luncheon at their home next Saturday for Miss Peggy Hixon and Maurice Francis Hanson, who are to be married later that afternoon. Mrs. Frank Hixon will give the bridal dinner the night before at the Onwentsia club.

Mark Vassar Birthday Tonight.

Twelve of Vassar's younger graduates will assist Mrs. Sylvanus G. Lee and Mrs. John W. Barlow as hostesses at a dinner at the Edgewater Beach hotel tonight to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the college. The party is one of several to be held thruout the United States and Canada.

Morris Hadley of New York, chairman of the board of trustees of Vassar, will speak at the dinner here. He will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. John Harris Ward of Lake Forest. A talk by President Henry Noble McCracken of Vassar will be broadcast to all groups at 9:45 o'clock.

Mrs. Lee is president of the Chicago Vassar club and Mrs. Barlow is president of the Evanston-North Shore alumnæ group.

Mrs. William Mac Lingo Jr., the former Betty Lord, is arriving from her home in Texas tomorrow to join her mother, Mrs. Russell Lord, who has been at the Onwentsia this summer. The two will leave the same day for New York for a week's whirl.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Reviewing Stand

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 20.—The race has been five-sixths run, for according to my arithmetic, almost ten full months of the year 1939 have expired and pictures must be submitted in November and December to qualify for the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences balloting. . . . Let's look over the progress of the challengers.

To date the best pictures of the season, according to the monthly Hollywood Reporter poll of the movie critics out here, have been "Dawn Patrol," "Gunga Din," "Stagecoach," "Dark Victory," "Juarez," "Young Mr. Lincoln," "Stanley and Livingstone," "The Wizard of Oz," "The Rains Came," "Babes in Arms," and "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

The best actors of the ten months have been, according to the critics, David Niven for "Dawn Patrol," Robert Donat for "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," Clark Gable for "Idiot's Delight," Laurence Olivier for "Wuthering Heights," Paul Muni for "Juarez," Henry Fonda for "Young Mr. Lincoln," Spencer Tracy for "Stanley and Livingstone," Mickey Rooney for "Babes in Arms," Bert Lahr for "Wizard of Oz," Jimmy Stewart for "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

Additions to this list may include Spencer Tracy for "Northwest Passage," Laughton for "Hunchback of Notre Dame," Gable for "Gone with the Wind," and Muni for "We Are Not Alone," providing these are released in time.

Bette Davis tops all of the actresses of the colony, as a result of "Dark Victory," "The Old Maid," "Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex," and "Juarez." . . . Opposition includes Rosalind Russell for her performance in "The Women," Norma Shearer for her portrait of the phoney Russian in "Idiot's Delight," Claudette Colbert for "Midnight," Shirley Temple in "The Little Princess," Myrna Loy for "The Rains Came," Ginger Rogers for "Bachelor Mother," Ingrid Bergman for "Intermezzo—A Love Story," Wendy Hiller for "Pygmalion," and Alice Faye for "Hollywood Cavalcade."

A possible major challenger is Vivien Leigh, with "Gone with the Wind" as an important setting for an important performance.

If you can determine the future by the immediate past, the academy's selection last year of Tracy for his warmly colored Father Flannagan portrayal in "Boy's Town," it is difficult to see how the lightning can miss landing on the noggin of youthful Jimmy Stewart. . . . His performance in "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" is one of the truly splendid achievements of the year.

It is equally difficult to imagine the academicians passing over Bette Davis. . . . However, this is guesswork and pretty futile guesswork at that, until November and December unveil the late starters, films, and performers. . . . In the meantime, clip this list out and use it to refresh your memories when the jury retires to the academy anteroom to fashion a verdict.

Good Morning!

No—Ginger doesn't dance in this one—REALLY dance. Hops about a bit in a night club, but that's all.

While one regrets her decision to be only an actress, the fact remains that she's a pretty good actress. She has warmth and sincerity and a knack for pantomime and putting her lines across.

"Fifth Avenue Girl" is a right neat vehicle for her. . . . It's a lively comedy that shrewdly rings in topical questions, tossing them lightly about with gay irony. [Such as capitalism vs. communism—you know.] Arriving, I gathered, at one decision—namely, what communists really want is to be capitalists.

Most of the action takes place in the massive Fifth avenue home of lonely Capitalist Borden who is just papa-the-money well to his family. His wife runs about with gigolos. His son and daughter burn candles at both ends, while, in the servants' quarters the handsome chauffeur, whom daughter adores, spouts red.

One day—his birthday—while sitting on a park bench, where he has sought refuge from the chill loneliness of his home, Borden encounters philosophical, out-of-a-job Mary. . . . Intrigued by her gallant acceptance of things as they are, he persuades the damsel to dine with him at an expensive night club. The dinner is prolonged into one grand celebration and Mary is hired to help bring Borden's family to their senses. She becomes a member of the household and Papa's devoted companion. . . .

Wife and children, of course, think she's a gold digging hussy and go into varied tail spins. But Mary and Papa keep right on having—apparently—a high old time. . . . Results are amusing and gratifying.

The action proceeds to the tune of clever patter, and, while the tale taxes credulity to the breaking point—does one care about being convinced when one's having a good time?

One does not.

Miss Rogers handles her rôle with skilled flexibility. Walter Connolly is a circus as Papa. [Appealing as the dickens, at times, too.] Verree Teasdale plays the beautiful and flabbergasted Mrs. Borden — who, underneath is really okeh—with bright, light touch. Tim Holt does a grand bit as the son and Kathryn Adams is cute as the little daughter of the rich who wants nothing on earth so much as to be a little wife of the poor. James Ellison plays the disruptive chauffeur with nonchalant bombosity.

Sets are lavish and photography aces.

Artist Buehr Is a Master of Atmosphere

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Several exhibitions have just opened. The colorful and vivacious water colors of George Buehr are making gay the walls of the Chicago Woman's Aid, 185 North Wabash avenue.

Mr. Buehr was abroad a year ago and these water colors were made on that trip. They are remarkable for their sense of atmosphere and distance and for the myriad shades of color the painter employs without entangling his brush in a misstep.

Frequently the balance and rhythm of a composition add immeasurably to the worth of the show. It is a pleasurable affair.

The exhibition of paintings by Frances Badger at the Paul Theobald gallery, 104 South Michigan avenue, is in an entirely different vein. Frances Badger has a quaint touch. She is interested in mural painting and the flat tones which go so well there are repeated in her easel pictures, not altogether to their advantage.

A quantity of these quiet, prim, and stylized pictures is not easy to enthuse about; a single canvas is delightful; a series grows monotonous.

Far more sophisticated are the drawings and lithographs by Kuniyoshi which make up the first exhibit offered this season by Gallery house, 17 East Elm street. Kuniyoshi is too well known to need an introduction. His "Cow with Calf" at the Arts club many years ago was one of the first challenges sent out by modernism.

He is still drawing angular cows [there is one in this exhibit] and wizened children, also dejected women, but he has made a place for himself and to be in the swim one should see his work. He, by the way, is one of the prize winners at this year's Carnegie International.

A pleasant little exhibition has been hung by the All Illinois Society of the Fine Arts at the Stevens hotel. There are oils by Dolly Hellweg and delightful water colors by her daughter, Patricia.

Mrs. Hellweg gives us several effective still life arrangements; Patricia is responsible for a series of gay and picturesque glimpses of California and desert landscape. Miss Hellweg has never been taught painting; her painting suggests she does not stand in need of instruction. She is very gifted.

'Tannhauser' Is Season's First German Opera

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The city last night saw its first German opera of the season—Wagner's "Tannhäuser"—presented by the San Carlo Opera company at the Auditorium theater. The cast was headed by Aroldo Lindi in the name part and Bianca Saroya as Elisabeth. Charlotte Bruno, Mostyn Thomas, and Harold Kravitt sang Venus, Wolfram, and the landgrave, respectively. Carlo Peroni conducted.

The performance was one that kept in great part the majesty of the music, yet which maintained the pace necessary if the opera's duller pages are not to seem absolutely static. A high point of the evening was Mme. Saroya's singing of the "Dich Theure Halle," which had all the sweep and grandeur implied by the music.

Because one cannot enjoy early Wagner and preserve intact one's sense of the fitness of things, we of the audience dutifully checked whatever feeling for the congruous we may have before going in. With this precaution taken we were not disturbed by Tannhäuser's harp playing, by the ballet of the first act, nor by any of the tableaux vivants.

Don't Scratch! Red Flannels Go on Outside

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Red flannel has been glorified into smart daytime outfits for the shoppers who are hampered with a limited clothes allowance. But this is red flannel with 1939 "oomph."

The newest arrivals feature smooth botany flannel skirts in dull black teamed with a clever fitted jacket of fire truck red. This duet can be worn as a dress with an ascot muffled in the high neckline. The jacket can go with any dated dress of last year's wardrobe, probably one with short sleeves, thereby making a slick outfit for the new season. Gold buttons march down the front of this jacket; the sleeves are exceptionally well cut and fitted; the streamline is smooth perfection. Neither skirt nor separate jacket costs much over the five dollar limit.

For a very modest sum you can buy a red flannel round bag crossed with black straps, also of wool, to finish this ensemble. There's a zipper in the top of the bag, it snuggles cozily and smartly under the elbow and holds all the necessary extras. This ensemble is the sort of a get together that can be worn to football games under a top coat. One of the brightest matching hats ever designed comes in knitted red wool. It is a hood hat . . . a knitted hood with a wired halo of fuzzy yarn the color of the hood. Mittens to match will be available later. It's a good hat for cold weather, for rumble seat riding, or for the open car addicts as well as the swarms of appreciative feminine rooters that fill the stadium each week.

The snow white beauties are almost as irresistible as this flaming red affair while the giddy kelly green number is something else to take the money. This new idea is also priced under the wire.

Architects Set Dec. 1 for Their Annual Ball; Limit on Invitations

The annual Architects' ball will be held on Friday, Dec. 1. The committee met yesterday and decided upon the date and a surrealist motif for decorations. The place has not been selected.

No long list of invitations will be issued and tickets will be limited to those recommended by the sponsors. This is a departure from past balls.

A design approved for the ball and displayed yesterday consisted of two huge columns, magenta in color; one of them festooned with bologna sausages and the other topped with a cuckoo clock ornamented with telephone instruments.

The committee consists of Nathaniel Owings, George Senseney, John Root, Alfred Shaw, Andrew Rebori, Philip Maher, Walter Frazier, Ambrose Cramer, John Fugard, Paul Schweiker, Elmer Roberts, and Jerry Loebel.

Changing Times.

The first job Whitford Kane, who opens the subscription season in The White Steed at the Erlanger Monday night, had in the theater was distributing handbills. He was a "bit" actor in a repertory company and he had to walk up and down the streets daytimes ringing a large dinner bell and handing out the bills, and at night he shifted scenery and played bits. His wage amounted to about a dollar a day. The work Kane did then is divided now among four different unions at a wage he wouldn't have believed possible then.

Occupational Game for Children.

Diversion for restless children on rainy days, on train trips, or when they have to be kept in bed—Jolly Pills. They're not pills, really, but capsules, each with a roll of colored paper inside bearing printed instructions. They were invented by Mrs. French Lane when Julie, daughter of Mrs. Lane and the late French Lane, was sick in bed when she was a small girl. This week Jolly Pills have gone on sale in loop stores. The child, equipped with scissors, writing paper, crayon, and a few old magazines, opens a Jolly Pill and follows instructions.

Dialog.

Mention of Sally Rand's bankruptcy suit elicited the story, originally told by Sam Block, of the two drunks who stood at the plate glass window in front of Sally's Nude Ranch at the San Francisco Fair. The conversation that ensued:

"Any of those girls your daughter?"

"No."

"Your wife?"

"No."

"Your sister?"

"No."

"Then I'm going to try to date one of them up tonight."

"Say, what's wrong with my folks?"

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

For several reasons, there is important beauty news in the story of the "hour glass" massage that gives you that wasp waistline.

In the first place it's a brand new theory of massage. It's exercise, as well. And in the second place it's the best system of localized reducing we've ever encountered. Results in changed measurements are astonishing.

In this new contour treatment you do not lie limp on a table and let the masseuse do all the work. Instead of relaxing those limp muscles which have become padded with unwanted flesh you contract them—and the masseuse goes to work with firm, strong fingers.

The abdomen, the diaphragm, the upper back, the lower back and the hips can be completely changed in measurement and contour with this new treatment.

The abdominal muscles are contracted by lifting the legs from the massage table. The diaphragm muscles are tensed by lifting the upper part of the body from the table. There is an exercise position that is assumed for massage on the individual areas. It's the most exhilarating massage in the world.

Deep breathing and massage movements are also coördinated in this new treatment. Inches disappear in the course of a very short time—and we can testify from personal experience that every session makes you feel peppy enough to beat the world!

This is revolutionary, this new method. You'll be hearing lots more about it, and you'll be seeing beautifully remolded figures that have been achieved by it.

They Hunted a Fox

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright 1939, by Alice Ormond Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

Alison Young and her fiancé, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, are guests at Chenerys, the English country estate of Tom Boldre, to attend a fox hunt and ball. Wynn Marchmont, sister of Tom's wife Pat, is engaged to Tom's brother, Derek, a veterinarian. Alison overhears a love scene between Pat and Arthur Kingsclere. Chenerys is mortgaged to the hilt. Gregg, Tom's agent, urges him to accept an offer made for the estate, but Tom refuses to sell. At the hunt, from a far off hill, Alison and Colin see Tom thrown and a man bending over him. Reaching the accident, they find Derek stooping over Tom's prostrate form. A farmer, Glover, happens along and helps them. Tom, revived, is surprised that Derek, rather than his neighbor, Maj. Fitts, found him. Three weeks later Tom is again thrown and dies soon after. Alison visits Wynn at Chenerys. Riding near the scene of Tom's first accident they find the dead body of Glover. Official verdict is that Glover was killed by a shot from a passing car. Kingsclere, Derek, and Maj. Fitts all drove that way. Inspector Headcorn from Scotland Yard investigates. He finds the murder weapon. It belongs to Maj Fitts, but was stolen the afternoon of the day Glover was shot—after Kingsclere and Derek had called. Dr. Blount, who'd attended Tom, suffers an apparent stroke while the inspector questions him. Dr. Colin Ladbroke exposes the illness as a fake and gets Dr. Blount to admit he gave Tom an anti-tetanus injection, which caused his death, as he had not been desensitized after a previous injection. The first injection must have been given Tom after his first fall when he was unconscious—whoever gave it must have murdered Glover because he was a witness. Derek admits having anti-tetanus serum which was taken from his room. Derek goes out for a walk in the night—that same night Mrs. Glover is beaten up. Her assailant was evidently seeking to destroy evidence in the farmhouse. The inspector finds Wynn battling with Mrs. Glover over the syringe she had found which Glover had apparently picked up and hidden.

INSTALMENT XXXVI.

HORRIBLE SUSPENSE.

Inspector Headcorn remembered the superintendent's remark about Maj. Fitts knowing a good deal more than one might suppose. It might be worth while to pay him a surprise visit, see what he could be tricked into giving away.

Fitts was out. Headcorn declared a willingness to wait for him, and obtained Mrs. Hargrave's permission—grudgingly given—to wash his hands. Left alone he made routine use of his solitude.

Quickly but thoroughly he inspected the major's rather extensive wardrobe. Every garment was well brushed, the shoes polished to mirror perfection and carefully treed. He examined the clean ebony toilet articles ranged with military niceness on the starched linen cover, scanned the insides of drawers and glanced towards the bed table. He picked up the volume on which folded spectacles reposed. Not, oddly enough, about any form of sport. He shrugged and stole downstairs.

In the prim, stuffy drawing room he did not linger long, nor yet in the cubbyhole of a dining room. Sitting down in the study, he pulled open the one table drawer and surveyed its tidy contents. A shabby note book attracted him. In it were annotations of the major's various investments—solid paying concerns. It would seem that the old gentleman whose portrait glared from the drawing room wall had left his son quite decently off.

Far back in the drawer was a dingy book. Headcorn drew it out and was just removing from its pages a blank sheet of paper when the telephone rang. In haste he put everything back in its proper place—and barely in time, for here was the housekeeper looking in on him.

"No good you stopping, sir. The major's lunching with Col. Stafford." Firmly she ushered him out.

In the drive he met Gregg. The agent stopped with his slow, mournful smile and balanced awkwardly back and forth without speaking. In the dazzling sunshine he made an oddly-depressing figure—dun-colored from tie to tight gaiters, skin dried, eyes muddy in the depths of their bony sockets. Even the retreating hair looked ill-nourished, faded out.

"Major at home?" asked Gregg after a lengthy delay.

"No, at the chief constable's. He's this moment rung up."

"O!"

At the back of Gregg's eyes had been another question, an uneasy one. The gleam of it still lurked as Headcorn nodded and passed on.

Budworth had finished his job with the fingerprints. The copy of The Reader's Digest revealed a multitude of Glover's finger marks, and in just one portion—it covered three pages—a few belonging to Mrs. Glover.

"That settles it," said Headcorn and closed the magazine with a snap.

. . . . . .

Wynn was ill. She had dug herself in. Since breakfast of the previous day she had lain in her own room with drawn curtains, refusing food. Only Bessie had seen her.

Alison, next door, listened, but heard nothing. She went on with her wild scribble to Colin:

"I saw her when she came in from her ride. She was looking like death. I can't help thinking it's some worse thing she's found out. If the inspector knows about it, why does he keep us dangling in this horrible way?

You say I must come home. Colin, I can't—not now. Too many rats have been leaving the ship. I've simply got to stand by Wynn, anyhow for the present. I told you about Arthur and the major. Well, since then it's just every one else who is keeping carefully away. When I think what it was like those first few days! Friends dropping in just any old time, frank and easy, and now——!"

She did not write the tenth part of it. How Gregg and the servants were stinking about with strained expressions. How the three visible members of the household, when they had to meet, forced flat conversation, avoiding one another's eyes. How Derek went on doggedly with his tasks though the whole place waited—waited for the bomb to explode.

And in that darkened room next door Wynn lay with sealed lips. . . .

The landing was empty. Alison cracked open the other door and gripped her courage in both hands.

"Wynn—are you awake?"

No movement from the bed. A cool, purplish dusk, the silver sheen of a mirror. A voice muttering, "Come in."

"Head better?" Alison moved forward.

"Head? O, that!" The rough curls stirred impatiently.

The girl in the bed raised herself.

"Look, Wynn, couldn't you just give me some idea——?"

"Of what?" Wynn sank back, staring up at the ceiling.

"There's something, I know it. Would it hurt to let me hear?"

There was another dreadful silence. Slowly Wynn dragged herself upright. Her eyes looked sunken as from a long illness. Round them were bruised patches, along her cheek a red scratch.

"No." The voice came from far away. "You'll have to know soon. You see, I rode over to Boxtree farm."

"You did, Wynn. But why?"

"I hoped I could make that woman tell me the truth. It seemed to me the one way to keep Derek from being arrested—to find out who really gave Tom that first injection. It mightn't have happened during the hunt. I kept saying, suppose it was done some other time, by—well, a person who had a good reason?"

Arthur Kingsclere. . . . "Yes. Go on."

"Well, I was wrong," said Wynn hardily. "It was Derek after all."

"O, my dear——!"

It was all Alison could say. Any sympathy in words would be an outrage. Besides Wynn was whispering again in the same dry voice—telling how it had happened. Now she had finished. Alison wet her lips, drew a dazed hand over her forehead.

"But . . . I don't quite get it. At least, not the whole. When did Glover hide the syringe? Before Colin and I saw him? It doesn't just make sense."

A barren shrug. "Maybe she hid it. What does it matter? You see, it was Derek's."

Cold fingers clutched Alison's heart. "Derek's! He actually had one? With anti-tetanus in it? O, Wynn, are you sure?"

"He told me. He says it disappeared from his room here, some time ago. So now you know.

And Glover had seen him use it on Tom. There seemed no way out. . . .

Desperately Alison ransacked her store of impressions. She recalled something now which she did not believe she had mentioned in her talk with the inspector. When Glover had strolled off to get the gate he had bent over near the two horses as though to pick something up from the ground. If it was the syringe, then his interest in Tom's wrist became only too understandable.

CHALLENGE: Members of the Oak Park Thursday club and other homemakers have written to question me about the letter printed recently in this column which described how a Chicago mother feeds her brood on little more than $18 a month.

"Impossible!" chorus these ladies, several of whom have families of the same size as our budgeting homemaker's [seven, in all]. "Please have her tell us how she does it!" cry others.

I sincerely believe that this kind of economy is possible, but exceedingly difficult, and I am writing this woman to ask her what foods she serves, and for suggestions on buying economically. Such information will be of great help to many others among our readers, I am sure, and I shall pass her suggestions on when I receive them.

SOUTHERN SWEET POTATO PIE: This is the real southern style sweet potato pie, writes a reader who knows. Cream thoroly 1 cup sugar and ½ cup butter. Add 2 well beaten eggs, 1 cup thoroly mashed and whipped sweet potatoes, and 1 teaspoon vanilla. There are no spices and milk in this recipe. The mixture should be baked in a very "short" crust, says our informant. She never uses leftover mashed sweet potatoes for her pies, and she shies away from dry looking potatoes. The Porto Rican yams now on the market are good, she says.

FRUIT CAKE TIME: Already requests for fruit cake recipes are pouring in. Fruit cakes should be made by the last of this month for Thanksgiving, and by early November for Christmas, in order to have time to ripen properly.

"Holiday Cookies and Fruit Cakes" is a booklet prepared last year by my department, and includes only the choicest of tested fruit cake recipes. A copy will be sent for 5 cents in stamps enclosed with your request.

Dissimilarity of Tastes Not Always Fatal

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I am 20 years of age and my fiancé is 24. There's something I never thought of about him and me, but I've been thinking quite a bit about it lately. We do not agree on some things and my understanding is that if a married couple doesn't agree on everything, there's bound to be trouble. For instance, I belong to a skating club. He doesn't like skating so I have to have my brothers take me. There are other thinks like that on which we argue and quarrel. What is your opinion? BESS."

Our opinion, Bess, is that it would be the perfect and ideal state if two people agreed on everything. It would be that to some folk, probably including you. But it would be monotonous to a number of other people.

You raise the question over an incidental thing. It is a healthful and normal pastime taste, to be sure. But if your man doesn't care for skating, don't argue him into cultivating a taste for it. If you were smart, you'd persuade him into it by hinting what a gorgeous picture he would make on skates.

But in pastime enjoyments any number of contented married folk are not in unison.

The things that are important in a marriage union are having the same ideals and ethics. It is advantageous when the two are in complete harmony on religious matters. It is advantageous when the two are on an equal educational plane. Not necessarily both college graduates or high school graduates, but of such equal mental caliber as to provide compatibility in moments of general discussions.

But in your case, Bess, we wouldn't worry about a silly item such as distaste for a sport. That isn't going to wreck a marriage unless it is used as the pivot on which to sustain quarrels.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Simonds of 1414 Dearborn parkway have announced the engagement of their daughter, Katherine Soule, to William Champlin Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel R. Lewis of 4737 South Kimbark avenue. Miss Simonds attended Francis Parker school and Monticello and was graduated from the University of Chicago.

Mr. Lewis has had all of his schooling at the University of Chicago. He was graduated from the University high, the university, and is now in its medical school. No date has been set for the wedding.

From Garden City, L. I., comes announcement of the engagement of Miss Leslie Dalcher Cooney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lupton Cooney, to John Dibble Jr., son of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Dibble of Evanston. Miss Cooney attended the Barnard School for Girls, the Cathedral School of St. Mary, and Miss Horton's school. Her fiancé attended the Millard school in Washington and is now at West Point. The wedding will take place in June.

Toys for Christmas Season

CHILDREN'S TOYS YOU CAN MAKE.

Approximately two months until Christmas, with many birthdays to be remembered between now and then! You can use toys such as these for gifts on many occasions, and they are easy and inexpensive to create. No. E-702 makes a boy and a girl doll, both in peasant costume. For yardage requirements, consult the pattern envelope. No. E-11202 makes four animals, stuffed sturdily to take punishment in play. They are an elephant, a bull, a duck, and an appealing looking puppy. Yardage requirements are listed on the pattern envelope.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Don't Put Too Much Stress on Popularity

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Girls in their teens—boys seem to be quite ignored, though I believe they need it nearly as much—are being rather deluged with advice, these days, on how to be popular. A number of magazines go into this every month and much of their advice is good and surely very practical. I have a suspicion there are many mothers of daughters who read these articles, too.

What is needed is some sort of perspective on this thing, principally by mothers. If they gain it they will by words or just by their attitude pass it on to their daughters. A real perspective should make their conclusions something like this:

"Of course I want my daughter to be adjusted to life. I want her to get along with people—young and older. I want her to have real friends. I want her to have good times.

"But I know all girls can't be what is known as popular. If I work for her popularity as an important thing it's a rather empty chase and makes for a lopsided slant on life. A girl can be happy and normally adjusted without being constantly surrounded by a flock of young people. She may be the kind who will always have a few close friends rather than a horde of acquaintances.

"Besides, the popular girl is not by any means the one who attracts the most interesting boys, nor is she always the one who makes the finest marriage. Many attractive and intelligent young men don't want to be one of a crowd when it comes to being serious about a girl.

"I intend to do everything I can to encourage my daughter to mingle with groups, to learn to dance, to smooth out her manners, to make the most of her looks and to make her home attractive to her friends. But this is not all of life. In addition I want to help her to live a full personal life—to develop any talent she may possess, to let her see the world [either nearby or to travel], to open her mind and heart to music and books, and to make our family life of interest and consequence to her. Even if she goes through a boy-crazy phase or yearns for popularity I want to keep these aims in mind for her."

This isn't thinking it entirely thru, but I'd like many mothers, and perhaps my young readers, too, to put up a little sales resistance to the emphasis on "how to be popular."

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

I am not particularly interested in statistics, but there is one thing I should like to know: How many tricks could the finest player in the world pick up if he played or defended every hand double dummy [as though he could see all fifty-two cards]? In other words, how far short of theoretical perfection does human excellence fall? I sadly suspect that it is very far, indeed! For example, what flesh-and-blood defender would defeat the small slam contract in today's hand?

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
2 no trump	Pass	4 spades	Pass
5 spades	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the club jack. Declarer, realizing that no matter where the club king lay he would have to lose at least one trick in the suit, put up the ace as a safety play. Then, since there was a chance that the king and queen of diamonds might fall, he cashed the diamond ace and ruffed the seven spot. When a high honor did not appear on the second round it was obvious that this particular hope was dead, but declarer continued ruffing out the diamond suit in the hope of developing a favorable end position. He entered dummy with the spade queen and ruffed another diamond, reëntered with the spade king and ruffed dummy's last diamond. Now, back in his own hand, he led a club toward the queen and, when West played the ten spot, shrewdly guessed that a duck in dummy might produce the blank king from East. It did, and now poor East, reduced to hearts, had to return a heart up to dummy's major tenace. Thus declarer avoided the loss of a heart trick and held his club losers to one trick, thereby fulfilling the contract.

Aside from the fact that the clairvoyant original opening of a heart would have made the contract impossible of fulfillment, it is interesting to note that, even on the club opening, East could have killed the slam by making the remarkable play of the club king underneath dummy's ace! Then it would be West, not East, who would win the club trick for his side and, of course, a heart lead through the ace and queen inevitably would produce the setting trick for the defenders. But, I ask you, dear readers, what player in East's position could visualize that only through sacrificing the club king at the very first trick could he defeat the contract? Frankly, I'm very glad that I wasn't East!

Acting Her Age Is Older Woman's Best Charm Asset

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Trying to crawl under the ropes which separate her from the younger generation is suicide to any woman's charm. No matter how young she looks and feels, or how successful she is in adapting herself to younger age groups, she sacrifices something when she strays away from her own generation."

This pertinent comment comes from Mrs. Sarah Berle, mother of Milton Berle, famous comedian. Mrs. Berle says further: "The obvious danger, of course, is presenting a spurious youth, which is infinitely worse than appearing to be older than your actual years."

The happy middle course, she says, is to be your age, and to make capital of the assets maturity, poise, and experience offer you; to be comfortable and content in that age and not waste precious energy in straining for something to which, by all tokens, you have no rightful claim.

Dressing for a gracious middle age is enough challenge to keep any woman on her toes these days. If she's smart, she does it so well that young girls try to imitate her.

Hair comes first, says Mrs. Berle. The lack of luster and the depletion of youthful color which come with age require some combatting on your part, and keeping it groomed to perfection calls for more effort than you expended in your salad days.

Go lightly on eye makeup. Used by young girls, it has a cosmetic advantage in improving eye beauty, but it too often emphasizes crows' feet, circles, puffiness and other age marks around the eyes of the older woman. An eyebrow brush dipped in olive oil is frequently all the older woman needs to brighten up her eyelashes and eyebrows, and unless the skin area around her eyes is free of all sallow or blue-tinged color, she should forego shadow entirely. It only emphasizes these defects.

In dress, create a picture that will be challenging and distinctive. Don't be content just to be pretty. Don't wear frills and draperies, just because you think they help to conceal age marks. They rarely do, and the features you want to hide are less noticeable if you will boldly point them up.

Two Hand Knitted Scarfs

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Hand knitted scarfs are the ideal gifts at this time of the year. The handkerchief scarf in two color tones is of the more unusual type and perfectly simple to knit, since the entire scarf is done in garter stitch. The long model is the usual one for men or women, and is done in double knitting, another type of stitch which every one should know, especially because it is so simple to do.

For instructions in knitting the two scarfs, No. X-366, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

The Housewife

Now that winter is in the offing you'll be glad to make the discovery of an excellent new window ventilator that is portable, simple to install, inexpensive and effective. It slants out from the window sill as the glass ventilators do, but it is of metal with an enamel finish. You can't see into the room from the outside.

Its new feature is a roll of bumper along the top which deflects the air, preventing drafts. The air from the open window is sent up toward the ceiling and then out over the room. This ventilator comes in cream white and in a wood tone.

There will not be enough white collar jobs for university graduates if student attendance in colleges continues at its present rate of increase, Prof. William F. MYSTERY WEAVE TOPCOATS

$39

It's a mystery to us, too . . . the softly shimmering gleams of color in a fabric that looks like other fine shetlands until the light strikes it at certain angles. This much, however, we know—radical changes in the weaving process were made by the noted mill that wove them and no other mill knows their secret. Such imported fabrics are up as much as $1.50 a yard because they can't be duplicated. Yet these are still at their original $39.

WOOL GLOVES

$1

Hand knitted of pure, soft Irish wools, and sized to fit, these are unusual at $1. We have on hand a tremendous supply of them in 8 solid colors and 4 heathers, but after these are gone—you'll find such gloves at considerably higher prices.

English Hand Printed

WOOL CHALLIS TIES

$1

Despite their ocean voyage and hand printing these English wool challis in foulard patterns and colorings are only $1. Incidentally we had a letter from our hand printer the other day. He, like most of the others, closed his shop, and the chances of replacement, when these are gone, is very slim.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 20.—Tomorrow will be showdown day for two Big Ten title contenders.

Minnesota and Ohio State, both undefeated in conference competition, will try to prove they have what it takes before a crowd of 55,000 in Memorial stadium.

Boths squads are in first class condition. Both are eager. Both are pointed. Both are well drilled and fully equipped with tricky and versatile attacks. Word came out of both cantonments tonight after their dress rehearsals that everything was slick as a whistle and that all either wanted was a square deal from the weather man. The prediction is for fair skies.

Two Shutouts for Ohio.

Ohio State comes up to the battle with a record of two shutout victories over outstanding opponents. The Buckeyes rolled up a 19 to 0 count on a particularly strong University of Missouri eleven and repeated last week, 13 to 0, against Northwestern. You would think they would be happy over the early season developments, but that Northwestern game was extremely humiliating. It marked the first time in Francis Schmidt's 22 years of coaching that his team failed to complete a forward pass.

The Ohio party detrained in St. Paul this afternoon at 3 o'clock and went directly to the Minnesota stadium for its final workout. Gov. John Bricker and the Ohio State band will arrive in the morning.

This is homecoming for the Minnesota grads and the Twin Cities were filling fast tonight with out of town guests. There were no hotel rooms available in Minneapolis at noon.

Meet for Fourth Time.

Altho both schools have belonged to the same conference for a quarter of a century this is only their fourth meeting. Ohio State smothered the Gophers 27 to 0, in 1921, but the following year Minnesota, with one of its all-time greats—Earl Martineau—carrying the ball, scored a 9 to 0 victory. Minnesota won, 19 to 7, in 1931, in a post-season charity game, which may or may not be fair to count, depending upon whether your allegiance belongs to Ohio State or to Minnesota.

Homecoming celebrants joined undergrads tonight in a huge bonfire rally calculated to fire up their favorites for the big game. The Gophers will be defending a brilliant record, one that has few counterparts in intercollegiate football. They have lost only one game on their home field since 1933, Bernie Bierman's second year as head coach. Notre Dame, which escaped with a 7 to 6 score in 1937, is the only team which has been able in that span to conquer Minnesota in its own bailiwick.

May Be Decided in Air.

It is not unlikely that tomorrow's game will be decided in the air. Both teams have good lines, despite the inexperience Minnesota claims up front. The Gopher linemen were good enough to hold their own with Purdue's and that's no mean achievement. Their work in the Nebraska game, which Minnesota lost 6 to 0, was disappointing and on their showing that afternoon many thought Bierman's boys would go nowhere in Big Ten competition. They would be satisfied merely to hold their franchise. The improvement against Purdue was so marked however, that now Gopher adherents expect them to play the Buckeyes to a standstill as long as the battle remains on the ground.

Bierman tonight was undecided about his starting quarter back. If Minnesota kicks off, Joe Mernik, a sophomore who has shown considerable running ability, will get the call. If the Gophers receive, the quarter back will be Bob Paffrath.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 20.—Two years ago last spring Arthur de Kankovszky of Hungary, Hans Hieronimus of Germany, and Franz Rybarczyk of Poland accompanied Europe's amateur boxing champions to Chicago for the international match with our Golden Gloves winners. . . . During the trip across the ocean and their stay in Chicago the three became fast friends. . . . A few weeks ago their friendship was put to a test in unusual fashion. . . .

Franz Rybarczyk.

Arthur Kankovszky.

Poland and Germany were at war. . . . Rybarczyk, whose home is in Poznan, was forced to flee the country and, after wandering around for three weeks, finally crossed the Hungarian border and was placed in a refugee camp. . . . He became separated from his wife and two children. . . . At the earliest opportunity he sought out Kankovszky in Budapest and asked his help in informing his family that he was alive. . . . Kankovszky telephoned Hieronimus in Berlin, who lost no time transmitting the message to Mrs. Rybarczyk. . . . "Even in war," explained Hieronimus, "sportsmen must help one another." . . . Kankovszky later sent Rybarczyk enough money to get him out of the refugee camp. . . . Several Polish boxers are said to be in other refugee camps in Hungary, and Kankovszky hopes eventually to get all of them jobs in Budapest until such time as they can return to their homeland. . . . It is possible, according to the Hungarian boxing leader, that some of the Polish boys will make the all-European team which will meet Chicago's Golden Gloves winners next April at Chicago Stadium. . . .

Tom Harmon of Michigan, Eddie Herbert of Indiana, and Tommy O'Boyle of Tulane were football teammates at Gary's Horace Mann High school. . . . Players from Gary high schools are competing this fall on 23 college squads from coast to coast. . . . Kentucky's recent 21 to 13 victory over Vanderbilt was its first since the two teams started playing 43 years ago. . . . Almost 100 former baseball players are receiving aid from the Association of Professional Ball Players, the organization which gets a share of the receipts from the annual All-Star interleague game.

Rings and Things.

Now a swell diamond ring gives a gal great delight,
Too, a ring at the door if she's dated that night.
A ring on the phone can convey grief or joy,
While a ring in Pop's voice proudly means "It's a Boy!"
A ring in his nose keeps a piggie from rooting,
And a burglar alarm stops a looter from looting.
A ring round the moon means a shower, by heck!
But a ring in the tub is a pain in the neck. —Kay Dee.

MICHIGAN ARMY LAYS SIEGE TO MAROONS TODAY

Aerial, Infantry Assault Starts at 2 P. M.

BULLETIN.

Englewood Station, Oct. 20.—The First Michigan football army landed here at 8:19 p. m. Missing from the Wolverine rolls were Capt. Archie Kodros of the tank division and Paul Kromer and Ed Frutig of the flying corps. Injuries kept the trio in the base hospital at Ann Arbor. Gen. Crisler billeted his men at Camp Windermere East.

BULLETIN.

University Club, Oct. 20.—Fielding H. Yost, long time field marshal of Michigan, discussed tactics of the Heston-Eckersall campaigns in a Wolverine parley.

BULLETIN.

Fort Stagg, Oct. 20.—Col. Vinson Sahlin, commanding the Maroon freshmen legion, volunteered the services of his men for tomorrow's siege. The offer was rejected in a special communique from Gen. Shaughnessy on the grounds that such action would be contrary to organized warfare. "We'll draft 'em in 1940," Shaughnessy commented unofficially.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Maroonville-on-the-Midway, Oct. 20 [Special].—Warsaw was never like this beautiful Gothic town, as its citizens prepared for tomorrow's siege of Fort Stagg by the University of Michigan football forces. The Maroon secret service detail, operating in Ann Arbor throughout the last week, advised the home office that the enemy will strike at exactly 2 o'clock.

Gen. Herbert Orren [Fritz] Crisler, commanding the Wolverine army, is bringing a full force, and is not traveling light, as was first reported. Military observers took this to indicate that the Michigan offensive will be concentrated around Tom Harmon, its new touchdown machine, said to be one of the deadliest weapons to sweep across a Western conference battlefield. In last Saturday's engagement against an unsuspecting Iowa regiment Harmon functioned with such precision that he personally scored 27 direct hits against Iowa's 7.

[Mention of Gen. Crisler recalled to several of the older residents of Maroonville-on-the-Midway the fact that he was once a private in the local corps, serving three years with distinction as an end in the '20s. He later rose to a lieutenancy under Gen. Stagg, but resigned to serve in the Minnesota and Princeton armies before taking command at Michigan].

He Even Has Help.

Harmon will join with Fred Trosko, Forrest Evashevski, and Bob Westfall in the aerial and infantry assaults against Chicago tomorrow, according to spies who witnessed the Iowa debacle last week. The latter's reports, however, indicate a front line of tanks led by John Nicholson and Roland Savilla.

Gen. Clark Shaughnessy of Chicago drilled his men as usual today on the parade ground back of the Midway fieldhouse. Quiet reigned in the barracks, but the men, with only six days to recover from last Saturday's

A Last Minute Checkup on Plans for Today's Battles

Three members of the strong Michigan squad hold a before-the-battle conclave in their hotel on the south side last night. Sitting in are, left to right: Joe Rogers, an end; Forrest Evashevski, the Wolverines' star blocking quarter back, and John Nicholson, also an end. Chicago's Maroons provide the opposition as Michigan goes after its second conference triumph. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

80,000 to See Irish Battle Navy Today

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Oct. 20.—With the arrival of Navy's Midshipmen and the Irish from Notre Dame this morning for their game in Municipal stadium tomorrow, loyal Clevelanders prepared for a football festival the like of which the old village has not seen since it was last host to these rival institutions. The citizenry will have adequate help, however, for more than half of the 80,000 who will jam the stadium are from outside the metropolitan limits.

Notre Dame is the greater magnet with the football proletariat, but the loyalists appreciate a proprietary glimpse of the white capped middies now and then. There was far more interest, however, in the 9 o'clock arrival of the contingent from Annapolis, in charge of Capt. E. E. Larson, Navy coach, than in the squad of Irish who preceded the Middies by more than an hour.

Each squad retired to quarters,

Illinois Has Hope; Indiana Is the Favorite

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 20.—The fighting Illini who last week experienced a nice, blistering warmup at the hands of Southern California's sunshine and Southern California's endless array of footballers will be back in their own Big Ten company tomorrow, but the local town criers aren't on the housetops shouting of victory.

The sturdiness of the impending foe—Indiana—explains the calm that has settled around the stadium which once echoed to the hoof beats of the peerless Red Grange while he was carrying his 77 from one end of the gridiron to the other.

Another Rabbit, Maybe?

Even the fact that Indiana hasn't registered a touchdown triumph here since 1899 isn't sufficient to induce the Illini to break out in pre-battle song. But the Illini cohorts are hoping, which is an old football custom here as well as elsewhere. Maybe, they

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Northwestern Wildcats and the Wisconsin Badgers, each scoreless in one prior Western conference engagement, will meet in Dyche stadium at 2 o'clock this afternoon to see what can be done about remaining in the running for all or a share of the 1939 championship. The loser almost certainly will be relegated to the thwarted group known as the also-rans, a sad October predicament.

A crowd of 40,000, probably more if fine weather prevails, is forecast for this, the 27th football match between the two universities.

Wildcats Want Some Points.

Wisconsin has experienced the throb of victory this season. The Badgers defeated Marquette, 14 to 13, on Sept. 30, but since has lost to Texas, 17 to 7, and to Indiana, last Saturday, 14 to 0. Northwestern, touted thruout the nation for weeks prior to the opening of the season as a possible national champion, hasn't scored a point. The opener was dropped to Oklahoma, 23 to 0, and last Saturday the Wildcats were on the zero end of a 13 to 0 count in a game with Ohio State in Columbus.

These early disappointments, according to persons in the two camps, probably will make for a fine, hard fought game this afternoon, rather than a sorry spectacle of discouraged and disillusioned stars. Coaches Lynn Waldorf and Harry Stuhldreher are reported to have keyed their protéges to the thought that today is another day and that mistakes of the past should linger in memory only to the extent of serving as a warning against repetition.

Things Should Happen.

All four of the games between the two teams during the equal terms of the current coaches have been high scoring affairs. Last year Wisconsin won, 20 to 13, a week after Northwestern had turned back the eventual Big Ten champion, Minnesota, 6 to 3. Minnesota clinched the title on the last day of the season by defeating Wisconsin, 21 to 0.

The Wildcats, according to overnight announcements, will present a starting lineup altered in six spots as compared with the starters against Ohio State. With Dick Richards at quarter, Paul Soper at left half, Floyd Chambers at right half, and George McGurn at full, an entirely different back field is scheduled. Also the starting tackles, Frank Young and Alf Bauman, were not in at the start a week ago.

Badgers Shift Lineup, Too.

The Badgers arrived in Chicago at 7:40 o'clock last night and were billeted in the Palmer House. The squad worked out yesterday afternoon in Madison and was escorted to its train, which left at 4:55 o'clock, by the band and hundreds of students.

Coach Stuhldreher stuck by the lineup announced after Thursday's practice, a lineup which includes six Illinois boys, Bob Peterson of Aurora, Don Miller of Dixon, George Paskvan of La Grange, Al Lorenz of Oak Park, and Bob Holloway of Chicago.

Three Governors Attend.

Included in the crowd will be the governors of three states, Gov. George D. Aiken of Vermont, Gov. Lloyd Stark of Missouri, and Gov. Clifford Townsend of Indiana. They will be the guests of Franklyn B. Snyder, president of Northwestern university.

Five thousand general admission tickets will be placed on sale at the stadium this morning.

Five hundred University of Wisconsin alumni cheered members of the football squad at a banquet held last night in the Morrison hotel. George Haight of Chicago was chairman of the banquet. Speakers included Coach Stuhldreher, Henry L. Green of Chicago, an alumnus of the class of 1872, Circuit Judge Evan A. Evans, also of Chicago, and Howard Greene of Genesee Depot, Wis., president of the General Alumni association.

SHUFFLED CARDS HOPE TO TRUMP BATTERING RAMS

They Can't Believe They're as Bad as They Look.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Three questions, still open to debate as the National Football league enters the second half of its schedule, should be sifted down to some definite conclusions at the close of hostilities on three fronts tomorrow. In the order of their proximity to the loop, they concern the Cardinals, Detroit, and the Bears.

Out in Wrigley field, where Dutch Clark turns his Cleveland Rams loose in quest of their second victory, the man in the bleacher should emerge with a fairly accurate idea of whether the Cardinals are as bad as generally supposed. Cleveland and the Cardinals are evenly matched, the Rams having a slight advantage in the back field, which the Cardinals balance with an edge in the line. If the Cardinals are capable of coördinated, sound, alert football, they should be able to present it against Cleveland.

Should Be a Battle.

This should be one of the better football games of the year in Chicago. Neither team, if both play up to the limit of their ability, overshadows the other.

Coach Ernie Nevers yesterday announced several changes in tactics to go along with the general reorganization that started with an old fashioned s t a r chamber, take-your-hair-down parley three days ago. Capt. Bill Smith, the outstanding end in the league, will be shifted back to a half back on defense to protect against Parker Hall's passes. Everett Fisher, blocking back, will take Smith's place at end.

Lions Meet Packers.

Unbeaten Detroit goes to Green Bay to defend its lead against the Packers. This contest is expected to establish whether Detroit's complicated man-in-motion weakside offense really is a devastating as its four victories over second division clubs indicates. The Packers will be taking their first look at Johnny Pingel, Darrell Tully, and the hide-and-go-seek offense perfected by Coach Gus Henderson.

New York gets its first look at the Bears in two years tomorrow. Western division coaches are unanimous in their belief that Broadway will be seeing the best Bear team ever assembled. By nightfall tomorrow the accuracy of these appraisals will be established one way or another. The Giants, defending champions, were a very impressive team in Soldiers' field the night they whipped the All-Stars, 9 to 0.

23 Chicagoans Win $3,788 Each in Sweep

Twenty-three of the 374 American lucky tickets in the Irish hospital sweepstakes were held by persons in the Chicago district yesterday. Each ticket brought the winner $3,788. The amount this year represents the grand prize in the draw, since the Cesarewitch race, which annually decides the big prize winners, was canceled because of the European war.

The total amount won by Americans reached $1,314,945. Cash prizes of $400 each will be distributed to 600 ticket holders in the second drawing today in addition to the 50 residual prizes of about $1,272 each and 570 sellers' prizes of $184 each.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 20.—Purdue is poised on the eve of a highly significant day. For three reasons tomorrow stands out on the campus calendar:

1. The football team will play at home for the first time this season, its opponent being Michigan State.

2. For the first time in their collegiate careers members of the senior class will exercise their immemorial prerogative of wearing corduroy pants and Derby hats.

3. The gentlemen who paid for those pants will receive their annual expression of gratitude. In other words, it will be Dad's day.

Everything in Order.

Everything is in perfect order, all traditions being fulfilled. Coach Mal Elward has even outdone the other members of his profession in his relapse into profound gloom. He believes that his players are such physical and mental wrecks that he has canceled the "B" team's engagement at Northwestern tomorrow morning on the theory that the varsity will be unable to last thru the game with Michigan State. Of course he concedes that such iron men as Dave Rankin and Frank Bykowski will probably be on their feet at the finish for, after all, they're used to that sort of thing, having played sixty minutes against both Notre Dame and Minnesota.

The Purdue squad has been plagued by enough injuries to justify much of Elward's worry. For instance, Jack Brown, a brilliant left half back, is expected to be on the side lines thruout the game. So will Carl Verplank, regular right guard. Leon De Witte, Dick Potter, and Al Rossi are handicapped by injuries, but probably will play.

Fear a Letdown.

Purdue still has Mike Byelene, however, and with him in the game there may be a sprint for a touchdown from any part of the field. The seniors hope they won't be wearing those Derby hats very long tomorrow afternoon, because if Purdue scores the lids go skimming out onto the field. They're expecting Byelene to see to it that they don't keep their heads covered thru more than the first quarter.

After those two hard early season games with Notre Dame and Minnesota, followers of Purdue are afraid their team may suffer a letdown against Michigan State tomorrow. The boys played at a terrific pace to keep Notre Dame from getting a touchdown and then they came from behind twice at Minneapolis to tie the Gophers. Many believe that two such struggles at the outset may take their toll.

Dixie's Battle: It's Alabama vs. Tennessee

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 20 (AP).—Two great undefeated and untied football teams—Alabama's Crimson Tide and Tennessee's Volunteers—relaxed tonight in quiet spots away from the bedlam of downtown Knoxville, awaiting their struggle tomorrow afternoon.

On the eve of this make-or-break football natural, Tennessee, coached by a wily retired army officer, Maj. Bob Neyland, ruled a slight favorite over Alabama, directed by Frank Thomas.

Seats All Sold.

At the close of light limbering up drills this afternoon, both coaches announced they would start their strongest lineups, indicating they intended to roll up their sleeves and let the chips—championship and Bowl hopes—fall where they may. Tickets and hotel rooms were not to be had. The 36,000 seats were all sold.

It is the twenty-first meeting between Alabama and Tennessee since their football relationship began in 1901. Over the entire period Alabama has won twelve, Tennessee six and two were deadlocks. But tomorrow's argument is the rubber game between Thomas and Neyland. Their teams have met seven times, each getting three verdicts. One game was a scoreless tie.

"We fully realize we are playing the south's outstanding team," said Skipper Thomas. "We are not in the best of physical condition for such a test. However, I feel the Alabama team will give all they have. Inexperience of some of our sophomores might be the deciding factor."

Alabama to Start 2 Sophs.

Alabama will have two sophomores in its starting back field. Half Back Jimmy Nelson, fleet footed ball carrier who starred in the Tide's 7 to 6 triumph over Fordham, is one. John Hanson will work at full back. Tennessee's starting back field, headed by George Cafego, is the same that defeated Alabama, 13 to 0, last season. Neyland has a sophomore, Johnny Butler, who is expected to see plenty of action.

Michigan Lays Siege Today to Fort Stagg

Harvard horror, displayed a grim determination which may immortalize them as another suicide battalion by tomorrow night.

Gen. Shaughnessy's tactics of the last week indicate that strategy is the only salvation of his woefully undermanned force.

To this end the Maroon leader has shifted Co-Capt. Bob Wasem from right end and full back to right half. Wasem, who was cited for bravery as a sophomore end in the 1937 Michigan battle, fought against Harvard as a full back. Dick Lounsbury, the basketball player who received his gridiron baptism of fire in the Harvard game as a left end, will start at right tackle. Walt Maurovich, a tackle, will open fire at guard. Bob Howard, one of the garrison's major casualties, may start at full back. One note of cheer at Fort Stagg was the reënlistment of Hugh Rendleman, 215 pound tackle, who signed up for another hitch last Monday.

Wartime conditions prevailed on the Midway tonight as the inhabitants prepared to meet the morrow's siege. The department of defense, censured in this week's press for its unpreparedness against Harvard, was taking every precaution.

Circle Is Blacked Out.

The Circle, long a rendezvous for town strollers, was in darkness tonight. The young folks of the village staged a demonstration outside of Hutchinson hall after an announcement that they would be put on rations during the siege—one hot dog and one candy bar per head. The thirty-six year old "C" bench outside of Cobb hall was reinforced with sandbags by volunteer workmen when it was reported that Crisler might send the Harmon bombing squad over for an early morning raid.

Hubbell Signs for 1940, and at His Own Figure

New York, Oct. 20 (AP).—Receipt of a signed contract for the 1940 season from Carl Hubbell, veteran Giant southpaw, was announced today by club officials. Hubbell, who won 11 and lost 9 games last season, signed for considerably less than the $22,000 he was paid for this year's work. The club sent him a blank contract and told him to write in his own figures.

Lane Defeats Waller, 21-13, for 4th in Row

Lane Tech, defending north section champion, scored its fourth consecutive victory in the Public High School league by defeating Waller, 21 to 13, in Winnemac park yesterday. It was Waller's fourth setback.

Lane Tech scored twice in the second quarter and again in the third, Pippen, Gill and Schmidt going over the Waller goal line for the champions. Waller led, 7 to 0, on a touchdown by Woods in the first quarter and Aberham added the second score in the final period.

Farragut and Englewood triumphed in two other league games. Farragut swamped McKinley, 33 to 0, in a west section contest on Spencer field, while Englewood won from Phillips, 2 to 0, in a central zone game in Normal park.

Half Back Knafl led Farragut's attack against McKinley, scoring three touchdowns. Hoack contributed the longest run of the game, dashing forty yards for a touchdown in the second period. The safety which gave Englewood victory over Phillips was made in the final quarter.

Illinois Has Hope; Indiana Is the Favorite

think, Coach Bob Zuppke will pull another rabbit out of his hat just as he has done on numerous other occasions when least expected.

What has the Illini worried is one Harold Hursh, a junior Hoosier half back, who loves to throw. They call him Hurling Hal and the appendage is no exaggeration. The statisticians claim Hal has been responsible for 414 Indiana yards this year by tossing 28 complete passes out of a total of 51 efforts. His throws have accounted for more than half the Hoosiers' gains and for four of their seven touchdowns. If Bo McMillin's aggregation succeeds in eluding the jinx which for years has dogged them on the local turf, Hurling Hal's arm probably will be responsible.

Patches Illini Lineup.

The Illini, unless Zuppke develops fresh strategy overnight, will start off with a lineup slightly patched up as the result of wear and tear. Cliff Peterson, regular full back, is carrying wounds picked up in the California invasion. Bob Thomases, regular right tackle, remains in the invalid class. Bill Lenich, first string center who just before the battle with the Trojans became the victim of a supposedly harmless dummy scrimmage, probably will not be able to function. Somebody fell on him and injured a rib.

Capt. Mel Brewer, left guard, went to a hospital for treatment for a sore throat tonight. If he is not able to play George Bernhardt or Wes Martin will start. Both are senior letter men.

Illini to Start Five Sophs.

Conditions being what they are, Zuppke will start at least five sophomores, three of them in the back field. Maybe this doesn't disturb the little Dutchman. If memory serves us correctly it was Zup who, in a humorous moment, once remarked: "I'll take sophomores any time. They don't know anything but are willing to be taught. Seniors know everything so refuse to learn." Now that he really has the sophomores on his hands Zup may have changed his mind.

WRIGHT VS. MORTON.

The Wright college football team will play Morton college in Cicero today. Morton will try to stop Wright's march toward a third consecutive championship and to avenge last year's shutout.

STAGG'S ELEVEN IS BEATEN BY WARNER'S, 13-3

San Jose State Rallies to Whip Pacific.

Stockton, Cal., Oct. 20 [Special].—Pop Warner's San José State eleven outpowered a lighter but fighting College of Pacific team, coached by A. A. Stagg, 13 to 3, tonight.

The game, matching the teams of the two famous coaches, Stagg celebrating his golden anniversary in the game and Warner his 44th year, drew a capacity crowd of 15,000. Pacific counted first with a field goal in the first period, but San José scored in the second and fourth period on smashing drives led by Full Back Leroy Zimmerman.

ARMY AND YALE TO MEET TODAY BEFORE 60,000

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 20 [Special].—An undefeated Army eleven, escorted by the cadet corps, will take the field here tomorrow against a Yale team which has broken even in two games. A crowd of 60,000 is expected.

Predictions tonight were for a close game because of the rapid improvement of the Yale defense this week. This may overcome the superior early season showing of Army.

The game will be the 37th in a series begun in 1893. Yale has won 19, Army 9, and 8 have been tied. Ideal weather is predicted.

MANY FOREIGN PRODUCERS SHUN TUNGSTEN BIDS

Apparently Await Higher Prices from War.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20 (AP).—China and Cuba were the only foreign countries which offered today to sell the United States chromium and tungsten ore to stock up the army and navy.

East and South Africa, the Philippines, Turkey, and New Caledonia, all major chromium sources, spurned the bid invitation of the United States, apparently because they believe they can get better prices from countries already at war.

The metals are important in the manufacture of steel alloys, essential to mechanized warfare.

Russian Bid Made.

Yesterday, when the government opened bids on manganese ore, another important steel alloy, Russia was the principal foreign bidder, but hinged its offer with conditions termed "impossible" by American trade sources.

The United States Chrome Mines, Inc., San Francisco, offered 51,000 tons of chromium ore at approximately $1,785,000 from mines in this country. The only other chromium bid was from Alaskan mines by Dorothea Reddy Moroney of San Francisco, who offered to sell varying amounts up to 45,000 tons at $1,575,000.

The Wah Chang Trading corporation of New York offered to sell 425 tons of Chinese tungsten at a price of $31.68 a unit [each unit represents one-hundredth of a ton], or 150 tons of tungsten mined in this country at $24.50 a unit.

Cuba Makes Offer.

From Cuba the Pan-American Tungsten corporation offered 425 tons at $23.50 a unit, and from domestic mines the Metal and Ore corporation of New York offered up to 425 tons at $25 a unit.

China has been the most important United States source of tungsten in the past. Other producers which failed to bid included Chile, Argentina, Bolivia, the Malay States, and South Africa.

Today's bids and yesterday's manganese offers were conducted under a $100,000,000 authorization of the last congress to stock up the army and navy on "critical" war materials which are normally obtained from foreign countries and therefore might be difficult to obtain if this country was at war.

The next bids on war supplies will be on pig tin on Nov. 6.

OCEAN WAR RISK RATES TO MANY POINTS REDUCED

New York, Oct. 20 [Special].—War risk insurance rates covering cargo shipments to the east, far east, and to points in this hemisphere were reduced 25 cents to as much as $2 for each $100 of cargo value on some routes and increased by 25 cents on others, by marine underwriters today. The new schedule also sets up separate classifications for risks for certain areas in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, Puget sound, and on trips from Canada to Atlantic and Gulf ports, the West Indies, north coast of South America, Central America, and the Hawaiian islands.

All except two of the rate reductions were on schedules affecting cargo carried in belligerent flag vessels. Biggest cut was $2 on the intercoastal rate applying to the war risk insurance on belligerent ships traveling between North America [Atlantic and Pacific coasts] and South America [Atlantic coast south of Paramaribo and Pacific coasts west of Buenaventure]. The new rate is $1 per $100 value.

PLANE MAKER REPORTS LARGE EARNINGS GAIN

Wrigley's Net Profit Also Increases.

Continued improvement in earnings was shown yesterday by many leading companies reporting results of operations in the quarter and nine months ended Sept. 30.

North American Aviation, Inc., reported earnings of $5,049,617 during the nine months, compared with $1,014,491 in the corresponding period last year. J. H. Kindelberger, president of the company, said sales of $20,995,993 in the latest period contrasted with sales of $5,946,987 in the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1938. Unfilled orders on Sept. 30 totaled $27,048,762, against $14,805,173 a year ago. The company, with headquarters and plant at Inglewood, Cal., is one of the leading manufacturers of aircraft.

Wrigley Earns More.

William Wrigley Jr. company and subsidiaries, Chicago manufacturer of chewing gum, announced earnings of $2,204,623 for the September quarter. Per share income was $1.12. Earnings were $2,081,880, or $1.06 a share, a year ago. Nine months' income totaled $6,763,632, or $3.45 a share, against $5,464,485, or $2.79 a share.

Procter & Gamble company reported the second largest quarterly earnings in the company's history. Net income for the three months ended Sept. 30, excluding earnings of subsidiary companies in England and Canada, amounted to $6,951,841. Profit was $6,097,510 in the corresponding period last year. The company is the largest domestic producer of soap, glycerin, and foodstuffs made from vegetable oils.

Continental Baking company and subsidiaries, largest bread baking enterprise in the United States, had earnings of $1,125,118, or $1.11 a share, in the 13 weeks ended Sept. 30, compared with $1,092,757, or $1.00 a share, in 1938. During the 39 weeks ended Sept. 30 earnings declined to $2,948,923, or $1.86 a share, from $3,170,271, or $2.62 a share, in 1938.

Noblitt Profits Rise.

Indicated profit of Noblitt-Sparks Industries, Inc., for the September quarter was $179,611, equal to 76 cents a share. In the three months ended Sept. 30, 1938, earnings amounted to $140,824, or 74 cents a share. The company manufactures automobile accessories and radios. Its general offices are at Columbus, Ind.

For the first nine months earnings rose to $512,008, equal to $2.16 a share, from $46,483, or 24 cents a share, in the similar period last year. Harlan Foulke, vice president, said the company's business is continuing "at a satisfactory rate and the outlook for the fourth quarter is favorable."

Truscon Steel company, which is controled by Republic Steel corporation, reported earnings of $181,832 for the September quarter. The company had net loss of $280,993 in the third quarter last year and net income of $143,531 in the preceding three months. Indicated nine months' earnings amounted to $345,781, against net loss of $880,268 in the first nine months last year.

Cleveland Cliffs Improves.

Reflecting the current upturn in the ore and shipping industry, Cleveland Cliffs Iron company reported net income for the Sept. 30 quarter, subject to audit, was $1,505,505 after federal income tax, depreciation, depletion, and interest charges, compared with $329,820 in the same quarter last year. Profit for the first nine months was $1,679,184 against $207,562 last year.

Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company, maker of automotive products and railroad equipment at Philadelphia, had net loss of $401,854 in the September quarter, compared with loss of $546,825 in the third quarter of 1938. For the nine months net loss declined to $126,920 from $1,577,027.

In a statement accompanying the earnings report to stockholders, the company said results of operations in the third quarter reflected expenses incurred in the change over to production of 1940 model automobile bodies. Its railway division is building six new streamlined trains which will go into New York-Florida service before Jan. 1. The statement predicted substantial gains during the coming months.

Subsidiary Has Gain.

A subsidiary of the company, Budd Wheel company, showed earnings of $33,761, or 3 cents a share, for the September quarter, against net loss of $223,021 in the third quarter last year. For the nine months earnings totaled $310,035, or 30 cents a share, compared with net loss of $588,245 in the corresponding 1938 period.

Underwood Elliott-Fisher company, large manufacturer of business machines, reported earnings of $298,540, or 41 cents a share, for the September quarter. This contrasted with $269,299, or 37 cents a share, in the third quarter last year. Nine months' income declined to $1,159,459, or $1.58 a share, from $1,198,242, or $1.63 a share, in the initial nine months of the preceding year.

E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. announced in a pamphlet statement consolidated net income for the first nine months was nearly double that of the corresponding period of 1938. Earnings totaled $62,798,244, or $5.19 a share, compared with $31,288,318, or $2.31 a share. Earnings for the September quarter climbed to $22,926,709, equal after debenture and preferred stock requirements, to $1.91 a share. In the three months ended Sept. 30, 1938, net income was $12,350,713, or 95 cents a share.

France Places Big American Truck Order

France has placed a big order for American trucks, it was disclosed yesterday in New York, and is inquiring for many more, or at least 5,000.

Paul G. Hoffman says Studebaker orders beyond capacity.

One company was reported to have taken an order for 2,000 2½ ton trucks, with a value of about $3,500,000. Delivery is to be completed in the first quarter next year. It was said that payment would be made in cash at the time delivery is made on the shipping dock. The identity of the company was not disclosed, but General Motors Truck company was reported to have obtained the order.

Studebaker to Get Order.

Maurice Garreau-Dombasle, commercial counselor to the French embassy and in charge of French war purchases in the United States, said a contract has been signed, or is about to be signed, with the Studebaker corporation for an undisclosed number of automobile trucks.

Paul G. Hoffman, president of Studebaker, reached by telephone in South Bend yesterday, said any comment on the French truck order would have to come from French officials.

Discussing Studebakers' passenger car business, he said factory executives are facing the unusual problem of trying to fill orders beyond current production capacity. Hoffman said the New York show, with attendance running about 35 per cent above last year, was a great sales success.

Among the difficulties in the way of the placing of larger orders has been the inability of some of the parts companies to delivery supplies to the truck manufacturers. One manufacturer supplying parts to leading producers said steel deliveries required at least 60 days and another 15 to 30 days were needed to machine the steel. As a result it is almost impossible to promise deliveries earlier than 90 days from now.

Rail Orders Placed.

Railroad orders continued to contribute to the nation's industrial expansion. The Rock Island placed an order for 1,000 cars with the Pressed Steel Car company and the Great Northern ordered 750 ore cars from the same builder. The Great Northern ordered a like amount of ore cars from the Bethlehem Steel company. The Texas and Pacific is reported in the market for 500 cars.

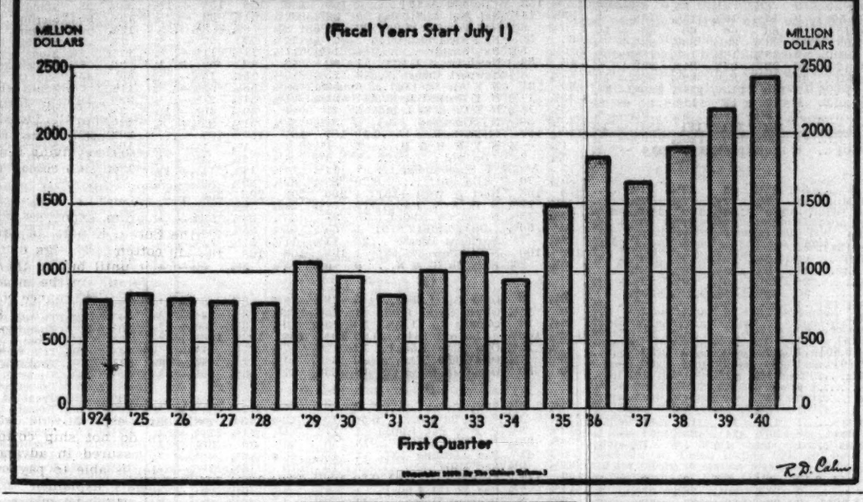
Railway Age said that an analysis of freight car loadings in recent weeks indicated that the long deferred revival in the heavy industries may have started. September carloadings showed a 19 per cent gain over September, 1938, it said, or in actual figures a gain of 600,847 cars.

"Comparing September, 1939, with September, 1938, there were gains of 222,105 cars in miscellaneous traffic; 141,813 cars in ore, 140,215 cars in coal, 29,183 cars in grain and grain products, 22,011 in merchandise, 19,249 in forest products, and 10,101 in live stock," the paper said. "The large increases in coal and ore carloadings may well indicate the long deferred revival in our heavy industries."

Air Line Reports Heavy Early Travel to Florida

New York, Oct. 20 [Special].—Marking the opening of the earliest Florida season in the history of air transport facilities to that state, Eastern Air Lines dispatched a second section of the Florida Flyer to Miami tonight, Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, president, announced. Never before has demand for air travel caused Eastern Air Lines to operate double sections of the Florida Flyer as early as October. Air travel is breaking all-time company records, Rickenbacker said.

Total Expenditures of the U. S. Government in the First Quarter of Each Year



Earnings Rise 48 Pct. for 80 Big Concerns

New York, Oct. 20 (AP).—The first 80 large American corporations to report for the third quarter of this year showed combined profits 48 per cent above those of the corresponding period of 1938, and 20 per cent greater than in the second quarter of 1939.

An Associated Press compilation today revealed aggregate net profit for the 80 concerns in the three months ended Sept. 30 was $113,653,000, compared with $76,783,000 in the parallel months last year.

Up 28 Per Cent Without A. T. and T.

Excluding American Telephone and Telegraph company—the size of its income weights the compilation heavily—third quarter profits were 28 per cent larger than in the June quarter and 68 per cent ahead of the third quarter last year.

Net income of the 80 companies for the nine months ended Sept. 30 amounted to $297,297,000, an increase of 31 per cent over the corresponding period of 1938. Excluding A. T. & T., earnings for the nine months showed a gain of 50 per cent over last year.

Eleven steel manufacturers reported third quarter net profit of $5,441,000, compared with $2,368,000 in the preceding three months and with a loss of $2,926,000 in the third quarter a year ago.

Eight food companies earned $9,521,000 in the September quarter, a gain of 22 per cent over the June quarter and 11 per cent larger than a year ago.

Mining Income Improves.

Net income of five mining companies aggregated $2,158,000, compared with $2,055,000 in the preceding quarter and $2,034,000 in the corresponding 1938 period.

Profits of five automobile accessory manufacturers fell to $752,000, from $1,144,000 in the preceding three months, but made a favorable showing when compared with a deficit of $400,000 in the third quarter last year.

Three electrical equipment manufacturers earned $11,551,000, a drop of 12 per cent from the quarter before, but 95 per cent greater than a year ago.

Exempt Hybrid Seed Corn Workers from Hours Rule

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20 [Special]. The wage and hour division of the department of labor toray announced partial exemption of workers who process hybrid seed corn from the hours provisions of the fair labor standards act. The division held that the industry is seasonal, and permitted workers to be employed 12 hours a day, or 56 hours a week, without overtime pay for a 14 week period.

LOWLY BUTCHER SHOP IS RAISED TO STATUS OF BEAUTY PARLOR

The true American beauty parlor is the butcher shop, it was asserted yesterday by Hugo Slotkin in a speech at the convention of the Institute of American Meat Packers at the Drake hotel.

Slotkin made it clear he did not expect the ladies to rush to butcher shops for beauty aids, but asserted that, assuming health to be the foundation of beauty, the products of the packer should be considered more important than those of the cosmetician.

He urged meat packers to return to bulk merchandising for more sales. Sales of packaged bacon, he said in support of that plan, have reached an all-time peak, but total bacon sales are down 25 per cent.

Slotkin, vice president of Hygrade Food Products corporation, New York, advised more showmanship in meat displays. Meat costs, he said, could be lowered by utilization of by-products to a greater extent. He also urged the entire industry to unite in a nation-wide program of advertising to tell the public of the health values of meat.

RAILROADS CUT LOSSES IN HALF FOR 8 MONTHS

Class 1 railroads in the United States halved their corresponding 1938 losses in the first eight months of this year, the Association of American Railroads announced yesterday. The roads' combined net loss for the period was $74,647,000, against one of $182,725,000 in the first eight months of 1938.

The carriers recorded combined net income of $10,053,000 in August, however, against a net loss of $1,181,000 in the 1938 month. Net operating income, before fixed charges, totaled $54,586,000 in August, compared with $45,422,000 a year ago.

Net operating income, before fixed charges, of railroads reporting yesterday, follow:

	September. 1939.	1938.
Nickel Plate	$ 1,105,326	$ 614,883

CHICAGO RESERVE DISTRICT STORE SALES RISE 16 PCT.

Department store sales in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district continued to gain in the week ended Oct. 14. Trade in the area was 16.4 per cent higher than in the corresponding week of 1938, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday.

With sales up 8.8 per cent over the 1938 level in the preceding week, business in the four week period ended Oct. 14 was 12.9 per cent higher than a year ago.

Chicago store sales advanced 13.7 per cent during the week and for the four week period showed a gain of 10.6 per cent over the 1938 level.

National department store sales increased 9 per cent over the 1938 levels both during the week and the four week period.

Florida Orange Shipments to Chicago Show Big Gain

Shipments of Florida oranges to Chicago have doubled in the last two years, the Florida Citrus commission reported yesterday. During the 1938-'39 season, Chicago received 3,142 cars, compared to 1,386 in the season two years earlier. The Chicago market absorbed 10,420 cars of oranges, grapefruit, and other citrus last season from Florida and other states, compared with 8,455 cars a year earlier and 7,746 in 1936-'37.

Jewel Tea Sales Spurt 7 Pct. in 4 Week Period

The Jewel Tea company yesterday reported sales for the four weeks ended Oct. 7 at an increase of 7.3 per cent over the corresponding period a year ago. Sales for the period were $1,955,122, against $1,822,781 a year ago. Sales for the first 40 weeks of 1939 were $18,604,442, against $18,051,878 in 1938, showing an increase of 3 per cent. Sales of compa-

Profit Taking Curbs Rise in Commodities

Selling entered the silk market at New York yesterday after four days of advancing prices on three of which new 9 year peaks were registered. Final prices for the No. 1 contract were 4 to 8 cents a pound below Thursday's close, and No. 2 futures finished 5 to 6 cents lower.

Cash silk, which had advanced from $3.14 a pound Saturday to $3.47 Thursday, dropped back to $3.46½. The selling, brokers said, was partly profit-taking. Hosiery interests were reported preparing to advance prices if raw silk continued its climb.

Italian Shipments Increase.

A Reuters [British] news agency dispatch from Rome said deliveries of Italian silk to American factories have averaged more than 32,000 bales a month this year and are increasing daily. Italy produces from 4 to 8 per cent of the world's silk crop.

Japanese interests were reported still attempting to buy refined copper in the United States. Trade reports said they have already acquired the 5,000 tons sought earlier this week. Yesterday it was understood they bought some copper at 12.87½ cents a pound. The quotation for domestic business was still 12½ cents. New York copper futures closed unchanged to 0.04 cent a pound higher. Copper sales to domestic consumers thus far in October total 50,306 tons, compared with 161,627 tons in the corresponding period of September.

Tin Prices Advance.

Tin was one of the few commodities to move upward, with futures closing ¼ to 1½ cents a pound higher. The International Tin Research and Development council reported world stocks of tin at the end of September totaled 39,000 long tons, compared with 34,608 at the end of August and 52,768 on Sept. 30, 1938.

Sugar futures recorded small gains. The price situation in refined and raw sugars remained unchanged.

Rubber futures declined 0.18 to 0.47 cent a pound and cash crude rubber dropped ¼ cent. Hides were prominent on the downside with futures slumping 0.37 to 0.42 cent a pound. Wool tops, cocoa, cottonseed oil, and both coffee contracts also closed lower.

GRANT PAY BOOST TO BE HELD FOR PAID VACATIONS

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 20 (AP).—The Caterpillar Tractor company today announced a 4 per cent wage increase for all hourly pay roll employés, effective Oct. 29.

The increase, however, will not be paid to the workers directly, company officials announced. It will be held in trust by the company to provide each worker with a two weeks' vacation with pay, or to provide a severance bonus for all employés leaving the employ of the company prior to vacation.

Vacations with pay have been sought by employés of the company since August, 1937, with negotiations complicated by efforts of two unions, one a C. I. O. affiliate and the other an independent, to represent the workers as collective bargaining agents.

The wage boost affects approximately 9,600 workers, but does not apply to the so-called white collar workers on salary.

SCHEDULE NEW GAINS IN STEEL RATE NEXT WEEK

Steel production in the Youngstown district next week will again touch a new 10-year peak at 95 per cent of theoretical capacity, up 1 point from this week, trade reports indicated yesterday.

Of 83 open hearth furnaces in the district, 73 will be in operation next week. Employment in the major plants is still on the upgrade and is close to, if not equal to the 1937 record.

Pittsburgh district production is virtually at practical capacity, with the rate estimated at 91 or 92 per cent. Birmingham district operations will jump four points next week to 94 per cent of capacity.

The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company will reopen another ore mine Nov. 1. The action will put all the company's ore and coal mines in production.

Dow-Jones dispatches from London said it is expected that British steel prices will be raised substantially at the beginning of November.

NATION WARNED OF WAR THREAT TO DEMOCRACY

Hartz Cites Danger of Socialism.

St. Louis, Oct. 20 [Special].—Participation of America in the European war would probably mean the end of our system of private enterprise and perhaps the destruction of our democracy, W. Homer Hartz of Chicago, president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, said here today. Hartz, who is president of the Morden Frog and Crossing works, spoke before the southern division of the association.

W. Homer Hartz.

"It is inevitable," he declared, "that in the event this country becomes involved in war, the movement toward state socialism which has grown so rapidly in recent years will gain so much momentum that the complete socialism of industry will be accomplished.

Responsibility of All.

"The primary responsibility of every individual in this country who is sincerely interested in preserving the advantages of our system of government should be to coöperate in the effort to keep this country out of war."

Hartz said that an examination of the changes in relationship between government and industry that have taken place since the World war should indicate what might be expected to result from entry in the present war. In 1914 the individual was considered supreme in this country and the private enterprise system was given every encouragement by the government. Now the individual, to a large degree, is subordinated to the state and business has been regimented to a substantial degree," he said.

New Controls Established.

"In 1914 there was little artificial control of production or prices either by individuals or governments," Hartz said. "At present, most basic commodities are subject to national or group control in order to limit output and hold up prices.

"In 1914, the United States believed in hard work; now the prevailing philosophy is to avoid hard work and to depend on the state for a living.

"In something like 250 fields, the government is competing with private business—banking, manufacturing, loans, real estate, public utilities, building construction, agriculture and numerous other fields.

"Burocracy reigns rampant in the federal administration. There are nearly 250 bureaus, boards, commissions, administrations, corporations and other pay roll enterprises—a gain of nearly 300 per cent over those which existed in 1914."

Opposed to War.

Although the manufacturers believe that nothing should be left undone to put our country in position to defend itself against any aggression, he said they are thoroly against war

"The opposition of industry to war," Hartz declared, "is not only predicated upon the natural hatred of industrial executives for any program which endangers the lives of millions of human beings, including their sons and relatives, but also upon the recognition of industrial executives that there can be no real or lasting gain to anyone from war."

Hartz said the national debt was increased by approximately 25 billion dollars as a result of the World War and that the tax burden caused by this debt put a check on business enterprise. This contributed to business stagnation, with accompanying unemployment, he said.

Foreigners Holding Less United States Steel Stock

New York, Oct. 20 [Special].—Of the 8,703,252 common shares of the United States Steel corporation outstanding on Sept. 30, foreign holdings were 833,244 shares, compared with 841,965 on June 30.

SUPREME COURT TEST OF COAL CONTROL ACT DELAYED TWO WEEKS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20 (AP).—The Supreme court today postponed for two weeks arguments on constitutionality of provisions of the 1937 bituminous coal act authorizing establishment of minimum prices. Arguments were scheduled for today, but cases ahead of it took more time than expected.

The act was challenged by Atlanta, Ga., on the grounds that the price of the coal it buys would be increased and this would be an "unconstitutional interference with the city's essential governmental functions."

Atlanta appealed from a ruling sustaining the legislation by the federal district court for the District of Columbia. This is the first case involving constitutionality of the act to come before the high tribunal.

The law, intended to stabilize the bituminous coal industry, was passed as a substitute for the 1935 Guffey act declared unconstitutional by the Supreme court. The government told the court in a brief that the price fixing provisions of the 1937 act "are in substance the same" as those contained in the 1935 measure.

Guard Health of Employes, Expert Urges

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 20 (AP).—Industrial leaders were told today that they should adopt a national health program for their employés. Dr. C. D. Selby, medical consultant for the General Motors corporation, Detroit, Mich., in a report before the closing meeting of the American Public Health association, declared that the health of employés is a direct concern of employers from an economic standpoint as well as the humanitarian.

"Relatively few manufacturing establishments have the benefit of expert guidance" and "a large proportion of the workers is employed in plants which are served by general practitioners who have little knowledge of occupational disease exposures and are not interested in them, but prefer only to treat injuries," he said.

Germs Cause "Strike."

However, if industrial concerns would carry out a program to take care of appendicitis, cancer, pneumonia, anemia, and the communicable diseases as well as injuries, then many of the injuries might be prevented and the workman would be better able to perform his job, Dr. Selby declared. Officials in industry do not realize that the "slowdown strike" technique has been in use by disease germs for hundreds of years to cripple entire manufacturing plants, he said.

Every industry should have competent physicians working with research organizations to study and treat the ordinary diseases among workers and also to study harmful materials, operations, processes, and working environments which slow down a worker both physically and mentally, Dr. Selby declared. In the long run it would prove profitable, he argued.

Much Research Work Done.

"Back of this program, and contributing greatly to it, is an immense amount of research work" done by the United States public health service, state bureaus of industrial hygiene, universities, and "a scattering of physicians" who have developed helpful knowledge in disease control for industries if they will only reach out and make use of it, he said.

To a large degree the study of diseases which result from the occupation of the worker is the basis for the treatment of all diseases, Dr. Selby said, because it brings a doctor into a home, not only to treat the worker, but also to find cases of chronic or acute conditions in members of his family.

CAA FIXES NEW MAIL PAY RATE FOR AIR LINE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21 (AP).—The civil aeronautics authority today fixed new rates of air mail compensation for Pennsylvania-Central Airlines.

Officials said the new changes would result in some increase in the compensation of Pennsylvania-Central on its present volume of business. They did not, however, make any specific estimates.

The new rates, effective Nov. 1, use the actual mileage basis rather than the system under which the carrier received weight credits for some trips, instead of compensation for actual mileage flown.

Buys 10 New Planes.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 20 (AP).—The Pennsylvania-Central Airlines announced today the purchase of 10 new Douglas transport planes for a "capital fleet" to be used on its Detroit-Cleveland - Pittsburgh - Washington-Norfolk lines. Six of the 12 ton, 180 mile an hour craft are to be delivered next month and the remaining four by march. The ships will carry 21 passengers and a crew of three.

SALES OF AUTOS IN SEPTEMBER 46 PCT. ABOVE '38

September automobile sales, including passenger cars and trucks, totaled 169,741 units, a 46 per cent gain over September, 1938, the Automobile Manufacturers' association announced yesterday. Passenger car sales alone totaled 139,660, a 54 per cent gain over 1938, and truck sales totaled 30,081, a 17 per cent increase.

For the first nine months sales totaled 2,347,865 units, a 42 per cent increase over 1938. Passenger car sales totaled 1,955,941, a gain of 46 per cent, and truck sales totaled 391,924, up 29 per cent.

Because of Chrysler labor troubles, automobile production this week showed a moderate decline from last week, Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc., estimated. The total was 74,114 units, compared with 75,860 last week and 59,860 in 1938. Ward's said that current demand is in excess of production.

London Orders Enough Fire Hose to Circle City

Akron, O., Oct. 20 (AP).—Two British government orders for sufficient fire hose to stretch all the way around London were disclosed today by the B. F. Goodrich company. The plant is manufacturing 120 miles of the hose to protect London against fires from incendiary bombs.

Production of Cigarets Increase in September

Cigaret production in September totaled 14,789,904,810, compared with 14,710,970,947 last year, the bureau of internal revenue reported yesterday.

NATIONAL DEBT SETS NEW PEAK NEAR 41 BILLION

Gold Reserves Pass 17 Billions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—The federal treasury has chalked up two records—new highs in the federal debt and in gold reserves—the treasury statement of Oct. 18 disclosed today.

Against a federal debt of 40 billion 963 million dollars, the government could stack up its 16 billion 997 million dollars in gold holdings—largest for any nation in history and totaling well over half of the world's known monetary reserves. Since this statement is two days behind, the gold holdings have presumably passed the 17 billion dollar mark by this time.

[The Federal Reserve Bank of New York has recorded gold imports of approximately a million and a half dollars for Thursday and Friday.]

Debt to Pass 41 Billions.

Within the next week the debt will also have crossed the 41 billion dollar level in its approach to the 45 billion maximum limit placed by law on the direct federal debt.

The statement showed a jump of 58 millions in the debt overnight. This was accounted for principally by the treasury borrowing of 150 millions in 91 day discount bills, while maturities in similar bills for the week were only 100 million. The treasury's pocket money and debt were thus increased by 50 millions.

The treasury is slated to borrow another 150 millions next week, which will push the debt to another high. The increased weekly borrowing to help finance the federal deficit is expected to continue indefinitely, inasmuch as Secretary Morgenthau has indicated his aim to maintain the treasury's working balance around its current level. It is now 1 billion 266 million dollars.

RFC and CCC Debt Excluded.

The debt does not include 5 billion 356 million dollars in indirect obligations of the treasury which are classified as "contingent liabilities." They consist of securities issued by various government agencies such as the Reconstruction Finance corporation and Commodity Credit corporation, with principal and interest guaranteed by the treasury.

The direct debt is now 524 million dollars higher than at the beginning of the current fiscal year on July 1 and about 2½ billion dollars higher than a year ago.

For the fiscal year to date the treasury has taken in 1 billion 630 million dollars and spent 2 billion 921 million dollars, leaving a deficit of 1 billion 291 million dollars. In the corresponding period of last year the deficit was 997 million dollars.

Hit 14 Billions Year Ago.

It was just a year ago that the treasury reported a new high of 14 billion dollars in the gold reserve, which was an increase of 2 billions in the 16 months from June, 1937, to October, 1938. The increase in the last year has been 3 billions. The hoard is cached in an especially constructed vault at Fort Knox, Ky., and in the federal reserve banks and mints. The largest portion, however, is buried in Fort Knox.

The tremendous increase within the last year reflected world developments which encouraged the sale of gold to the United States on a two-fold basis—the attractive American price of $35 an ounce to all sellers and the need of a safe custodian for Europe's fortunes. Recurring crises which ended in war brought a sharp rise in gold cargoes headed for American ports.

The department of commerce reported today that gold imports in the week ended Oct. 13 totaled $11,849,230, which compared with $17,718,948 in the preceding week. For the first time in more than a year Italy was among the major shippers, sending $1,975,156. Norway sent $2,236,360, and the United Kingdom $2,301,606.

GENERAL MOTORS TRIAL SPEEDED; HEAR 52 TESTIFY

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 20 (AP).—Fifty-two witnesses from 20 states had come and gone in Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley's courtroom when the General Motors conspiracy trial finished its second week today. The progress of the case has been so rapid that some attorneys said it might be completed in two months instead of three, the original estimate.

General Motors, three affiliates, and 17 officials are charged with conspiring to restrain trade by forcing their dealers to assign most of their financing business to General Motors Acceptance corporation, a defendant.

One of today's witnesses, W. J. Stolz of St. Louis, testified he never had any trouble with the Chevrolet Motor company until 1925, when all dealers in St. Louis were told they would have to use GMAC. Stolz described a conversation with a Chevrolet representative in which he said he was informed, "You'll have to do what we tell you or else——"

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 20.—The stock market moved fractionally lower in dull trading today as many traders took to the sidelines for the week-end. A total of 786,880 shares was traded.

Observers said that the financial district chose to ignore cheerful business news in the face of confusing reports on the European situation.

The list started on a steady note, held within fractions of yesterday's finals during the morning, then moved lower. Closing prices generally were near the lows for the day.

Aviation shares, bright spots in the last two sessions, met opposition today, but losses in most cases were limited to fractions. Douglas lost nearly 2 points.

United States Steel, Bethlehem, and other steel stocks dragged thruout. Losses ranged to about a point. In the motors, Chrysler continued to be weighed down by the union labor trouble and gave up nearly a point. General Motors and other auto stocks lost minor fractions. Greyhound proved an exception for ¼ point.

Representative oil, copper, and chemical shares ruled fractionally lower for the most part. Several merchandising issues, notably Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward, pushed higher. Associated Dry Goods second preferred jumped more than 3 points after declaration of the first preferred dividend.

Rail shares dipped fractionally in line with the general list.

Arrangement is being made for the sale of the exchange seat of Adrian Ettinger, who recently pleaded guilty to evasion of the federal income tax law in Cleveland, at $62,000. The last sale on Sept. 27 was at $70,000.

New York Bonds.

New York, Oct. 20 (AP).—United States governments moved ahead in the bond market today, leaving other portions of the list milling erratically behind. Action of trading the federals had gained an average of one-half point each in fairly active trading, while corporates had broken about even.

Foreign government dollar loans followed, to some extent, the lead of the United States issues. Substantial advances were scored by French, Italian, Australian, Danish, and Norwegian issues.

Gains of 3 and 6 points, respectively, were registered by Poland 8s and 6s on one sale each.

Among the corporate issues the utilities did by far the best, while rails and industrials generally declined slightly.

Chicago Stocks.

Most volume leaders moved lower on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Trading was light. Elgin National Watch added ⅞ point at 23⅝, a new high for the year. Rath Packing, Schwitzer - Cummins, and Signode Steel preferred and common were the other issues that touched new high marks.

Commonwealth Edison, most active issue, lost ⅛ at 30⅛. Aviation corporation, Borg - Warner, North American Car, and Libby, McNeill & Libby ended fractionally lower. Peabody Coal and Great Lakes Dredge advanced.

The exchange ruled that Abbott Laboratories common will sell ex rights Oct. 25. The rights, which entitle stockholders to subscribe for additional common shares on the basis of 1-10 share for each share held, will be admitted to "when issued" dealings on Monday.

Bank Stocks.

The bid prices of Chicago bank stocks were unchanged from the previous close in yesterday's trading. Prices follow:

KROGER GROCERY DECLARES EXTRA DIVIDEND OF 25c

Neptune Meter Pays All Accumulations.

Directors of the Kroger Grocery and Baking company yesterday declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 40 cents. Both are payable Dec. 1. Similar distributions were made Sept. 1. Total dividends paid or declared by the company for 1939 amount to $1.50 a share, while a total of $1.90 was paid last year.

Neptune Meter company cleared up all arrears on the 8 per cent preferred stock with the declaration of two dividends of $2 each, payable Oct. 27 and Nov. 15, respectively. The latter payment is the regular quarterly dividend due at that time.

Columbia Halves Payment.

Columbia Pictures corporation directors voted to pay only 34¾ cents a share Nov. 15 on the $2.75 convertible preferred stock. A dividend of 68¾ cents will be due on that date. The management announced that only half of the regular dividend will be paid, due largely to disturbed European conditions which may affect earnings adversely.

Campbell, Wyant and Cannon Foundry company resumed dividends on the common stock with the declaration of 20 cents payable Nov. 24, the first dividend since 25 cents was paid Feb. 26, 1938. The latter payment was the only one last year.

Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation declared a dividend of 35 cents a share on common stock, payable Dec. 1. An interim dividend of 25 cents was paid June 1 this year. Last year the company paid 25 cents on June 1 and 35 cents on Dec. 1.

NU-ENAMEL.

What does Nu-Enamel corporation do? Please give me some information on their earnings and finances.—S. V.

Answer: Nu-Enamel corporation, incorporated in 1935 in Delaware, manufactures and sells enamels, paints, and varnishes. Distribution is made thru about 250 of the company's own stores and approximately 3,000 retail stores. Products are also sold in several foreign countries.

Net income, earnings a share, and dividends paid a share since incorporation:

Year.	Net income.	Earned.	Paid.
1935	$246,620	$1.23	$0.75
1936	241,533	0.81	*0.82½
1937	†116,780	†0.39	0.45
1938	83,151	0.28	.....

*Plus a stock dividend of 25 per cent.
†Loss.

In the six months ended June 30 net income was $54,231, or 17 cents a share, against $58,909, or 20 cents a share, in the same period last year. No dividends have been declared so far this year.

There is no funded debt. Current assets totaled $493,636 and current liabilities $212,939 at Dec. 31, 1938. There are 325,000 outstanding shares of $1 par common stock. It is speculative.

NO EXPRESS.

What sort of business does the Adams Express company do?—K. D.

Answer: Adams Express company started as an express and money order business, but is now an investment company of the general management type. It does not conduct any express business.

BROKERS' LOANS.

How much of the stock market rise in September was based on credit? In other words, what were brokers' loans at the end of the month?—S. N.

Answer: Brokers' loans on the New York Stock exchange decreased to $467,059,867 at Sept. 30, 1939, from $508,577,554 on Aug. 31, 1939. Loans on Sept. 30, 1938, amounted to $524,202,538.

In view of the sharp stock market upturn in September these figures have been quite interesting to close followers of the market. They indicate that the upturn was not based upon extending margin accounts, but on cash buying. Observers think this means that some of the country's idle money was put to work.

As a matter of fact brokers' loans at Sept. 30 were the lowest they have been at the end of any month for several years.
